U. S. ACTS AGAINST PASCHEN

HOUSE PASSES MUSCLE SHOALS BILL, 216 TO 153

Senate Is Certain to Approve Measure.

Extra Bonus Session?

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special]—President Hoover sent word to the senate today that he would veto the bonus loan not later than next Thursday. At the same time rumors spread through the senate that the President's veto message would contain a threat that if his veto were overridden he would be obliged to call an extra session shortly after March 4 to vote means of raising money to finance the loan plan. Some observers were of the belief that this threat might cause congress to sustain the veto.

[Details of dispatch on page 8.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special]—The house of representatives did its part today to put the United States government into business at Muscle Shoals.

The house adopted the Muscle Shoals conference report by a vote of 216 to 153—a vote which will send the measure to an assured passage in the senate tomorrow, but lacking a majority large enough to pass the bill over a presidential veto.

Time to Negotiate Lease.

According to the opponents of the bill as it came out of conference only one provision stands in the way of government operation of the Muscle Shoals power plant and of the nitrate plants, as well. That provision grants to President a year's time to negotiate a lease of the nitrate plants to private interests, but on terms, it is claimed, which are so unattractive that no lessee will want to take the plants over.

What action President Hoover will take is not known. He has expressed himself on former occasions as opposed to such a proposition as is contained in the bill. The administration house leaders voted against the bill. On the other hand, Representative B. Carroll Reece [Rep., Tenn.], who henceforth has represented the administration's viewpoint on Muscle Shoals, cast his vote in favor of the report's adoption.

And it is pointed out that the President has this further factor to consider, that the bill contains some sort of saving clause, but that a Muscle Shoals bill passed by the next congress, with the administration majority pared to the thinnest possible edge, might readily be farther reaching than the present one.

198 Republicans Vote No.

The vote on the conference report showed the Democratic representatives balloting almost solidly in favor of adoption.

Representatives Douglas [Ariz.], Linthicum [Md.], and Palmisano [Md.] were the only Democrats to vote against the report, while 198 voted in its favor.

On the Republican side 150 voted against the conference report, and 47 for it. Among those who voted in favor of the report were:

Representative Kvale [Farmer-Labor, Minn.], voted for the measure.

Some Vehement Arguments.

Should the President see fit to veto the bill he should be safe in the house. With all the members recorded, 146 votes are necessary to sustain a veto.

The debate preceding the roll call brought out vehement arguments against the bill's passage.

Topping them all, perhaps, was the address with which Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.] closed his speech. He pointed out that from first to last Muscle Shoals would cost the country some 280 million dollars; that some German experts had once surveyed the nitrate plants and had said they couldn't afford to run them even though they got them as a gift. Then he concluded:

Might Blow Up Plants.

"It would be better for the government, instead of pouring in more money to operate these plants, to buy a magazine of powder and blow 'em to hell."

THOMPSON CITY HALL OFFICIAL IN INCOME QUIZ

This became known yesterday following the holding of a secret and final hearing in the office of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson on the Paschen case, which has been under investigation by agents of the special intelligence unit, internal revenue department, for almost two years.

This hearing, it is said, was one of a series that are always given accused persons in income tax cases before their indictment. After the final hearing, action by the grand jury has heretofore followed within a few weeks.

Gangsters Are Punished.

The investigation of Paschen's income is a part of District Attorney Johnson's victorious campaign against politicians and gangsters. Through the income tax weapon, Capone gang leaders have felt the weight of Uncle Sam's hand. Ralph Capone, brother of Al; Jack Guzik, and Frank Nitti have all been convicted of tax frauds. Terry Druggan and Frank Lake are also under conviction on their pleas of guilty. There are reports that the government is preparing to bring Al Capone himself to book for tax dodging.

The district attorney's campaign has also been effective against politicians. The presentment of charges against Paschen would be in line with Mr. Johnson's desire, announced early in his first term, to expose what he called a cross section of "official gangsterism."

Reaching Into City Hall.

In fulfilling this desire, Mr. Johnson has procured the indictment of several contractors on income tax charges that are based on alleged corruption in the sanitary district. In the county building, the government has convicted County Assessor Gene Oliver who is now on the point of being sent to federal prison. The state legislature was represented in the conviction of State Senator Lawrence C. O'Brien. In presenting charges against Paschen, Mr. Johnson is reaching into the city hall.

Neither the district attorney nor his battery of prosecutors and agents of the revenue department who attended yesterday's hearing on the Paschen case would make any comment. It was learned, however, that Paschen, who did not appear, was represented by four attorneys: Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court; James A. O'Callaghan, income tax expert of the firm of Litsinger, Healy & Reid; W. W. Burns, and Arthur Reibert. Mr. Reibert is an income tax expert from Washington, D. C.

Hearings in Washington.

Paschen had been given hearings before the general counsel of the revenue bureau at Washington and his attorneys made a vigorous fight, according to reports, to convince the officials that he is not criminally liable. This pressure, it is reported, has been met with equal determination on the part of the United States attorney's office.

The years for which Paschen's income taxes are said to be disputed are 1927 and 1928 and he is reported to have received an income of more than half a million dollars for those years. During those years, as now, he was Thompson's building commissioner. The government contends that he owes more than $100,000 in taxes, according to reports.

Bribery Charges Made.

Thompson's building commissioner has previously been under fire in various official proceedings. In a civil suit last April charges that bribes were solicited and paid in his office were made by Jules K. Masse, a draftsman. Masse testified that $50,000 had to his knowledge been paid to the commissioner's office for approval of building plans.

William Nichols was named as the go-between for Paschen's office by Masse. Nichols, a salesman, was the alleged tax fixer for Gene Oliver, and $42,000 worth of "tax adjusting" checks were made out in his name.

In Cuneo Tower Enterprise.

Paschen balked first at a mandate and then at an ordinance of the city council ordering him to revoke a permit for the proposed 60 story Cuneo tower. He demurred even after his duty was stated by the corporation

FIRE AND BLASTS DAMAGE STORE; WOMEN ROUTED

Fire, followed by several explosions, damaged a hardware store at 533 East 43d street last night and routed five women, one of whom was slightly injured, from a beauty school on the floor above.

The blaze occurred in the store of Samuel Korn, who lives at 1235 South Avers avenue, and exploded several small cans of naphtha and gasoline, which shattered windows in adjoining stores and shops. The blasts frightened Mrs. Myrtle Reed and Mrs. Estelle Scott, sisters, of 519 East 42d street, the owners of the Scott Beauty school upstairs, and drove them and three students to the street. Mrs. Reed tripped on the stairs and was bruised. The students are Mrs. Rose Rankins, Miss Sarah Nightingale, and Mrs. Mary Cummings.

Battles Jury Raiders; Says: 'I Pay Police'

Investigators for the state's attorney's office conducting raids in the Englewood district, where policemen have been accused of grafting, were attacked and beaten last night by an irate speakeasy proprietor who resisted arrest. He declared he had paid his protection regularly and for that reason could not be molested by the police.

The investigators, Arthur Wachholz and Robert Bennett, wearing state's attorney's stars on the lapels of their coats, entered the speakeasy at 814 West 71st street and found the proprietor, Julian J. Vlamynck, serving drinks to two customers at the bar. They identified themselves and told Vlamynck that he was under arrest.

"Don't be funny," said the proprietor, "you can't arrest me."

He Pays His Protection.

When they insisted that he submit to arrest Vlamynck came out from behind the bar and confronted them, cursing.

"Listen, you dirty bums," the investigators quote him as saying. "How do you get that way? I pay my protection. The captain in this district is my friend. If you don't get out I'll get your job and it'll be too bad for the police department."

Words led to blows and Vlamynck pommeled Wachholz and seized him by the throat, choking him, while Bennett and Wachholz endeavored to release his hold. He was finally subdued and taken to an outlying police station. The two customers, who identified themselves as live stock brokers, were released.

Find Stock of Liquor.

In the two room speakeasy the state's attorney's men found 18 cases of whisky, a quantity of bottled beer, and more than a hundred bottles of brandy, cointreau, absinthe, grenadine, and other assorted liquors, they said.

Sergt. Michael Ahern announced that Vlamynck, in view of his open admission that he had paid graft to the city police, would be taken before the special grand jury next Wednesday to testify in connection with the investigation of the Englewood police district, commanded by Capt. Michael Lee.

The grand jury investigation on Thursday developed a dispute between Acting Police Commissioner Alcock and Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller over Alcock's refusal to suspend the seven policemen from the Englewood district who declined to sign immunity waivers and testify before the grand jury after accusations of grafting had been made against them. The men are Sergt. John J. Feery, Detective Fred B. Kelly, and Policemen Joseph O'Brien, Ira L. O'Hara, Patrick J. Nolan, Owen Small, and Louis Starr.

Capt. Lee was questioned yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher at the federal building. The captain responded to an invitation to call on Mr. Fisher and discuss conditions in the district.

Capt. Lee said that, considering conditions, his district was as clean as it could be. He said his lieutenants and other subordinates had reported to him that they had visited each place raided by the state's attorney's men and had found no evidence on which to base arrests.

WORK FOR 450,000 IN 30 DAYS, HOOVER SAYS, ON U. S. CONSTRUCTION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—President Hoover said today 450,000 persons would be working on government construction projects within the next thirty days.

The figure was compared by the President with 150,000 persons who were employed on construction work prior to the depression.

In addition to the work now under contract President Hoover said that in most of the current appropriation bills before congress there is a clause making any construction appropriation immediately available.

"This will make available," he said, "aproximately 500 millions more in case it is needed. Some of it, of course, will not be used, but it will be there for use if necessary."

HUGO C. FISHER, POLITICIAN, HELD FOR BOGUS CHECK

Hugo C. Fisher, 43 years old, of 459 Roslyn place, Deneen candidate for coroner in the 1928 primary, was arrested last night by Town Hall police on a warrant charging forgery of a $1,700 check. The complainant is Charles Nelson, cashier of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company.

Fisher was taken into custody at Sheridan road and Broadway by Policemen John Peterson, Clarence Sweeney, and George Niles. According to the policemen, Fisher had been sought for more than a year, his trail being followed by private detectives as far as Miami. Fisher was locked up.

Fisher entered the race for coroner as an independent and was given the support of the Deneen Republican faction against the then incumbent, Oscar Wolff.

Vessel Battling Storm Burns Distress Signals

Boston, Mass., Feb. 20.—(AP)—An unidentified vessel, believed to be a fishing schooner, was burning distress signals tonight five miles east-northeast of Highland light, Cape Cod. The commander of the coast guard patrol sent help to the craft. The storm was unabated off the cape tonight and a heavy sea was running.

Hold Wounded Suspect After Holdup Battle

A bandit and his intended victim were shot and killed and a second gunman was believed to have been wounded in a close range revolver battle following an attempted holdup of the soft drink parlor and restaurant at 600 North Kedzie avenue late yesterday. It was the second major robbery shooting of the day, two clerks of a North avenue tobacco factory having been wounded earlier by bandit bullets.

The slain robber was identified as Richard Alexander, 28 years old, of 2231 Flournoy street. He was shot in the abdomen. His victim was Benjamin Vaughn, 58 years old, a tailor and Spanish-American war veteran of 548 North St. Louis avenue. He was struck in the head by a bullet from Alexander's pistol.

Bandits Draw Guns.

Several minutes before the gun battle, Alexander and two young companions entered the soft drink parlor. Vaughn sat at a table eating. Behind the bar stood Silvio Quilici, 1520 North Lorel avenue, the waiter. Alexander ordered three bottles of near beer, which he and his accomplices drank. After a few words with Quilici about the weather Alexander suddenly drew a revolver and shouted: "Let's go!" His companions drew revolvers and commanded Quilici and Vaughn to march to the rear.

As Vaughn rose he wheeled quickly, drew a gun, and began firing. In a moment three other shots rang out. Vaughn slumped to the floor dead, his revolver falling beneath him. Alexander, wounded, leaped through the plate glass window of the front door, followed by his pals, and staggered around the building to the rear, where he collapsed and died. The other two men boarded a car and sped away as Frank Stell, 1424 Lucy street, a coal driver, looked on. Capt. Gregory Moran and Lieut. Ollie Hoffman of the Austin avenue station reached the scene shortly afterward.

Wounded Youth Arrested.

Half an hour later, Thomas Raia, 19 years old, 2842 Lexington street, was arrested in the Norwegian American hospital, where he was taken suffering from a bullet wound over the heart. Earlier he had approached his uncle, Joseph Citrona, 1042 North Trumbull avenue. In the rear of 657 Fulton street, and told him he had been wounded. Citrona took him to the hospital. Raia told police he was shot while walking in Kedzie avenue near Van Buren street. To other questions he was defiant.

According to Lieut. Walter Storms, Raia admitted loitering in a corner store near Alexander's home, and the police believed he might have been wounded by Vaughn. Storms said that two cartridges in Vaughn's revolver had been discharged, and that only one bullet, that which killed Alexander, had been accounted for. Later Quilici and Stell, the coal man, viewed Raia at the hospital, and said he resembled one of the bandits.

William Fleming, 3007 Lexington street, told the police that Raia and Alexander were associates. Sergts. Charles Reynolds and Frank Donohue, ballistic experts of the coroner's office, said that Raia had been shot with a .32 caliber revolver, the type of weapon used by Vaughn. Raia, however, persisted in his denials that he knew Alexander or was involved in the battle.

Two Shot Resisting Gunmen.

In the other holdup shooting, Louis Tutansky, 21 years old, 3249 West 16th street, and Samuel Zukor, 18 years old, 3351 Ogden avenue, were wounded when they resisted one of two gunmen who invaded the offices of the Max Udelowish Cigar company at 2457 West North avenue. They were

LYLE CHARGES SUBWAY DEAL TO CHEAT LABOR

FOR MAYOR

[For the Republican nomination.]

☒ JOHN H. LYLE

BY PARKE BROWN.

Disregarding fresh last minute attacks on his private life by his opponents, Judge Lyle devoted his principal mayoralty campaign speech yesterday to an exposition of the program he will follow if he is elected.

The schedule of procedure he read to a noonday audience at the Apollo theater consisted of twenty-five definite steps he said he would take as a real beginning toward giving Chicago the sort of municipal government to which he said it is entitled.

He took only one direct slap—outside of his attack on crime, which he repeated in abbreviated form—at the present city administration. That was a definite charge that the city hall is trying "for reasons of its own" to turn subway construction over to New York contractors.

Charges Outside Subway Deal.

"Thompson," he said in this connection, "professes to be a friend of Chicago labor and loses no opportunity to boast of his alleged desire to furnish employment during these periods of depression. As a matter of fact, neither he nor his subordinates in the city hall have any genuine interest in Chicago labor.

"Thompson and Faherty are right now planning, for reasons of their own, to put the construction of a subway system in Chicago into the hands of outside contractors, which necessarily would mean the importation of an operating staff of workmen when the subway construction begins.

"It has been difficult, if not impossible, for Chicago contractors to secure copies of Faherty's subway plans. The reason for this difficulty is in my possession and I pass it along to the people of Chicago and particularly to the laboring people in order that they may understand the false pretenses of the present city administration.

Four N. Y. Concerns to Bid.

"Engineer Ridgway, who, by the way, was also imported from New York, has gone to New York and placed four copies of the subway plans in the possession of four New York contracting concerns with instructions to bid on the construction of Chicago subways.

"This fact shows in blazing light the dishonesty and insincerity of Thompson's attitude toward Chicago employment. Let him answer or let Mike Faherty answer, if they dare, as to why New York firms were called on to bid upon subway construction while Chicago contracting firms are not even allowed access to the subway plans.

"I charge deliberately that it is Faherty's purpose, for reasons which only he could explain, to let the subway contract to New York contractors. By doing this he will rob Chicago contractors and Chicago workingmen of an opportunity to take part in the building of the Chicago subway."

Lyle's Mayoralty Program.

The mayoralty program which Judge Lyle read to his audience follows:

1. Immediate appointment of a civilian nonpolitical chief of police, who will order the 6,000 policemen to suppress and drive out gangsters.

2. Appointment of a competent, fearless civil service commission which will fire dishonest and inefficient policemen and promote the meritorious.

3. With the aid of public spirited business men and bankers who have advanced millions on tax anticipation warrants to enable the city to function, I will select at once an outstanding and competent man as city controller.

To Start Graft Hunt.

4. The new controller will make a complete survey of the municipal government, from one end of the city hall to the other, for the purpose of discovering [a] where millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money have gone; [b] who got it; [c] who are on the pay rolls, where they work, and those who do not, and [d] why the city is not getting as much for $5 as a private corporation gets for $1.50.

5. The appointment, at once, of an able, honest corporation counsel. This is necessary because of contracts in the making and letting that have to do with $350,000,000 in improvement work.

6. Appointment of a president and members of the board of local improvements with the aid and assistance of the Chicago plan commission and the Western Society of Engineers. This is intensely important because of the completion of the subway, extension of street car lines, widening of streets, and other great improvements, totaling in the neighborhood of $350,000,000, considerable of which has to do with the anticipation of the World's Fair.

7. The public welfare department in order that it may more effectively and efficiently function in behalf of women and children especially, and heads of families who are out of employment, should be headed by a practical charitable and social worker of the type of Jane Addams and Harriett Vittum.

8. Establishment of a scientific budget system for keeping appropriations within the city revenues.

9. Select department heads for their ability; require departmental coöperation and encourage suggestions for improving all departments.

10. Insist on courtesy to the public from all city officials and employés, including the police.

11. Insist that the inherent rights of citizens be respected at all times.

12. Help Chicago realize its natural position as the aviation center of the United States.

13. Compel the department of public service to be what its name implies, a medium for relations between the public and the utility companies.

Make Chicago a Real Port.

14. Develop the port of Chicago and speed the completion of harbor facilities.

15. Award all contracts to competent contractors on competitive bids, with no rakeoff for politicians.

16. Take the public schools out of politics and enlarge school facilities, including new buildings, as rapidly as possible.

17. Eliminate graft from street repairs, street cleaning, and garbage collection.

18. Eliminate duplication of efforts and urge consolidation of governmental activities wherever consistent.

19. Appoint a health commissioner of the highest standing in his profession, and keep politics absolutely out of the health department. No city in the world should excel Chicago in its public health activities.

20. Appoint a building commissioner who will operate the department without graft; revise the building code, and observe the zoning laws without favoritism or special privileges.

Efficiency in Public Works.

21. Appoint a competent commissioner of public works who will operate the many activities of that important department on the highest standard of efficiency.

22. Install honesty in the purchasing department. Buy city supplies on a business basis and on competitive bids.

23. Conduct the House of Correction on humanitarian lines without pampering or privileges to any prisoners.

24. See that an honest system of weights and measures is in operation in Chicago.

25. Place the best available specialists in charge of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and see that that institution gives the best possible treatment to sufferers from the white plague, and does not become a boarding house for persons with influence.

Union Leader Raps Thompson.

In a speech at Valentine hall, 103d and Church streets, Steve C. Sumner, secretary-treasurer of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, told of his friendship with Judge Lyle "for more than a quarter of a century." He criticized Thompson.

"Bill, with the elephant, jackass, and other paraphernalia," Sumner said, "forgot to include a monkey in his show to symbolize the people of whom he is still making monkeys.

"Is it possible that after the many years of misrule workingmen and women will vote for Thompson?"

ALBERT BLAMES THOMPSON FOR HIGH TAX BILLS

Estimates City's Loss on Paving at $5,000,000.

New examples of waste and extravagance in municipal contracts were cited by Ald. Arthur F. Albert yesterday as he continued his attack on Mayor Thompson, who, he has charged, is largely responsible for high tax bills in Chicago.

"City contracts, with graft and boodle, are the cause of the tax raises," he told a radio audience last night. "Only complete eradication of Thompson and his gang, whether it is still with him or is operating under some other banner, can halt this drive against the pocketbooks of the voters of Chicago."

Sees $5,000,000 Paving Loss.

The city's loss on paving contracts last year was estimated by Ald. Albert at $5,000,000, due to the operation of "crooked contractors' rings" whose prices have been double those charged in other communities.

"Here is an example," he said. "A year ago last January the board of local improvements let a contract for paving of Barry avenue at $3.90 a square yard. Just a few weeks later the contract for a better grade of paving was let in the adjacent suburb of River Grove at $1.98 a square yard."

Albert told of the owner of a bungalow in Englewood who, in 1923, paid a tax bill of $143.45. The next year it was increased $8.87, and $16.14 more was added in the next two years. In 1927 the bill was increased $54.44 more, and on the last tax bill issued the total was $280.16, or another increase of $57.06.

Gains in the Greek, Swedish, and Italian districts were claimed at the Albert headquarters yesterday. Indorsements of several officials of organizations representing these groups were made public.

Fairweather Attacks Lyle.

The Albert forces also made much of a letter from George O. Fairweather, assistant business manager of the University of Chicago, bristling with invectives against Judge Lyle and indorsing Albert. Fairweather told of attending a burlesque show at the State-Congress theater with the judge, whom he described as "a patron of, an habitue in, a former attorney of, and a former stockholder if not a present stockholder in, the lowest cheap burlesque theaters in Chicago."

The Fairweather charges were the same as those submitted several weeks ago by Jacob D. Allen, campaign manager for Albert, to the Better Government association. The association made an investigation and found that Judge Lyle at one time before his election to the bench in 1924 was attorney for Morris Froelich, manager of several enterprises, including the State-Congress theater, but that he had no other connection with the theater. The association determined that Judge Lyle is not and has never been a stockholder in the theater.

Referring to the charges against Judge Lyle, including that regarding the theater, the Better Government association reported that all "were given ample consideration and found to be unsupported, irrelevant, and partisan."

Mr. Froelich last night substantiated the facts as brought out by the association and described the Fairweather story as the "most nonsensical thing I ever heard." He said he had produced his records before the association to disprove the charges and would produce them again if necessary. Judge Lyle once was his attorney, he said, and there his relations with the State-Congress theater ended.

Schmidt Forces Invite Vets.

The George K. Schmidt Ex-Service Men's league yesterday invited former service men to attend a smoker at Washington hall, 19 West Adams street. Capt. Al F. Obrill, chairman, declared in his invitation that Schmidt is the only candidate who has promised to appoint an ex-service man in his cabinet.

Schmidt spoke last night at three gatherings.

Notes of the Mayoralty Campaign

There will be three Lyle speeches on the radio tonight. Judge Lyle will speak over WBBM at 8 o'clock, Judson F. Going will speak in his behalf over WHFC at 5 p. m., and Ald. John Hoellen will talk for him over WCFL at 8:10. Ald. Albert will speak over WCFL at 7:15. George K. Schmidt will talk over WBBM at 9:45.

Democratic ward and precinct captains assert that as much as $3 a vote is being offered by Thompson leaders on the west side and that the usual offer in the Negro wards is $1 a vote.

John A. Patten, son of the late James A. Patten, will fly over the city in his biplane today or Monday dropping Lyle leaflets.

A demonstration of Boy Scouts will feature a Lyle massmeeting at the Herzl school in the Twenty-fourth ward tomorrow afternoon. Paul Rothenberg, Republican committeeman, has been urging the voters to support Lyle for the sake of their children.

After being laid up for two days a badly battered Lyle supporter walked into the Hotel La Salle headquarters yesterday to say that after he sang a song for the judge at a Dreamland meeting he was beaten and kicked on his way home.

The first detachment of volunteer Lyle speakers, who talk at street corners from trucks and cars, began their work last night. Their speeches dwelt most emphatically upon the necessity for breaking up "the organized gangs of gunmen and plunderers which have disgraced Chicago." Their slogan was: "Let Lyle finish the job!"

"DUMMY" PUT ON CANAL PAY ROLL, LEGISLATOR SAYS

A story of how a state legislator placed a "dummy" on the pay roll of the sanitary district's legal department while he scouted about for a suitable person to fill the job was related yesterday before Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor. Judge Taylor is sitting as commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court to hear the charges of the Chicago Bar association that 55 of the district's lawyers during the whoopee régime of Timothy J. Crowe accepted money without giving service.

John G. Garriott Jr., a member of the legislature, admitted on the witness stand that he placed the name of his brother-in-law, F. Hugh Miller, on the pay roll on September of 1927. He said that he had been told by a ward committeeman that he had some patronage due him as a legislator, so he put Miller's name on the pay roll until he could find an attorney to fill the position.

Miller was also called to the stand and declared that he did not know that he had been on the district's pay roll until the bar association's investigation was started. He said that Garriott gave him a sanitary district check for $150 and told him that it was a gift. He later returned the money, he said.

CERMAK URGES NECESSITY OF CITY CLEANUP

Invites G. O. P. Votes Into Democrat Primary.

Anton J. Cermak, Democratic mayoralty candidate, addressed himself to Republican voters last night in speeches to meetings in the 32d and 42d wards and over the radio. The burden of his remarks was an expression of thanks to those Republicans who voted with the Democratic party last fall and the suggestion that they continue their "efforts for the purging of this community" by taking part in the Democratic primary on Tuesday.

The 32d ward meeting was held at 1042 North Damen avenue and the meeting in the 42d ward at 1016 North Dearborn street.

His Message to oYters.

"Because of the intensive fight for the mayoralty nomination in the Republican party," Mr. Cermak said, "I fear that perhaps the Democratic issues may have been lost sight of and that is why I have added radio broadcasting to my program of speaking in all wards in Chicago.

"To the Republican voter I have only to say that 'this is your fight, not ours,' and to the Democratic voter I want to point out that the selection of a Republican candidate for mayor is emphatically a Republican family affair in which no Democrat should meddle.

Asks Aid of G. O. P. Ballots.

"The Republicans started to clean house last fall and I believe that the rank and file of Republican voters are capable of handling this situation themselves. I feel that it is only proper that as leader of the Democratic party I should thank those Republicans who voted with our party last fall and ask those who feel so inclined to continue their efforts for the purging of this community, as was started at the last election, by taking part in the Democratic primary Tuesday."

The Democrats will hold a Washington's birthday celebration this noon at a luncheon in the Steuben club, where Judge James J. Kelly will be the principal speaker. Mr. Cermak and Ex-Governor Edward F. Dunne will also talk.

On Monday the Democrats will celebrate the return to Chicago of Senator-elect James Hamilton Lewis, who will arrive in the morning from Arizona, where he has been for his health.

ASSASSINS FIRE ON BOOTLEGGER IN STREET CHASE

An attempt to assassinate or hijack an unidentified bootlegger was made in a wild automobile chase in South Damen avenue last night. One bullet from the would-be slayers' guns broke a store window.

The chase ended at 54th street when the bootlegger abandoned his machine and fled. Chicago Lawn police seized the machine. They found two bullet holes in the rear window, and one a few inches below in the tonneau. In the car were twenty-five five-gallon cans of alcohol. The absence of blood stains indicated the occupant was not wounded. According to police, the license on the car is issued to Frank De Rosa, 5334 Fletcher street.

From John Hrubec, owner of a cigar store at 1858 West 51st street, detectives learned of the gun chase. The automobile, Hrubec said, sped south in Damen avenue at high speed, followed by a large machine. Shots were fired from the pursuing car, he said. One bullet bored through a door transom of his store, Hrubec said.

AUDITOR FOUND DEAD BY GAS.

Lyle M. Stafford, 50 years old, of 334 Ashland avenue, River Forest, an auditor, was found dead by his wife yesterday in the basement of his home, where he had turned on the gas.

Stanton Gets New Court Delay in Gun Toting Case

A twelfth continuance was granted yesterday to Danny Stanton, Capone hoodlum, and his chauffeur, Edgar Smith, charged with gun toting and disorderly conduct, when their cases were called before Municipal Judge Justin F. McCarthy. The continuance, set for April 21, was allowed because Stanton and Smith are being held in the county jail pending the outcome of extradition proceedings to send them to Wisconsin to face trial for the murder of Jack Zuta, vice boss.

Spurned by Girl, He Kills Self as She Looks On

Unable to win the consent of Miss Violet Mitchell, 22 years old, 8461 Dorchester avenue, to marry him, Oscar Anderson, 27 years old, 4109 Ellis avenue, a chauffeur, yesterday drove his machine in front of the restaurant at 5058 Lake Park avenue where she works. As she looked on Anderson drew a revolver and fired a bullet into his brain. He died instantly. At the inquest Miss Mitchell told of refusing his proposals of marriage, and the coroner's jury returned a verdict that Anderson committed suicide while insane.

LYLE A DYNAMO IN DRIVE ON 28 'PUBLIC ENEMIES'

Crime Commission Praises His Court Actions.

"Into this critical situation (the war on organized crime) has come a judge of vigor and independence who has given voice to and made manifest the aspirations of the law abiding.

"He has been inclined to interpret legal technicalities in the interests of substantial criminal justice.

"He deserves the support of the decent citizenship of Chicago."

[From a statement to the people of Chicago by the Chicago Crime Commission on Oct. 23 urging the reelection of Judge John H. Lyle.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The campaign against Chicago's 28 "public enemies," begun last April by the crime commission as a specific tryout problem for the police and courts, has become a measurable success largely through the momentum given it by Judge Lyle during his terms in the Felony court.

While his jurisdiction was limited, he stretched his power to the utmost in making things uncomfortable for the gangsters brought before him. High bonds, restricted real estate bonds, a sweeping aside of technicalities of law, hard words and no mercy were in store for them there. Hoodlums cringed before him in many a dramatic scene.

Streets Safe for Gangsters.

"Legal technicalities, criminal politics and dishonest public officials have made the streets of Chicago safe for murdering gangsters," he said last September in appealing to juries to join the fight on the gangs.

"Here are a couple of yellow, cowardly hoodlums," he said when two members of the Aiello gang were brought before his bench on his vagrancy warrants. "They are afraid to face the court. I serve notice now that hereafter, unless a known gunman looks me in the eye, he's going to get six months in jail for contempt of court."

And to the bondsmen who offered to schedule property for the prisoners the judge said:

"You look like the type that would set gunmen loose on the streets. I have information that one of you runs a saloon. You're little better than the hoodlums you seek to protect. The state will investigate both of you on my orders."

Sets High Bond for Barry.

When "West Side Jack" Barry, a pal of "Fur" Sammons, was before him on burglary and vagrancy charges the judge set bonds of $150,000. He had before him Barry's record of two prison sentences and two convictions for vagrancy.

"That was when I was a kid and didn't have money to get justice," said Barry.

"You mean you didn't have money to buy your way out," said the judge. When Barry attempted to reply the judge snapped:

"Shut up."

How the Drive Started.

When the public enemy campaign was launched the crime commission sent the list, with a letter of suggestions, to the chief justice of the Criminal court, the chief justice of the Municipal court, the United States attorney, the state's attorney, the sheriff and the commissioner of police.

Commenting on results in its report of Jan. 15 last the commission says:

"Monthly reports were made to the officials designated concerning the status of the 28 'public enemies' and some progress was made, which developed into a vigorous campaign when Judge John H. Lyle was assigned to the felony branch of the Municipal court and issued vagrancy warrants for the entire list.

"The police department became suddenly energized to action; the United States attorney's office, which had been quietly acquiring evidence, began its forceful attack; the state's attorney's office assigned Messrs. Ditchburne and Brown and there was developed such a movement all along the line that the pressure became almost irresistible."

Present Status of "Enemies."

The present status of the 28 is as follows:

Two are dead at the hands of their own kind.

Three are serving penitentiary sentences.

Four are in jail or have been sentenced under other charges.

Two have pleaded guilty and are awaiting sentence.

Ten are under bail for trial.

Seven are fugitives.

In discussing the extralegal phases of such a drive the commission report says:

"Dealing with the exigencies of the hour it realizes that there are times when criminal justice must be based upon expediency, necessity and public peace; that in an abnormal crime situation normal institutions are not always workable. There is no other way to deal with a certain class of criminals than to break them to pieces or they will break you."

About Constitutional Rights.

It refers to the criticism that has come from many high sources during the last few years, "that the constitutional rights of criminals are given more consideration under our criminal code than the protection of the law abiding." And this:

"Some judges appear to be more concerned with administrative ritual than common sense; more concerned with the importance of statutory enactment than human rectitude. Omissions of form are to them far more heinous than moral offenses. Too many judges love the letter of the law and disregard the spirit.

"The commission has always had in mind the honor, the integrity and good faith of Chicago, but it has not hesitated to attempt a cleaning of its own house in order to prevent breeding spots of the disease of crime. It has dragged the facts of crime into the open in order to combat it rather than attempt to conceal the fact of crime by suppressing the information it has had."

JUDGE ASSAILS RIEGER, FINE IN CONSPIRACY CASE

Attorney Julius Rieger, brother of Attorney Louis Rieger, his counsel and a Thompson political supporter, and Attorney Lawrence M. Fine were denounced by Federal Judge Wilkerson yesterday at their trial for conspiracy to violate the bankrutpcy laws.

Rieger and Fine, with four other defendants, are charged with executing chattel mortgages on properties of the Chicago Beaux Arts Clubs, Inc., turning over the stock to the Elinor Gift Shop, and then selling the assets, allegedly concealed from the receiver in bankruptcy. The proceeds, between $15,000 and $20,000, "disappeared," in the words of the court.

Judge Wilkerson declared the case was one of the worst that ever came before him and said that such transactions could not be carried out without the advice of counsel. "The average layman is not astute enough," he said.

While Rieger was on the stand, Judge Wilkerson turned to him and inquired: "How do you justify your conduct as a lawyer?"

TAXES WILL STAY UP IF THOMPSON WINS, IS WARNING

Improvement Groups Rap Political Bunk.

There can be no letup in high taxes as long as Thompson is mayor, the Amalgamated Improvement Associations declared yesterday in a letter to the individual members of its constituent associations. The letter was signed by August Knickels, president, and was ratified by the Amalgamated associations at a regular meeting on Wednesday.

"The publicity bureau handling the candidacy of Thompson," begins the communication, "has issued a bulletin entitled 'High Taxes Mean High Rents,' which for accuracy equals the bulletin issued during Thompson's third campaign against King George and sponsored by a man who later confessed he had never read the subject matter.

Political Bunk Artists.

"The writers of Thompson's political 'bedtime' stories in this fourth campaign are the most reckless group of popagandists that ever tried to fool the voters of Chicago. Being satisfied with the result of the psychopathic campaign of 1927 against King George, they believe the average Chicagoan will believe anything, hence they have taken for their motto, 'Claim everything; we might get away with it, and since we have no right to claim anything all the more reason to claim everything.'

"The Thompson bulletin declares that 'with an equitable tax on personal property, revenue will be created which will tend to reduce real estate burdens 50 per cent.' It would have been more honest to say that by collecting a personal property tax from every one the tax spenders would have more to blow in. Having exhausted the ability of real estate to pay taxes it is now Thompson's demand that other taxes may be levied so that the city administration may have more to spend.

"Chicago doesn't need to raise more taxes. It needs economy on the part of the city administration."

Cites Higher Tax Rates.

The letter relates that immediately after his third term began Thompson demanded and got from the state legislature a higher tax rate for Chicago as well as an increased valuation upon which to issue bonds, and the budgets of the city and the board of education have gone higher and higher as the result.

"The real seat of all tax troubles," the letter continues, "lies in the ever increasing waste in government. One example of Thompsonian waste is found in the pay roll of city experts for last month when men who are considered mediocre in their professions were paid from $2,000 to $5,000 per month, or from $100 to $200 per day for services of doubtful value. The total pay roll for these experts as published in the daily press amounted to more than $900,000 for January alone.

"The extravagances of the city are reflected in the fact that in 1927, the first year of Thompson's present term, the rate was $1.63 per $100 as against $1.54 in 1926. The rates were then increased to $1.75 for 1928 and $2 for 1929. In 1930 they jumped to $2.33 and the 1931 rate will be $2.35. The board of education rates under Thompson's control were $1.52 for 1927, $1.53 for 1928, $2.04 for 1929, $1.99 for 1930 and in 1931 they will be $2.28.

Promise Comes Too Late.

"Many of the voters will recall that Thompson had a complete mental and physical vacation from the duties of mayor from May, 1928, until last October. It was during those thirty months that the tax problem became acute. Thompson's promise to fight for equitable taxes comes too late; the money was spent by his administration and now the people must pay. The taxpayers' only hope is for future economy under some new administration.

"High taxes do mean high rents, but high taxes come only through reckless and extravagant administration of public affairs. This Thompsonian demand for a personal property tax in order to get more money to spend will not reduce taxes, and the wage earner will pay. The only way to reduce taxes is to spend less money."

The letter to the affiliated organizations concluded with this paragraph: "Thompson has proven that he is a good spender of other people's money. If you don't believe it look at your tax bill and the city's share. There can be no letup in high taxes while Thompson is mayor of Chicago."

MANGANO IS ALLY OF SERRITELLA IN CITY HALL CAMP

Prosecutor Will Watch Gang in Election.

It was Dago Lawrence Mangano who made the remark at the detective bureau: "Us public enemies must stick together," and it is Dago Lawrence upon whom City Sealer Dan Serritella, a member of Thompson's cabinet, and Al Capone, "public enemy No. 1," were relying yesterday to deliver the public enemy vote of the west side to Mayor Thompson. Mangano's field is in part of the 27th ward and part of the "bloody" 20th ward.

Precaution for Primary.

The state's attorney's office was preparing yesterday to give especial attention next Tuesday to the Capone-Serritella faction of Mayor Thompson's supporters. Orders were issued to be watchful of the gangsters who follow the leadership of Mangano on the west side and it was said that Mangano would do his utmost to "deliver" for Thompson because he has a vagrancy trial coming up on Feb. 26, two days after the primary. Mangano was arrested on a warrant issued by Judge Lyle.

According to the prosecutor's office, Mangano was going full blast with his gambling house at 527 South Halsted street after Thompson returned to the mayor's office in 1927 and until Swanson became state's attorney two years later.

Blast Results in Death.

The resort was protected by an injunction and after Capt. Luke Garrick found a way of evading the injunction and raiding the place, Capt. Garrick's home was bombed and the shock resulted in the death of Mrs. Garrick a few days later. Since then, the prosecutor's assistants declare, Mangano has had a place in the Serritella-Capone wing of the Thompson administration beneficiaries.

It was when Mangano bailed out Tony Accardo, assistant to Machine Gun Jack McGurn, another public enemy, and a Capone executioner, that Mangano said, "Us public enemies must stick together; lets celebrate with a spaghetti dinner."

A refund of approximately $115,000, raised by the Chicago Association of Commerce to help finance the special grand jury investigation directed by Special Prosecutor Frank J. Loesch in 1928, will be made to the donors today, it was announced last night. Donors will receive back virtually 99 per cent of their contributions. A similar refund to lawyers who contributed will be made by the Chicago Bar association, it is understood.

Thompson Tells Meeting How He Made Friend of Jackass

Mayor Thompson yesterday made a noonday speech in the Adelphi theater. The audience had been told by previous speakers that the address was to be the most important of the closing days of the campaign.

Thompson spent five minutes describing how he had won the friendship of the jackass which is part of his circus and another ten minutes in a description of a boys' ice skating race. Much of the remainder of his time was devoted to a repetition of personalities about Judge Lyle.

Police Quartet Sings Him On.

A quartet consisting of four uniformed policemen was singing, as Thompson ambled on the stage, a carol which ran in part:

"The gang is feeling swell again,
"The mayor's coming back again.
"He was out for a while
"But he's back with a smile
"And he'll shove the others all about
"Just like they took his appendix out."

Thompson spoke in a hoarse murmur, barely distinguishable in the theater. Outside the amplifiers made his voice stronger. His gestures were few and perfunctory. After some preliminary remarks he began his narration of his friendship for the jackass, a rambling anecdote which left the house, packed with city employes, anxious to applaud, ill at ease.

His Audience Uncertain.

There was some furtive laughter, but during most of the talk the listeners were uncertain whether to laugh or applaud.

"I got a message one day a couple of weeks ago," said Thompson, "that a jackass had been sent on from New Mexico and was quartered in the bathroom of the mayor's office on the fifth floor of the city hall. (Laughter.) Well, I knew something about horses and cows and sheep from my experience as a cowboy, but jackasses were new to me. So on my way over to the hall I stopped and bought some peanuts and popcorn and a couple of apples. I wanted to be prepared.

"There was the jackass, right enough, and he ate everything I gave him. But the newspaper boys wanted to take a picture of him and they didn't want to take it in the bathroom. And, do you know, that jackass wouldn't leave the bathroom? (Laughter.) Every one there did his best to budge him. It was no use.

He Wooes and Finally Wins.

"So I went in there and put my arm around his neck. I spoke to him as if I was his friend. I told him I was his friend. And, finally, he came out of the bathroom when no one else could make him move!"

The narration of this happy incident so moved one of the supporters on the stage that he came forward and poured a glass of water for Thompson. Thompson glared at him.

"There are some people always trying to get into the limelight," Thompson remarked, glowering at the water bearer, who subsided with a red face. "If you'll all leave me alone, I'll get along all right."

Skating and the Kiddies.

Then Thompson began talking about the boys' skating race.

"Your mayor," he said, "has caused 400 ponds to be flooded each winter in Chicago. Some years ago we conducted a contest to see who were the eight best ice skaters among the school kiddies of Chicago. We picked a skating team which we sent forth to skate with teams from other cities.

"Do you know how many races those kiddies of ours won? Fourteen out of nineteen!"

He went into details of many of these contests while his hearers whispered to each other.

"I was sitting with Mayor Hylan of New York when our kiddies battled the New York kiddies," Thompson continued. "In the big race there was one Chicago kiddy entered. The first lap was even. In the second lap a New York kiddy went ahead."

Describes Race by Laps.

The description of the race continued at length. Third lap, fourth lap, fifth lap, sixth lap were described by Thompson with growing excitement.

"The seventh lap came," said Thompson, impressively. "The Chicago kiddy was behind. He cast all caution to the wind and sprang ahead. The turns on these laps were terrible and as the Chicago kiddy went into the lead he fell. A New York kiddy fell over him. Another and another kiddy fell on the pile until there was only one skater left. And he was a New York kiddy and he won the race."

This was something of an anticlimax. But the speaker had paused and the expected applause came.

Turns at Last to Campaign.

"Now this nutty judge who is a candidate against me is talking about me spending $100,000 for a rotogravure pamphlet telling about my achievements," said Thompson. "He says the contractors paid for it. He says contractor, contractor, contractor so much that I'm beginning to suspect that he thinks he's going to be mayor and wants to know what contractors will kick in.

"Well, do you think I'm going to tell him? He's crazier than I thought if he thinks that. It's none of his damn business."

At the end of the speech those on the stage crowded around Thompson for ear whispering and back slapping.

"Come along, come along," he said querulously, pushing his way toward an exit. "I've got to be going."

Mercury Stands Still 24 Hours; 40 Years' Record

A 40 year record for stationary temperature in Chicago was broken yesterday. The mercury reached 36 degrees above zero at 1 p. m., but it had remained at 35 for every hour during the 24 preceding hours, records of the weather bureau show. C. A. Donnel, the government meteorologist, ascribed the "extraordinary" condition to cloudiness and the fact that the wind remained off the lake. Little change in the temperature over the week-end is forecast.

SWANSON INVITES PROSECUTORS TO CRIME PARLEY

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday sent out invitations to more than 50 prosecutors in the metropolitan areas of the United States inviting them to attend a general anti-crime conference to be held in Chicago. He asked the state's attorneys to invite chiefs of police to join in the meeting.

"My experience, and that of those with whom I have come in contact, suggest that crime or law violators may be roughly divided into two classes," says the prosecutor's invitation: "First, those of purely local character; second, those who have gone into crime upon a large scale and have perfected either a nation-wide or partly nation-wide organization. In the second class it would seem that the only effective way that we can successfully cope with the problem is to organize those agencies enforcing the law in a more or less national alliance in keeping with the organization of the criminals."

The date for the conference will be set after Mr. Swanson receives replies from the various prosecutors.

JURORS ACQUIT WIFE TRIED FOR SLAYING RIVAL

Mrs. Josephine Kajawa, 36 years old, 5211 South Menard avenue, was acquitted of a murder charge yesterday by a jury in Judge Ross C. Hall's court after 16 hours of deliberation. She was charged with having shot and killed Mrs. Margaret Slombo, 35 years old, 5013 South Kilpatrick avenue, on May 25, 1930, because she thought Mrs. Slombo was too friendly with Mrs. Kajawa's husband.

Before returning the acquittal verdict the jurors asked Judge Hall if it would be possible under the law to convict Mrs. Kajawa of manslaughter and fix her punishment at three years in prison. When they were told this could not be done; that a manslaughter sentence is one to fourteen years, the not guilty verdict was agreed on.

ASSASSINS KILL KING ZOG'S AID; RULER ESCAPES

BY EMIL MAASS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 20.—King Zog of Albania, known as the most closely guarded monarch in the world, escaped assassination tonight as he left the Vienna state opera, where he had witnessed a performance of "Pagliacci" along with four members of his staff.

Maj. Lash Topolai, the king's adjutant and chief bodyguard, was killed when two young Albanian students opened fire with revolvers as the royal party emerged into the street. Col. Libahova, the king's minister of court, received a bullet in his hip and M. Lipozava, another bodyguard, was also wounded.

King Zog separated from his staff upon reaching the main exit. His officers left by a side exit. This, according to the police, probably saved the monarch's life, as the assailants, upon seeing the officers, blazed away. Nine shots were fired by the assassins.

King Flees Into Opera.

The king, who was about to enter his automobile, fled into the opera, where he was guarded by detectives.

Col. Libahova, despite his wound, drew his own pistol and returned the fire as the Albanians fled, shooting as they ran. Another one of their bullets tore through the colonel's hat.

Chauffeurs of a line of automobiles waiting at the curb for opera-goers knocked the fugitives down as they sped past and the crowd captured them. The assailants gave their names as Azis Karni and Nedge Gleboy, and declared they were students at the University of Vienna.

After the panic in front of the opera had subsided and the would-be assassins had been removed to jail, King Zog returned to his apartment in the imperial hotel, where he is staying incognito as Count Devalona.

Give Reasons for Act.

The prisoners admitted to police that their act had been inspired by political motives. Authorities believe others are involved in the attempted assassination and that another group was waiting around the corner of the opera house to fire at King Zog as soon as his automobile appeared.

King Zog came to Vienna Jan. 18 to be treated for irritation of the throat caused by too much smoking.

Many plots to kill Zog have been reported. He was wounded by a student in February, 1924, when he was prime minister of Albania.

Ever since the attempt to kill him in 1924 King Zog has been extremely cautious and has surrounded himself with bodyguards on all public appearances. His palace at Tirana is also closely guarded. Zog was elected president of the Albanian republic in 1925 and proclaimed king in September, 1928.

CLAIM ALFONSO'S COUP MAKES HIM A STRONGER KING

Foes to Decide Future Action Today.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, Feb. 20.—A monarchistic propaganda campaign is in full swing here. With the republican press, which succeeded in the five days the censorship was lifted to bring down the Berenguer government, more tightly muzzled than under the fallen premier, monarchist newspapers are heralding the new government of Premier Juan Aznar as the strongest in years.

ADMIRAL JUAN AZNAR. [Associated Press Photo.]

Court and bourse circles, which had the scare of their lives when the king called Sanchez Guerra to the premiership, are now trumpeting that in changing his mind King Alfonso acted with tremendous cleverness to beat the opposition, playing with them with rare finesse in order to win.

The monarchist press states that King Alfonso never really intended to give up his prerogatives during the proposed constitutional convention. It apparently forgets that if this were true, the fact that he was forced to make such play and finesse in such a dangerous manner is not to be minimized.

King Alfonso, it is understood, feels that the army, whatever may have been its temper in December, when it was said 27 garrisons were pledged to the revolutionists, is now completely loyal. No one here claims to know whether this is true. If so, it may keep the executive body of the Socialists and the general labor union, which hold their meeting tomorrow to decide on whether or not to call a general strike, from acting.

One pertinent question might well be asked: Was the rebellion smashed in December or afterward?

The jailing of the leaders does not imply that either the rebellion or the causes for it have disappeared. The republicans oppose the present government as they did Gen. Berenguer's, and the constitutionalists, although their prestige has suffered considerably, maintain the same attitude.

If the Socialists vote tomorrow to abstain from the coming elections, the renewal of the revolutionary movement is only a question of time.

The peseta rose rapidly today, as did shares on the bourse. This, the count of Romanones, the new minister of state, announced, demonstrates that the political situation is favorable.

HUNT UNIVERSITY HEAD MISSING ON WAY TO CHICAGO

A nation-wide search was begun last night for Don Francis Clougherty, 47 years old, a Benedictine monk and chancellor of the Catholic university of Peking, China, who disappeared in Toledo, O., Jan. 18, while supposedly bound for Chicago.

Several days before his disappearance Don Francis left Detroit for Toledo and was injured in an automobile accident. He entered a Toledo hospital Jan. 17. At that time he told attendants he was on his way to Chicago. The next day he left, leaving no word of his departure. Since then church authorities at Latrobe, Pa., headquarters of the order, have not heard from him.

Don Francis has been in China ten years. Recently he came to the United States on a tour to raise funds for his college. He is 6 feet tall, weighs 200 pounds, and has light hair and blue eyes. Friends believe he may be suffering from temporary loss of memory.

DISTILL LIQUOR IN HOME, ONCE WOODCOCK IDEA

Report to Wickersham Is Given to Senate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The direct assertion that "no sincere attempt" ever has been made to enforce prohibition is contained in a report on the prohibition situation submitted to the Wickersham commission by Amos W. Woodcock, director of dry law enforcement. Mr. Woodcock also advanced a plan of "home option" under which there would be no interference with the making and drinking of liquor in private homes.

COL. WOODCOCK.

This was disclosed today when the commission, in response to a senate resolution, transmitted to the senate a part of the great mass of testimony, documents, and briefs upon which it based its recent controversial report on the prohibition situation.

The Woodcock report, as well as lengthy reports from thirty-two individual states and testimony touching on the workings of the Canadian, Swedish, and other foreign liquor systems, was included in the nonconfidential matter sent to the secretary of the senate and made public tonight.

Serves as Investigator.

Mr. Woodcock at the time was special investigator for the commission, and had not yet been appointed prohibition enforcement director.

In advancing his home option suggestion Mr. Woodcock stated:

"Home option could be put into effect by a simple administrative policy—to make no effort to overcome the difficulties that legally exist in getting evidence as to violations in the home.

"The citizen could not claim the right to buy or sell liquor. But if he possesses liquor, or makes liquor in his home, and in such way as not to be observed by the public, and if he properly supports his family, this policy would require that he be not disturbed.

"If he fails in a single public duty, if he breaks the peace in any way, if he fails to take care of his family, if he fails to keep himself fit to perform any public duty, the state steps in and punishes.

All Rum Trade Unlawful.

"This plan makes unlawful all commerce in liquor, does not compel the dry to support a state dispensary, leaves the wet in full enjoyment of any rights he believes he has, which may be exercised without affecting any one else.

"I make this suggestion as seemingly logical, but which may run counter to the fundamental principles of government that any plan must be practical.

"The courts and agents . . . ought not to be expected to stop the consumption of such liquor any more than the courts and police are expected to stop a game of bridge in a private home with no commercial aspect."

Calls Canada Profiteer.

Mr. Woodcock assailed Canada for profiting from the sale of liquor to the United States without making any effective attempt to stop the international traffic. He flayed American government officials at Detroit for not preventing the entrance of liquor into the United States. In addition, he asserted that in the past "too many enforcement officials have been dishonest and stupid and too much inclined to the seeking of publicity, rather than actual enforcement."

While warning against following dry enforcement policies suggested by "dry extremists," Col. Woodcock suggested the possibility of effecting better federal-state coöperation by giving subsidies to those states bringing their law enforcement to a certain standard.

As supporting evidence for his charge of dishonesty, the data supplied by the commission disclosed that 1,397 employés of the prohibition bureau have been fired for "corruption and dereliction" since the effective date of prohibition up to June 27, 1929.

Mabel Defends Fruit Juices.

Included in the documents sent to the senate was one by Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, in which the former assistant attorney general in charge of dry law prosecutions states that the section of the Volstead act covering grape juices is the only "leak of beverage liquor which congress sanctioned."

As attorney for the grape dealers seeking legal entry into the homes for grape juice that later would turn into 6 or 12 per cent alcoholic wine, Mrs. Willebrandt vigorously defended the legal right of the companies she represented to make such sales. She also asserted that extreme drys "fear and resist the admission of any liberty when it is a plain exception, carved out of the law itself."

The recommendations of John Motley Morehead, American minister to Sweden, to the commissioner were a strong argument for the Swedish dispensary plan.

Morehead said the Bratt system in Sweden had reduced drinking, virtually abolished bootlegging, and was popular with the people.

"Is the working man pretty well satisfied with that 4 per cent beer in Sweden?" Commissioner Kenyon asked.

"O, yes," Morehead replied. "And it is not any real hardship if you can get the beer that you want and two drinks of hard liquor a day."

CONSTRUCTION OF 11 DESTROYERS FOUGHT BY LITTLE NAVY MEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Radical Republican opposition to American construction of a fleet up to the tonnage levels permitted by the London naval treaty was sounded in the senate late today as administration forces sought to secure approval of the 358 million dollar naval appropriation bill carrying funds for beginning eleven destroyers.

Senator Robert La Follette [Rep., Wis.], as spokesman for the little navy and radical opposition forces, urged deletion of the $10,000,000 provided for destroyer construction, asserting that world conditions today did not warrant this country's maintenance of a navy of London treaty size.

Further radical opposition to the destroyer item is slated to come tomorrow, when the senate completes action on the supply bill.

Defeat of the move to add destroyers to the supply bill would frustrate the navy's 1932 program for building up to the tonnage maximums of the London treaty. Passage of the $74,000,000 warship authorization bill, carrying one cruiser, one aircraft carrier and four submarines, is now despaired of, even by its sponsors.

Senators Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], chairman of the senate naval affairs committee; David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], one of the delegates to the London naval conference, and Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.] asserted that, due to the antiquated condition of America's destroyers, a replacement program must be initiated.

IN DES MOINES YOU BUY BOOZE ON THE STREET

Just Wait on Corner and It Will Arrive.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—The business of getting a drink in the capital of the corn state has the rich flavor of a D'Artagnanesque adventure. A thirsty stranger finds himself playing a leading rôle in a romance, with mystery and intrigue to heighten the zest of the bottle.

I found myself plunged into a prohibition epic on my first try for a drink. "Scratch deep enough anywhere and you'll find a bootlegger," a resident had advised. I tried the formula in a 6th street barber shop. The barber was sympathetic, offering to see what he could do. After a phone call he directed me to the Y. M. C. A. building, 4th street and Keosauqua way, where I was to wait at the corner.

I waited five minutes, in the shadow of the building. A young man in a grey topcoat and brown hat came to the corner. After a furtive glance about, he approached me.

"Al" Is the Password.

"Were you at Al's?" he asked.

I answered affirmatively. He drew out a wrapped bottle. I exchanged $1 for the parcel—a half pint of alcohol. I opened conversation. I learned that he had a regular beat of spots likely to be visited by the thirsty. Street delivery was adopted to minimize risks, he said.

"It's the way we do things here," said he. "I bring you a package, see. I don't know what's in it. A fellow gave it to me. It's my out, it's a mistake. See. Sure, it's smart. We're wised up here."

He walked away. I thought of the Capuchin, Joseph, in the "Three Musketeers" as the topcoat flopped about his retreating figure and wondered at the identity of the Richelieu who created the system.

Guide Finds Beer Place.

A quest for beer led to a ramshackle house to which I was driven by Mr. W. We drove over dirt streets lined by barren trees and shrubs. We turned off the lights as we parked. We stumbled to the side door of a darkened house and knocked. The door was opened by a man in his undershirt, who peered at us with a dim light at his back.

We were served home brew at 25 cents the bottle. Joe bemoaned an impending period of enforced idleness due to the failure of his latest batch. We left on the arrival of a second party.

On the way to my room in the hotel, a headquarters for legislators, a maid passed bearing a try with a dozen glasses reeking with highball dregs. From a room across the hall a heavy voice sighed, "Well, we killed a pint of whisky and a half pint of alcohol." The lobby was thronged with backslappers trumpeting invitations "to drop in the room for a drink."

Hostess Swaps Yarns.

In the lobby I encountered another adventure. Three drummers extended an invitation to visit a beer flat. We taxied along automobile row to an apartment building. Three rings were given on a bell in the hallway—one short, a long and another short. We climbed to a modestly furnished apartment where an engaging hostess opened a bottle of home brew and vied with the drummers' yarns. We were cautioned to make no unnecessary noise so as to bring no complaints from neighbors.

"The city is full of liquor," he declared at length. "Full of bad liquor. Keep away from it."

"No, sir," said he, thumping his cane. "It's a great mistake. I think that repeal would bring back prosperity. And I never drink. I'm a pioneer here—in business 49 years—I know it's a mistake."

3 CHILDREN DIE AS BLAST AND FIRE RAZE HOME

Seven Other Members of Family Escape.

Three children lost their lives as a result of the explosion and fire which razed the frame dwelling of Robert Havlicek at 2511 Normal avenue early yesterday morning. Leonard Havlicek, 8 years old, and Dorothy, 3 years old, died shortly after they had been carried out of the flaming building, and Adeline, 10 years old, succumbed to her injuries several hours later.

The explosion, believed to have been caused by a gas leak, occurred shortly after midnight. Robert, the father, ran down the stairs and out to the street for help. The mother, Mrs. Anna Havlicek, roused the children, and breaking the bedroom window on the second floor, screamed for aid. Four of the children, Loretta, 12 years old, John, 16 years old, Robert Jr., 15 years old, Evelyn, 6 years old, and the mother escaped down a ladder, after the mother had thrown another child, Eleanor, 1 year old, out of the window into the arms of a neighbor.

Joseph Versetto, 2828 South Wells street, a truck driver, and his helper, Tony Naponillo, 500 West 25th place, and Sam Serritella, 241 West 24th place, told of the fire and rescue at the inquest. Hearing the cries of the mother, they raised a ladder and carried them to safety. Leonard and Dorothy were found to be dead when they were taken to Mercy hospital.

The father, clad in worn clothes, told of the family's fight against poverty. All the children were undernourished, he said.

Troops Scale Walls of Ancient Fortress.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 20.—Revolution, that good old South American game, blazed forth here today, raged furiously for several hours, and then died out, a complete failure. But before it died out it took a toll of between forty and seventy men killed and nearly one hundred wounded.

PRESIDENT CERRO.
[Acme-P. & A. Photo.]

The deaths were mostly among government troops, who were forced to attack and scale the ancient ramparts of King Philip fortress at Callao, where the revolutionists had taken refuge in the face of machine gun fire from the defenders.

Among those killed was Reginald A. Skidmore of Bethlehem, Pa., who was hit by a stray bullet while he was playing billiards in the Anglo-American club at Callao. Mr. Skidmore was assistant paymaster for the W. R. Grace Steamship company. He is survived by a widow and two children.

Try to Storm Palace.

Peru's latest revolutionary attempt began early this morning, when about 300 insurgents equipped with machine guns and rifles rolled into Lima in motor trucks. They proceeded to the national palace, which they tried to take by storm. The Lima garrison drove off the rebels and they fled to Callao, the port of Lima. There they released a number of political prisoners from San Lorenzo island and then took refuge in the fortress, now used as a customs house.

Provisional President Sanchez Cerro, who himself mounted to power through a revolutionary movement last summer, when he ousted the régime of Augusto B Leguia, immediately issued a decree declaring Lima and Callao under martial law. He ordered detachments from the fifth and seventh regiments and from the military school to Callao to surround the customs house.

The loyal forces, consisting of some 1,200 men, stationed themselves at strategic positions and trained machine guns on the old fortress. After three or four hours of sanguinary fighting the order was given to rush the rebels. It was during this rush that the loyal troops suffered their heavy loss of life.

Citizens Help Loyal Troops.

The civilian population participated to a small extent in the fighting. Several hundred people gathered behind the loyal troops on the fighting line, assisting the wounded and occasionally taking the places of those who had fallen. Communications between the port and the capital were interrupted during the battle, but were restored late this afternoon.

Several manifestations in favor of President Cerro were organized following the collapse of the revolutionary movement, but tonight the crowds had dispersed quietly on orders of the authorities. Perfect order prevails here and the situation elsewhere in the republic is tranquil.

The government tonight announced that it had proof that the revolutionary attempt was directed by elements seeking to place Leguia back in power. Leguia is now a prisoner in the Lima penitentiary, where he has been since his conviction, after the Cerro revolt, of misusing public funds.

Rebel Leaders Captured.

The leaders of today's revolt was Gen. Pedro Pablo Martilez, who organized the police forces of the republic during the Leguia régime, and the men concerned in it were composed of a coast artillery corps and various small units of troops and police. All the political prisoners released by the rebels are reported to have been recaptured.

Gen. Martinez was captured, together with other leaders of the attempt, including Commander Vegas, Col. Yanez, Col. Victor Bustamante and Col. Zorilla. They were brought to Lima tonight. The government announced that they will be court martialed and punished with the most severe penalties, but that their lives are not in danger.

Frustrate Argentine Revolt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 20.—While officials maintain an attitude of secrecy, it became known tonight that the police today frustrated another counter-revolutionary plot when they raided the premises of a religious order here and arrested 15 army officers and a number of civilians engaged in organizing measures calculated to create a panic in the city and to prepare the way for an uprising.

It is understood that many followers of the deposed President Yrigoyen are implicated in the plot and that army officers involved were followers of Gen. Toranzo, who was inspector general of the army during Yrigoyen's régime as president. Gen. Toranzo disappeared.

Paraguay Rebels Evacuate City.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 21 [Saturday].—(AP)—The correspondent of the newspaper La Nacion at Asuncion, Paraguay, reported early today the Paraguayan government had announced the evacuation of Villa Encarnacion by insurgents who captured it early yesterday.

The correspondent of La Nacion at Posadas, Argentina, reported yesterday that revolutionists had captured the Paraguayan frontier city. Rail and wire communication with Villa Encarnacion was interrupted.

REVOLT FLARES IN SOUTH AMERICA

Between 40 and 70 persons, including one American, were killed at Callao, Peru, yesterday during an attempt to overthrow the government. The revolt began at Lima, where the insurgents stormed the palace, but were driven off and fled to Callao. Government troops defeated the rebels there after they had seized a fortress.

In Paraguay revolutionary forces captured the city of Villa Encarnacion, on the Argentine frontier. Communications were cut off.

Sprague Heads Commission Seeking Tax Body Unification

The citizens' committee on public finance and economy, recently appointed by A. J. Cermak, president of the county board, held an organization meeting yesterday in the county building.

Sixteen of the thirty-five civic leaders on the commission were in attendance. At the suggestion of Mr. Cermak, William R. Dawes of the Central Trust company was nominated for chairman.

Mr. Dawes declined, explaining that he expected to be out of the city much of the time in the next few months. Thereupon Robert I. Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, nominated Col. A. A. Sprague for chairman.

Sprague Elected Chairman.

Mr. Sprague was not present. However, Mr. Cermak gave assurance that Mr. Sprague would be willing to serve, whereupon he was unanimously elected. The next meeting will be held subject to Mr. Sprague's call.

Opening the meeting, Mr. Cermak read a five page statement citing the need for coördination of the more than 400 tax expending bodies in Cook county to effect retrenchmen in public expenditures and thus reduce taxes.

"We are in the midst of a serious economic depression," Mr. Cermak said. "Reductions in real estate values and increases in tax delinquencies are placing unequal tax burdens on the taxpayers and seriously affecting the income of local governments, as well as the state. There are definite signs of another serious breakdown of public credit."

A citizens' advisory committee, appointed by Mr. Cermak in 1928, submitted a report indicating glaring examples of overlapping by the various tax expending bodies, with resultant waste of public funds variously estimated between $50,000,000 and $100,000,000 anually, the board president pointed out.

Others Attend Meeting.

Attending the meeting, besides those above mentioned, were the Rev. Francis V. Corcoran, De Paul university college of law; James L. Donnelly, Illinois Manufacturers' association; Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, chairman of the women's division of the unemployment commission; Mrs. William G. Hibbard, Winnetka; Peter M. Kelly, county commissioner; M. L. McMenlman, Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, club leader; Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university; the Rev. R. M. Kelley, S. J., president of Loyola university; Mark Shanks, West Town chamber of commerce; George O. Fairweather, assistant business manager of the University of Chicago; Julius F. Smietanka, and Cornelius P. Teninga.

Assessors' Figures Show $32,790,700 Increase.

Personal property assessments for 1930 against Cook county banks were fixed at $131,384,125 by the board of assessors yesterday. The 1930 books were closed and forwarded to the board of review for revision before the payment of 1930 taxes, due Dec. 1. The 1930 valuations of the board of assessors are $32,790,700 more than the reviewers' figure of $98,593,425 for 1929.

The total valuation against Chicago banks is $127,074,125, an increase of $31,991,700 over the reviewers' total of $95,082,425 for 1929. The largest increase is in south town, which includes the loop, the assessments for 1929 being boosted $25,211,000 to $96,262,500 for 1930. In the country towns the increase was only $799,000.

Cut 1929 Valuations.

Last week the reviewers completed their work on the 1929 bank assessments by cutting $47,301,000 off the assessors' figures. They explained that the assessors had failed to deduct from the valuations the value of real estate owned by the banks.

This was denied by John E. Conroy, secretary of the board of assessors, and in sending the 1930 books to the reviewers yesterday he served notice on them that the real estate values had been deducted and that the valuations are correct.

Table of Comparisons.

The 1930 assessments for the loop banks as fixed by the assessors are compared in the following table with the final 1929 figures of the reviewers:

Try Lights on Heads of Traffic Cops for Safety

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Police Chief Jean Chiappe, alarmed at the increasing frequency with which traffic officers are knocked down in dark streets by automobiles, is experimenting with an electric bulb fastened to the top of the policeman's cap like a miner's lamp. The increase in injuries is due partly to the attempt to force Parisians to stop jay walking. Traffic cops standing in the middle of gloomy crossing lanes to indicate the location to pedestrians fall easy victims to automobile drivers.

Chicago-Seattle Train Will Use New Route Tomorrow

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad announced yesterday that, beginning tomorrow, the Columbian, fast Chicago-Seattle train, will be routed through Illinois, Iowa, and South Dakota instead of through Wisconsin and Minnesota, as it has been for twenty years. At Aberdeen, S. D., the train will resume its old routing. Delegations of business men at towns between Chicago and Sioux City, Ia., are preparing to celebrate the change of route.

THREE BOMBINGS BOOST TOTAL FOR 10 YEARS TO 851

Hunt 4 Union Agents in Two Blasts.

The three bombs exploded late Thursday night brought the total of Chicago bombings for the last ten years to 851, according to a compilation prepared yesterday by the Employers' association. The association's statistics show a steady increase in the number of bombs exploded and the amount of damage done. The bombings so far this year are nearly equal to the blasts in corresponding periods of 1929 and 1930, which were record setting years.

Hunt Four in Bombings.

Four men, long involved in labor disputes over the affairs of the handbill distributors' union, were being sought last night in connection with the bombing on Thursday night of the Big Advertising company plant at 20 East 8th street, and the distributing plant of the General Outdoor Advertising company, 232 South Racine avenue. The third Chicago bomb, at the Packard Motor Car company, 300 West 37th street, was attributed to an attempt to unionize the mechanics, which move the company has prohibited.

The men sought are John Rooney, business agent of the bill posters' union; Bob Cook, an organizer; Michael McCauley, business agent of the handbill distributors' union; and Joseps Levine, his assistant. It is believed by the police that these bombings are connected with those of the Lakeside Press and the Sears Roebuck plant. All have had interlacing contracts and all have resisted the unionizing of labor.

Figures on Bombs This Year.

Current figures for bombs for 1931 are: January, 5, and February (up to Feb. 20), 12, with an average damage of $1,886. The 1930 figures were: January, 12, and February, 7, with an average damage of $6,880. In 1929 nineteen bombs were exploded in the first two months with an average damage of $1,713. The latter part of each year has been more damaging than the first half.

The complete table for the last ten years:

Year.	Bombs.	Year.	Bombs.
1920	51	1926	80
1921	60	1927	106
1922	60	1928	116
1923	55	1929	116
1924	92	1930	74
1925	113	1931 to date	17

G. L. Hostetter, executive secretary of the Employers' association, said the total damage for 1930 was more than four times that of 1929.

ROADHOUSE IS BOMBED.

A powerful dynamite bomb was set off yesterday morning at the Golden Gate roadhouse on Sheridan road, seven miles south of Kenosha, just north of the Wisconsin line. Henry Vogler, owner of the place, insisted there was no reason for the bombing. Sheriff Steve Robinson of Kenosha county ascribed it to a beer war. Reports in Kenosha were that Vogler changed from Wisconsin to Illinois beer in December after he had been threatened by Chicago runners. Damage was placed at $2,000.

TRUE BILLS HIT THREE MEMBERS OF ROBBERY RING

CRIMINAL COURT.

Tony Bruno, robbery, sentenced to year to life in the penitentiary; Frank Parrello and Mike Bruno, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski.

Edward Van Houten, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Charles Riddle and Fred Jones, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory; William Kendrick and Alvarist Joseph, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Ross C. Hall.

Michael Wyerick, abortion, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Burke.

Joseph Doberick, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Indictments for robbery were voted by the grand jury yesterday against three men arrested a week ago by the state's attorney's office and subsequently identified in at least ten important robbery cases, most of them jewel robberies or bank holdups. Those indicted and held under $100,000 bond each are George Nelson, 22 years old, Stanton J. Randall, 44 years old, who once served a term for murder in Ohio, and Harry Lewis, 24 years old.

Among the witnesses before the grand jury was Mrs. Lottie G. Brenner-Dechow, former wife of Henry Dechow, spurious "Count von Buelow." She is the widow of a former alderman and business man. Mrs. Dechow kept the jurors amused by her testimony about the robbery and an alleged attempt yesterday morning to intimidate her. She said she received a telephone call telling her not to appear before the jury.

"But you know, boys," she said to the jurors, "I'm not afraid. I am here to tell all I know."

Beaten to Death with Ball Bats; Two Slayers Sought

Two young men who beat William Taraszkiewicz to death with baseball bats in his second floor flat at 1037 North Ashland avenue were sought by the police last night. Taraszkiewicz was found unconscious in his home after neighbors saw two men run down the stairs, enter a sedan, and drive away. In the kitchen of the dead man's flat the police found several bottles of beer, whisky, and alcohol.

DON'T FORGET TO STOCK UP FOR WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

TO WED AGAIN

MRS. DOROTHY T. DEUELL.

John H. Stevens, son of the late Clyde G. Stevens, State street merchant, obtained a license yesterday in Peoria, it was learned here, to wed Mrs. Dorothy Trainor Deuell of the Ambassador hotel. Neither Mr. Stevens nor Mrs. Deuell could be located in Chicago. It was learned from the Stevens home, 1412 Astor street, that Mr. Stevens had not been home since Thursday.

Mrs. Deuell was the former Miss Dorothy Trainor, who was secretary a number of years ago of the Bal Tabarin club. She later married Thomas Glass Deuell, a broker, and divorced him in 1928. Deuell had previously divorced the former Miss Virginia Tietgens, who has since married Prince Odescalki of Budapest.

John Stevens was graduated in 1929 from Princeton university. On the marriage license he gave his occupation as that of a merchant. The ages were given as 25 years for Mr. Stevens and 29 for Mrs. Deuell.

BANDIT AND HIS VICTIM SLAIN IN HOLDUP BATTLE

Two Shot Resisting Cigar Factory Robbery.

taken to the Lutheran Memorial hospital, where it was said they would recover.

The men were in a rear room when the robbers entered the office and held up Miss Marion Udelowish, 19 years old, 848 Ainslie street, daughter of the owner, and Miss Lillian Sapiro, 2010 Le Moyne street. They took $370. One of the robbers walked into the rear room where Tutansky, Zukor, and 20 other men were at work. As he leveled his revolver Zukor and Tutansky leaped for him. He fired three times, dropping both. Both bandits fled, driving away as Sergt. John Ellis and his squad appeared. They escaped after a chase of several blocks.

Grazed by Robber's Shot.

Fleeing from two bandits who were holding up an oil station attendant at 51st street and Kedzie avenue, Theodore Garvais, 27 year old, 3202 West 55th street, suffered a scalp wound from a bullet last night. Garvais was driving his automobile into the oil filling lane when he observed the holdup. He leaped from his car and ran. One of the robbers fired one shot at him. John Parmentier, 1417 South Kedzie avenue, the station attendant, was robbed of $18.

Two minutes after he had held up a woman with the aid of a toy revolver, Edward Brown, 18 years old, was arrested last night by South Park Policeman Philip Igoe. Brown had halted Miss Catherine Burns, 20 years old, 102 West 72d street, at 61st street and South Park way, and taken $1, a ring, and a wrist watch. As he fled she called for help and Policeman Igoe pursued Brown, finally stopping him by firing a shot in the air. The youth said he was out of work and had been sleeping in Jackson park.

Two gunmen took $700 yesterday in a holdup of the People's Furniture company store at 2536 West 63d street. Two employés were held up. In another south side robbery a holdup man took $200 from Mandel Kotz, manager of Kotz's branch store at 1017 East 63d street.

Two hotels were robbed yesterday by a lone gunman. They were the Broadview hotel, 5540 Hyde Park boulevard, and the Aragon apartment hotel, 5401 Cornell avenue, which lost $20 and $23, respectively.

Conductor Held Up.

Without alarming any of the passengers, a well dressed gunman last night held up John Schellenberg, conductor of a westbound Roosevelt road street car, and robbed him of $9.22 and a money changer containing a small amount of money. The robber jumped from the moving car at the 5100 block.

Edward Sitts, manager of the Sears, Roebuck & Co. branch store at 5931 West North avenue, was tied up in the store by a lone bandit last night and locked in a rear room. The robber then opened the store safe and fled with $100.

A lone gunman held up Mrs. Elizabeth McClellan and John McClellan, 3747 North Kostner avenue, her brother-in-law, in front of her home at 3736 North Tripp avenue, last night. He took several dollars from them and drove off in her automobile.

Henry Black of 7244 Merrill avenue, a dress designer, was robbed of a diamond ring, valued at $1,800, and $25 by two armed men who held him up in front of 7250 Merrill avenue late last night.

Confesses Another Holdup.

Alex Paucsek, 4342 Washington boulevard, who was captured in Oak Park on Thursday by J. A. Ryan, 1630 North Shore avenue, and Francis Black, 2510 North Aubert avenue, TRIBUNE drivers, whom he tried to rob, confessed yesterday that he held up Robert Bernberg, 1526 South Sawyer avenue, another TRIBUNE driver, on Jan. 23, and robbed him of $250. Bernberg identified Paucsek.

Frank Foster, hoodlum, was booked by police yesterday on a charge of robbing Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gray, owners of the Ravenswood hotel, 4452 North Ashland avenue, of $7,600 in gems. He will be arraigned in Felony court Monday. Gray identified him.

TIRES AWAITING CHICAGO POLICE; FREES ROBBERS

Two Chicago gunmen were free last night because Chief of Police Wesley R. Kibby of Michigan City, Ind., got tired waiting for Chicago detectives to arrive and take them from his jail after they had confessed a Chicago holdup.

The two hoodlums are James Murphy, 26 years old, and Clyde Frazier, 28, both of whom gave their addresses as 4310 Clarendon avenue. Chief Kibby arrested them on Feb. 17 and they admitted robbing Carl Benicke, Aberdeen, S. D., restaurant man, of $300 in front of the Rex hotel, 3120 North Ashland avenue.

Chief Kibby said yesterday that he immediately called the Chicago detective bureau, informed them that he had the two robbers in his jail and asked that they be taken off his hands. They had waived extradition. After waiting without word from the Chicago bureau he released the bandits yesterday noon. So yesterday when the detective bureau called him to state that they had warrants for their arrest, Chief Kibby replied that it was too late.

W. PERKINS BULL FLED PLOT HERE, HIS DOCTOR SAYS

Patient Is Incased in Plaster and Silence.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 20.—[Special]—While William Perkins Bull, K. C., was being fitted for a plaster cast in an adjoining room at the Toronto hospital this evening, Dr. W. C. Wootton, the "family spokesman," undertook to clear up a lot of the mystery surrounding Mr. Bull's abrupt departure from Chicago and subsequent 200 mile cross-country parade in an ambulance. Unfortunately, the Arkansas doctor dispelled little of the fog. He was vague where he should have been exact, and told his story more as a movie scenarist than as a privileged confidant.

It was high finance and not high romance that won "powerful" enemies for the Bulls in Chicago. When the facts of the "plot" against Mr. Bull are revealed—in Chicago—in a few days it will make a "tremendous story." Big names, big finance, and a cleverly organized campaign to undermine Mr. Bull's social and financial standing are the prime ingredients of the promised thriller.

Cannot See Callers.

Anyhow, that is Dr. Wootton's story. For the present there can be no story from Mr. Bull. His Toronto physicians advise he will not be physically able to see callers for at least five days. Meanwhile, his son, Bartle Bull, remains tight lipped in the presence of the press.

Dr. Wootton hinted of possible stock deals when he told of Mr. Bull's $200 telephone bill for a morning's conversation with New York agents, and he intimated that considerable business would be transacted from the hospital bed when Mr. Bull's bones began to mend, but, pinned down to facts, he would admit of only two Bull business—the law and a Cuban sugar farm.

"Well, well," said the doctor, a ruddy faced, baldish man of 45, as he greeted THE TRIBUNE reporter. "This is getting almost as bad as the time I had with the newspapers when I treated Babe Ruth that time he had a spell of sickness. So, you want to know about Billy's trouble? Well, he's a pretty sick man. We won't know just how sick for three or four days. The X-rays showed he had no head fracture, but, then, a broken hip—he's past sixty, you know—is bad business.

"There does seem to be a bit of mystery about Mr. Bull's activities right now, but for the present it can't be helped. We are sure—I mean Mr. Bull is sure—everything will be cleared up thoroughly in a few days and the story will break in Chicago, where everything started."

Dr. Wootton was insistent that it was finance and not romance that had started the "campaign against Mr. Bull."

"A group of powerful enemies," the doctor grew confidential, "wanted to discredit Mr. Bull in Chicago, blacken his reputation and drive him back to Canada for good. No, I cannot tell any more about them and their campaign of propaganda other than that it had a financial purpose behind it."

SLEUTHS ARE BAFFLED.

The baffled sleuths who are chasing around Chicago tapping each other's wire and peeking at each other from behind telephone poles in an effort to straighten out the perplexity of circumstances surrounding the activities of W. Perkins Bull, K. C., international man of mystery, must now consider the Metropolitan opera, a lady whose name is Caroline, and the proposition that four is better than three.

These new and assorted pieces were added to the jig-saw puzzle of Barrister Bull's activities yesterday and last night the sleuths had no more success in making them fit into the pattern than they have had in making sense out of the raid of narcotics agents upon Bull's Drake hotel suite, his sudden flight to Canada, and the dressed chickens and hot muffins found in Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley's overnight bag at the time of the raid.

Wire Tappers Listen In.

Discovery of the terms used in the secret code employed in the telephone conversations between Bull and Mrs. Sidley brought these new elements into the case. The code was discovered by wire tappers who overheard the conversations of Bull and Mrs. Sidley before the raid, but until yesterday nothing was known of the code except that federal men had found it of "no significance" in their dope investigation.

It was learned that operatives, who listened in while the Canadian lawyer talked with Mrs. Sidley in the Lake Shore Drive hotel next door to Bull's suite in the Drake, or at the estate of the Horlick malted milk family in Racine, heard a strange conversation which ran approximately as follows:

"Thirteen . . third from the left . . . lovely lady."

The answer would come back:

"Sunshine . . four is better than three . . Metropolitan opera company . . . forty-four pieces."

And then the reply:

"Caroline" Heard Often.

The name Caroline, according to the information learned yesterday, recurred frequently throughout the conversation. Whether it was a name or a signal, was not known. Apparently a manuscript was used by the parties in the conversation and it appeared to the operatives that frequent reference was made to the manuscript, according to reports. Often, it was said, the parties became confused with their own code and had to repeat several times.

Another element of mystery was added when it was learned that Dr. W. C. Wootton, Arkansas physician and friend of Bull, also participated in the conversations.

Dr. Wootton was detained by federal operatives when Bull and Mrs. Sidley were taken to the federal building for questioning by the agents on suspicion that they were connected with a dope smuggling group. At that time Mrs. Sidley's traveling bag was found to contain several dressed chickens, jars of fruit, and some muffins. The whole affair was later branded as a blunder when it was learned that the code was used by Bull and Mrs. Sidley to discuss her divorce action against Dr. John Streeter Sidley.

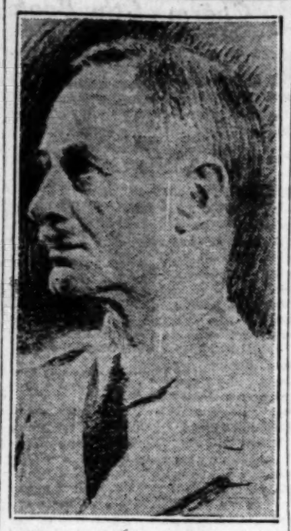
Gen. Irwin to Be Buried at West Point with Army Rites

WAR LEADER DIES



Maj. Gen. George LeRoy Irwin.

The body of Maj. Gen. George LeRoy Irwin, U. S. A., a divisional commander of the Panama canal department, who died on Thursday aboard the Italian steamer Virgilio at Port of Spain, Trinidad, is to be brought to the United States for burial. The general, who commanded Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan troops during the war, will be given a military funeral at West Point and buried there beside his father, the late Brig. Gen. B. J. D. Irwin.

Gen. Irwin was returning to his post after a three months' vacation in Italy to regain his health. Death was due to amoebic dysentery, which he acquired long ago in service in the Philippines. The body is to be taken to Panama on Feb. 27 on the Virgilio by Mrs. Irwin, who was with him when he died. From there it is to be sent to New York. The general had planned to return to the United States at the expiration of his term of duty in the Canal Zone on March 4.

Graduate of West Point.

Gen. Irwin was 62 years old. He was born at Fort Wayne, Mich. He was graduated at West Point in 1889, having been appointed from Chicago, then the family home. He married Maria Elizabeth Barker of Baltimore in 1892. His father, who served in the medical corps, won the congressional medal of honor for the first act of distinguished gallantry recognized by congress in campaigning against the Apache Indians in 1861.

During the Spanish-American war Gen. Irwin served as captain in a volunteer regiment. On his discharge he rejoined the regular army as an artilleryman and served in the Philippines, the Canal Zone, and Cuba.

In 1917 he commanded the 161st field artillery brigade at Camp Grant. He sailed for France in command of the 41st infantry division and later led the 66th, 2d and 57th field artillery brigades. He served on the Verdun front, the Alsace front, in the Marne-Aisne, Oise-Aisne, and Meuse-Argonne offensives.

He was awarded the distinguished service medal, the Legion of Honor, and the Croix de Guerre with palm. Citations commended his keen judgment, military attainments, and devotion to duty, attributing the success of the divisions whose advance he supported in a large measure to his eminent skill as an artillerist. On his return to the United States he was placed in command of the artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Josephine, now at Panama; two sons, Maj. S. Le Roy Irwin of Fort Sill, and John d'Arcy Irwin of Washington; and two sisters, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick and Mrs. Arthur Small of Chicago.

KILLED AS TRAIN CRUSHES TRUCK ON NORTH SHORE

Woman on Platform Hit by Flying Glass.

Landy Watters, 30 years old, 2023 Ridge avenue, Evanston, was killed yesterday when his small delivery truck was demolished by a Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee electric train at the Harbor street crossing in Glencoe. A woman waiting on the station platform for the approaching train was cut by flying glas from the truck's windshield.

The Chicago and North Western railroad tracks are adjacent to the tracks of the electric line at the point where the accident happened. Watters, a driver for a creamery company, had stopped his truck while a train for the Chicago and North Western passed. As the gates were raised he drove on to the tracks of the electric line and into the path of the other train.

His truck was carried 600 feet along the rails, scattering a load of butter and eggs about the right of way. He was dead when extricated from the wreckage of the truck. The woman cut by flying glass was Mrs. Frank Harris, 376 Jefferson street, Glencoe.

Wife of Lawyer Killed.

In another railroad train crash early yesterday morning Mrs. Victoria Kwasigroch, 52 year old wife of Attorney Julian Kwasigroch, 6220 North Moody avenue, was killed and her husband and two guests were seriously injured. The accident happened when their automobile crushed through the lowered gates and was struck by a Garfield Park elevated train at the Central avenue crossing in Austin.

Those injured, in addition to Attorney Kwasigroch, are Mr. and Mrs. Casimir Grabbot, 953 North Central avenue.

Two other deaths yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 188. The other victims:

Mrs. Mary O'Connor, 60 years old, 4833 Walton street. Died at St. Anne's hospital of injuries received Feb. 17 when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a truck.

Miss Mary Mahoney, 21 years old, 6332 South Washtenaw avenue. Fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile while crossing Ashland avenue at 41st street. The driver, William Glitka, 4859 South Seeley avenue, was held.

Arkansas Senate Passes 90 Day Divorce Measure

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The Arkansas senate today passed a house bill providing divorces for nonresidents after ninety days' domicile in this state. All the measure now lacks to become law is Gov. Parnell's signature. It would not change legal grounds for divorce now recognized in Arkansas. They are infidelity, desertion, cruel and inhuman treatment, impotency and incompatibility.

MRS. DAVID BRUCE ENDS ROUND WORLD AIR AND SEA TRIP

MRS. VICTOR BRUCE.

CROYDON, England, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Victor Bruce, British woman aviator, came down here in her Bluebird plane from Lympne airdrome this afternoon, completing a trip around the world by sea and air. Frederick Montagu, undersecretary of state for air, and a group of other notables were here to meet her. In the flight from Lympne she was escorted by several planes, whose pilots included Amy Johnson, Winifred Spooner, and Squadron Leader Ridley.

"I'm quite game to fly the Atlantic to Buenos Aires for the British trade exposition if I can get a machine," Mrs. Bruce said at the field. "It's only 1,250 miles, twice as far as I flew across the Yellow sea. I would go by way of Gibraltar to Dakar, then across to Natal and on to Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires."

BLOSSOM QUEEN HURT IN CRASH; ESCORT JAILED

Miss Vera Frick, 22 years old, blossom queen of Three Oaks, Mich., in 1927, was in a critical condition last night at St. Anthony's hospital, Michigan City, Ind., as the result of injuries received early Thursday morning in an automobile accident which occurred just above the Michigan line. Physicians attending the young woman said they had no hope for her to live through the night.

As the result of the accident Ross Gordon, 25 years old, teacher and athletic coach at the New Buffalo, Mich., High school, is being held in the Berrien county jail at St. Joseph. Police said Gordon, who was driving Miss Frick to a dance, admitted that he had been drinking. His car skidded on the pavement and crashed into a telephone pole.

Adams Orders Mayflower, Famed Yacht, to Scrap Pile

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The former presidential yacht Mayflower, which recently was damaged by fire at the Philadelphia navy yard, was ordered scrapped today by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams. Secretary Adams' decision was based upon recommendations of the navy board of inspection and survey, which held that the cost of repairs to recondition the vessel, amounting to about $210,000, was too great.

COMMONS BILL DENIES BEQUESTS TO MISTRESSES

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Agitation to protect women whose husbands will their properties to mistresses, relatives and charities leaving their widows destitute, cleared a second hurdle in the house of commons this afternoon as a result of strong support given a bill covering bequests by the feminine members of parliament.

The second reading of the bill was moved by Miss Eleanor Rathbone, independent member representing the English universities. The bill provides that the surviving spouse shall be entitled to half of the personal property of the mate, plus a grant out of the capital consisting of $5,000, or a half value of the estate if it is smaller, and an income from either a half or one-third of the net estate, depending on whether there are any children.

Speaking on the period of common law in England and Wales, when "utter subjection to the will of husband or father was a fashionable doctrine," Miss Rathbone declared:

"Since then man has enjoyed this glorious ability to marry a woman and promise to endow her with all his worldly goods, then possibly when the children were still young he might leave her destitute, willing everything be possessed, perhaps, to his mistress or to a relative or to charity.

Several elderly women in the public gallery screamed and fainted when opposition to the bill was voiced in the debate. They were revived and helped from the hall in a high state of agitation.

BONUS VETO DUE IN CONGRESS BY NEXT THURSDAY

Filibuster Is Ended by Announcement.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—President Hoover's veto of the veterans' bonus loan bill will be transmitted to congress "about the middle of next week."

SENATOR DAVID A. REED. [©.) Harris & Ewing.]

The President announced today that he would take action at that time. While he did not state what the action would be, Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] a little later informed the senate that he had consulted with Mr. Hoover by telephone and that he was authorized to announce that the President would return the bonus bill to congress "not later than Thursday, with his reasons for vetoing it."

Senator Reed's announcement served to break a filibuster which had been commenced by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], with a view to forcing prompt action by the President. Fearing that the President might resort to a "pocket veto," which constitutional experts thought possible, owing to failure to get the bill to him yesterday, Senator Couzens held up action on the naval appropriation bill by forcing a "first reading" of the entire bill of 56 pages.

Naval Bill Withdrawn.

Senate leaders realized that the bill could not be passed while the bonus situation was uncertain and withdrew it until later in the afternoon after Senator Reed's announcement satisfied Senator Couzens that congress would have a chance to pass the bonus loan bill over the President's veto.

Senator Couzens did not attempt to hold up appropriation conference reports. The senate, in an unusual burst of speed while the naval bill was being held back, adopted conference reports on the postoffice and treasury bill, carrying $1,083,148,922, the war department bill carrying $445,765,735, the department of agriculture bill carrying $215,578,860, and the District of Columbia bill, carrying $45,672,838, a grand total of $1,760,166,356. The conference reports had previously been approved in the house.

Passage Expected Today.

The senate is expected to pass the naval bill tomorrow and then will have only the second deficiency bill remaining to be acted upon. Two items in the independent offices conference report also remain for adjustment. The appropriation program thus is in such shape as to make it extremely unlikely that the bills remaining could be held up to force a special session.

Senator Couzens told the senate just what he proposed to do when he commenced his filibuster.

"So far as it is within my power, I am going to insist that the so-called soldiers bonus bill be sent back to the senate with a veto message, if that is the plan, in adequate time to have it considered by both houses of congress before we adjourn," said Senator Couzens. "I do not propose to permit the final enactment of all legislation relating to appropriations and other matters of importance and then find that we are going to have the bonus bill killed by a pocket veto."

Overriding Veto Seems Sure.

That the bill will be passed in both houses over President Hoover's veto is believed to be a certainty, in view of the overwhelming vote cast for it.

The bonus bill reached the White House at 1:10 p. m. today. It was signed by Speaker Longworth and Vice President Curtis soon after the two houses convened at noon, the law requiring that their signatures be affixed while their respective branches of congress are in session. Already President Hoover has assembled considerable material, which he is putting in shape for a veto message which will deal with all phases of the subject. As in his letter to Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the finance committee, he is expected to point out the necessity of the marketing of government securities totaling upwards of a billion dollars, including those in the three quarters of a billion bonus sinking fund, and to contend that this will increase financing difficulties of the treasury, which already present serious problems.

The President will further argue, it is supposed, that the ultimate effect may be to prolong the business depression. He will undoubtedly explain that he would have approved a bill for increased loans to veterans in actual need.

Senate Certain to Approve Measure.

called it, and it symbolized, he said, just one thing—the entrance of the United States government into business.

Mr. Fort listed some of the things the bill authorizes:

It sets up a "Muscle Shoals Corporation of the United States," with three directors to be chosen by the President; it permits the corporation to manufacture fertilizer, gives the corporation power to rebuild the entire plant, grants it access to the patented processes of private interests which it may buy, not under contract, but in the discretion of the board of directors.

"Not only," said Representative Fort, "does the measure put the government into business, but into business on an unfair basis of competition with private interests."

Lastly, he quoted the bill's requirements that the directors of the corporation be men in sympathy with the project.

"In other words," he declared, "you have your choice between taking either a liar or a Socialist."

Sovietizing Government?

"This report is part of the movement to sovietize our government and impoverish our people," asserted Representative Charles A. Eaton [Rep., N. J.]. "The Norris bill, upon which this measure is founded, is nothing but a hunk of sovietism disguised in a fertilizer bag."

The measure was only the Norris bill "slightly disguised," Representative Thomas C. Cochran [Rep., Pa.] pointed out.

The argument raised by many of the measure's supporters was that it would enable the manufacture of cheap fertilizer for the farmer. Several members called it "the best piece of farm relief legislation yet submitted to congress."

Representative W. Frank James [Rep., Mich.] asserted that the nitrate plants were not obsolete and could be put to work in a few weeks.

READY TO START BONUS LOANING IMMEDIATELY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—If the veterans' loan bill becomes law veterans would be able to start borrowing half of their compensation certificates' value the day after.

Veterans' bureau officials said so today, in revealing they had laid tentative plans for carrying out the provision of the bill when it is enacted formally as a law.

Administrator Hines declared the chief problem was one of enlarging personnel, as the machinery for making the loans, the majority of which would be made through the 52 regional offices, already was functioning well.

The finance division of the veterans' bureau reported between $25,000,000 and $35,000,000 on hand to start lending and said the first loans could be on their way the first day after the bill passed yesterday by the senate is signed.

VETERANS START RUSH TO APPLY FOR BONUS LOANS

More than 1,000 former service men, most of them unemployed, visited the United States veterans' bureau at 320 South Wabash avenue yesterday, seeking to file applications for loans on their bonus certificates, although the bonus bill passed by both houses of congress has not been finally enacted as a law.

"The erroneous report got around Thursday that veterans could begin making applications," it was stated at the veterans' bureau. "But we cannot begin taking applications until the bill has actually become a law. It was a misunderstanding and was so explained to the men who came with the belief they could file their applications now."

He ordered her into the car, theatening death if she refused, and then drove her to an alley near Dickens and Oak Park avenues, where he assaulted her.

OFFICE "CUSS BOX" DONATIONS BOOST GOOD FELLOW FUND

A "cuss box," placed in a handy spot for the use of workers in a clerical department of a railroad office yielded another contribution yesterday to THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow fund.

"Inclosed please find check for $3.25 which we, the undersigned, have paid as penalty for 'cussing,'" said the letter accompanying the gift. "Each time a 'cuss word' was uttered five cents was contributed to our 'cuss box.' This amount we desire to donate to the Good Fellow fund." The letter was signed by three employes.

Gifts and pledges received yesterday totaled $423.50 and brought the total in the Good Fellow fund past the $96,000 mark. A special effort is being made to bring the total to $100,000 within the next few days.

All the 205 families now under Good Fellow care have been investigated by four recognized charities to determine their worthiness. These agencies are the United Charities, Central Charities bureau [Catholic], Salvation Army and Jewish Social Service bureau.

ENEMY "ATTACK" ON CANAL ZONE MEETS SUCCESS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—An enemy naval "attack" upon the Panama canal area was reported to the navy department tonight as partially successful, but with the capture of the canal itself still in doubt.

Reporting upon the elaborate maneuvers of the "Blue" fleet, defending the canal, and the "Black" fleet, attacking it, Admiral Jehu V. Chase radioed the department the "enemy" had seized Port Culebra, attacked the defending forces by air in the Nicaraguan canal district, and was moving upon the Panama canal.

Earlier official observers informed authorities in Washington of the necessity of increased aircraft facilities to protect the American coast. David S. Ingalls, assistint secretary of the navy for aeronautics, radioed the part played by the dirigible Los Angeles had "conclusively established" the "necessity" for continued development of lighter-than-air craft by the navy.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, likewise indorsed the defensive qualities of the Los Angeles, and added the maneuvers had shown a "necessity for cruisers, especially those of the flying deck type."

$9,430 ADDED IN RELIEF DRIVE; DEFICIT $69,397

Contributions to the emergency relief fund being raised by the governor's unemployment commission yesterday were $9,430, of which $4,615 came in response to the direct home appeal through franked envelopes provided by the postal authorities. The grand total last night stood at $4,930,603, including provisional plus subscriptions of $95,720, valid only if the entire $5,000,000 quota is raised. The deficit of $69,397 must be raised before Wednesday, when the drive ends.

The largest single subscription received yesterday was for $960, sent in by John Krone, promoter of the recent Londos-Zaharias wrestling bout, and representing 5 per cent of the gate receipts.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont will be notified this morning that of the 6,100 jobless men who fill the shelters maintained by the governor's relief commission on an average night, twenty-six per cent are ex-service men. The figure will be wired to Mr. Lamont in Washington in response to a request received yesterday. It is believed that the government wishes the information in connection with the soldiers' bonus legislation.

ROME, Feb. 20.—Despite rain which fell in torrents Gen. Italo Balbo, minister of aeronautics, and other participants in the recent trans-Atlantic flight to Brazil, were received in a triumphal welcome in Rome this evening.

The entire cabinet, headed by Premier Mussolini, and all the high state officials greeted them at the railway station, while scores of thousands of people outside the station and en route through the city cheered them.

counsel, and the permit was not revoked until the Supreme court declared invalid the ordinance amendment under which it was granted.

In 1927, letters notifying virtually all Chicago builders that they had become members of the William Hale Thompson Republican club were sent out by Paschen. They were later notified that the initiation fee was $100.

Reports that the long projected indictment of Paschen is soon to materialize recalled the cautious statements of District Attorney Johnson when he took his office for a second term. He promised that men just as high in public life as those already convicted would become defendants.

Paschen, in addition to being a city hall power, is the Republican ward committeeman from the 19th ward, where his secretary, Daniel J. O'Connell, who paid a $100 fine for violating the prohibition laws in 1927, is running for alderman.

OLIVER DENIED PROBATION

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday denied a motion for probation of County Assessor Gene G. Oliver, under sentence of 18 months in the penitentiary for income tax fraud. The judge denounced the defendant as a faithless public servant who "prostituted his office for gain."

JUDGE WOODWARD.

The court also scored the "furtive and insidious advances" made to him on Oliver's behalf "by prominent and influential citizens. The probation motion for Oliver had been pending since his sentence last July and was bitterly contested at various hearings in court. Judge Woodward granted the first continuance with the understanding that counsel would try to show in a civil action at Washington that Oliver's liability was greatly exaggerated at the trial.

Refers to Compromise Offer.

"The court cannot disguise its disappointment at the turn affairs took in Washington," he said. "Instead of reviewing the documentary evidence the defendant offered a compromise of his civil liability, thus tacitly conceding the correctness of the conclusion of this court."

Oliver's civil liability, including taxes, interests, and penalties, is allegedly $108,000, while at the trial it was contended that he tried to evade payment of $56,000 on an income of some $500,000 for three years. His offer in compromise, recently made in Washington, was for $10,000.

"Besides the hearings had in open court," said Judge Woodward, "the presiding judge has received letters; has been privately solicited by prominent and influential citizens, some prominent in official circles and many of them high in the councils of their political parties; has been besieged in his home, on the streets, and in his chambers, all suggesting, recommending and urging that probation be accorded the defendant.

"Defendants must learn that they are not advancing favorably an application for a judicial ruling by inducing their friends, however exalted their political, business, financial or social position may be, to whisper into the judicial ear in private."

Oliver's fine was reduced from $12,500 to $7,500 and an appeal was permitted.

About Men Who Dared Greatly in Far Places

Goethals, Ward, Du Chaillu and Others.

BY AL CHASE.

"A Yankee Adventurer," by Holge Cahill. [Macaulay.]

"Paul du Chaillu, Gorilla Hunter, by Michel Vaucaire." [Harpers.]

"Jungle Gold," by Will de Grouch and William L. Magee. [Bobbs-Merrill.]

A quartet of Americans, two engineers, a sailor-soldier of fortune, and a writer-explorer—adventurers all—figure in four late books of worthwhile reading.

"Goethals, Genius of the Panama Canal," by Joseph Bucklin Bishop and his son, Farnham Bishop [Harpers], is an inspiring life story of a great American and a vivid picture of the building of the Panama canal.

Joseph Bucklin Bishop was formerly secretary of the Isthmian canal commission, and started writing this book inspired by the long and intimate friendship with Gen. Goethals. He died when only a few chapters were finished. His son, Farnham Bishop, completed the biography, and then he, too, died before the book was actually in print.

Not only is George Washington Goethals' life itself fascinating, but it is linked with great national figures—Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson, and others—so that it presents an inside picture of America's greatest engineering feat and its greatest war. Goethals' work.

Frederick Townsend Ward, a down easterner and one of America's most picturesque soldiers of fortune, is the unique figure in "A Yankee Adventurer," by Holger Cahill [Macaulay]. Ward, after several years of world wandering and fighting, went to China. There he played the star rôle in what probably was the greatest civil war in all history, the Taiping rebellion, in which it is estimated 20,000,000 were killed. He organized and trained China's first modern army which was so successful in combating the rebels that the emperor christened it "the ever victorious army," and made Ward a general. He turned the tide against the Taipings, married a mandarin's daughter, and later was killed in battle.

For the first time the life of the world's most debonair explorer-author, Paul Du Chaillu, a French-American whose name is linked with equatorial Africa and the gorilla by both grown-ups and youngsters, has been written. In "Paul du Chaillu, Gorilla Hunter," by Michael Vauclaire (Harpers), is pictured a career that ranged from killing jungle beasts to lecturing to adoring throngs in the great capitals of the world.

He was a cosmopolite who was born in France and never lost his French accent. But he became an American citizen.

How Yankee millions were sunk in the steaming tropics of Dutch Guiana in a losing struggle to wrest gold from the fever laden swamps of that South American colony of Holland is told in "Jungle Gold" (Bobbs-Merrill), a swift moving narration of the adventures of Howard A. Pedrick, by Will de Grouchy and William L. Magee.

A Philadelphia millionaire spent $2,500,000 backing Pedrick in an expedition to get gold from a jungle swamp. After months of heartbreaking battles with tropic terrors, thrilling conflicts with escaped convicts from nearby French penal camps, stirring struggles with snakes and sickness, the eighteen mile railroad was completed, the mining machinery was started, and a fortune seemed in their hands.

And then both nature and humans turned on Pedrick and the treasure expedition was wrecked.

He made a last desperate effort to win a fortune for his indefatigable backer, but again, for the fourth time, fever took a hand in the battle and he barely escaped with his life.

It's a stirring tale of American pluck, energy, and resource pitted against the jungle, and, despite the latter's victory, is an outstanding volume of true tropical adventure.

Here's Futile Heroine Who Fails to Harm Charm of the Book

"A Short History of Julia" by Isa Glenn (Knopf) is a portrait of a southern girl done with great understanding not only of the environment but of the product of heredity plus background.

Julia is not only typical of the old south in its close, sleepy social and ethical codes but she is the old south in temperament and psychology. She is her heritage and she would have been the same person in any other environment. It is that absolute actualness which makes "A Short History of Julia" an interesting novel.

In Julia the reader sees a whole class, a whole local culture. The qualities which made Julia a passive agent in life were the qualities of her heritage. The more active gestures of her sister brought her what Julia so deeply and so passionately desired, but Julia, being the flower of long generations of "ladies," was, even with the goad of love, incapable of voluntary "forwardness."

"A Short History of Julia" is the story of a life which was not only futile in its outer manifestations but which was futile even in its inner ones. The heroine drifted down the stream of her own inherent lack of force. And what makes the book a tragedy is that she never really understood herself, although she realized that life was passing her by.

There are thousands of lives in the world that might never have been lived, so little do they add (or even subtract) from the flow of life and living in the world. They go through all of the motions of living, but except for a few days, months perhaps, they don't even really feel, and they never give anything to life or take anything from it. But they are rarely the material of novels.

The "failure" in literature is usually suffused with some inner light, has made character in his or her children, has planted a germ of beauty in a community, or has even wrecked the lives of his family. He has been an active in life's picture. Isa Glenn proves her art by drawing a passive absolutely consistent both psychologically and in her place in life. F. B.

Bridge Made Easier.

"Common Sense Contract Bridge," by Milton C. Work [Winston], is the result of two years' toil on the part of the famous expert spent in perfecting a system which is at once simple and sane. It is, the publisher admits, for beginners, but also for average players—and experts! And it is warranted masterable by a single reading.

Gotham Grips British Author by Right Hand

Priestley Recovers, Then Enjoys the Town.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—The literary event of the week in New York was the arrival of J. B. Priestley, author of "The Good Companions" and "Angel Pavement." Mr. Priestley was met at the boat by a barrage of reporters. By the time that we corralled him for a talk he was limp with fatigue. Even his stocky, stolid British sturdiness had suffered in the battle. When America likes a visiting Englishman it certainly welcomes him to shreds.

J. B. PRIESTLEY.

The twinkle in his eyes survived the onslaught, however. It was operating when he answered my first leading question:

"What's happening in English literature today?"

That's always a good all round starter and the usual answer is a chatty discussion of the latest movements. Mr. Priestley didn't mince matters at all. He came right out and said:

"I'm happening."

Then he told me what he meant:

"Not for years has a book sold in England like 'The Good Companions.'

"Over 150,000 copies of it were sold and it has started a movement in England, away from the modern introspective novel, about neurotic people of which Aldous Huxley's work is the leading example. The movement is back to the traditional English novel of the Fielding, Sterne, Dickens, Hardy tradition."

Mr. Priestley, however, doesn't like being called the modern Dickens. He writes about pleasant, decent people of today who are, he says, the only kind of people who really count in the world.

It was inevitable, he being the best friend of Hugh Walpole, we should discuss "Cakes and Ale." That book caused perhaps an even greater sensation in England than it did in America last fall, especially as a reply to it has been written and is soon to be published with the title of "Gin and Bitters." Everybody in town is talking about "Gin and Bitters" and the rumor has been heard that Hugh Walpole had written in it an answer to Somerset Maugham's savage and undeniable picture of America's sweetheart among the visiting English lecturers.

"I know positively that Hugh did not write it," Mr. Priestley said, "nor any of the young men whom I know, or I should have heard all about it. 'Cakes and Ale' was a villainous attack. In it Maugham even used word for word some intimate conversations. His doing so is beneath contempt."

Mr. Priestley was a literary critic before "Good Companions" was published.

"I suppose," he said, "I have done more for American literature in England than any one else in London, except Hugh."

I had asked him whether American literature was liked there. "But all that both of us could do," he added, "never has made American books popular in England."

I asked him whom he thought our outstanding American novelist. He replied, without a moment's hesitation, Willa Cather.

Mr. Priestley has found New York, which he is seeing for the first time, incredible. He can't imagine, he says, that human beings live in the vast lofty piles that he sees from his windows facing Central park or that line the streets as he walks down them. The inhabitants of such fantastic structures ought to be eleven feet tall and have green faces, he says.

He will not comment on Chicago for the very excellent reason that he will not see it. He is hovering all about it, but, to quote his words, "Man cannot live a life of pleasure. Self-denial is vital to the soul." He will have to nurture his by not going to Chicago. The reasons really are practical. He has lecture engagements which will keep him away in his hurrying across the country to take a boat for Tahiti. He goes there to gather material for part of the novel which he is writing now.

Favoring Winds Have Their Way with His Name

John Villiers Writes Well of Sailing Vessels.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The liveliest twinkle peeks out of his blue-gray eyes; he has dimples; he's married; his name is Alan J.—for John—Villiers; and he doesn't care how you pronounce his last name. He himself rhymes it with Millers, but says the dictionary indicates several variants, and why should he be fussy?

JOHN VILLIERS.

He's author of that saga of sailing ships, "By Way of Cape Horn," which has taken its place since its publication last summer as one of the modern classics of the sea. Next month appears "Vanished Fleets," his fourth book. And he's only twenty-seven.

At Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Brickell's afternoon party Mr. Villiers was guest of honor. He landed in America a fortnight ago; likes the natives and the strange native drinks. He's here to lecture and show pictures of that windjammer voyage round Cape Horn which he experienced as a bona fide member of the crew. He was born in Tasmania; commenced his life as a sailor at the age of fourteen.

"Doing research in the British museum," we have always thought sounds literary and all that, but slightly dullish. The other day at the Woman's University club we asked Gertrude Marvin Williams for the real low-down. She found is fascinating—as fascinating as the rest of us are finding her new biography of Annie Besant, "The Passionate Pilgrim." Tracking down a life, it seems, is the most exciting kind of detective work. And Mrs. Williams had an unusually colorful and dramatic subject, whose career had many phases unrealized, at first, by her biographer.

When Gertrude Marvin, born in Denver but, as the daughter of an army colonel living most everywhere in the U. S., settled down for four years at Wellesley, the name of Annie Besant connoted theosophy. After a bit of newspaper reporting for a Boston paper, after moving to New York and becoming Mrs. Williams, she became interested in India, so much so that she spent half a year there with her book, "Understanding India," as a result. "I am not a mystic or a theosophist," Mrs. Williams says. "I am very materialistic. But the name of Annie Besant is so potent in India that I was impelled to learn more of this western woman who inspired such regard, almost worship, in the east."

Mrs. Williams spent ten months in England doing her research; she had several interviews with Mrs. Besant, but she found that the subject of her biography was the least fruitful source of information.

FILE OBJECTIONS TO ALMOST ALL OF SUBWAY LEVY

Property Owners Prepare for Court Battle.

The promised fight against the special assessment for the construction of the State street subway became a certainty yesterday. When the office of the Superior court clerk closed last evening, the final day for filing formal objections to the assessments, it was estimated that objections had been filed against nearly all of the 1,500 items on the subway assessment roll.

This estimate was made by a representative of the Property Owners' committee on subway assessments, an organization formed early in January to oppose the construction of the tube by special assessment. One suit filed at 4 p. m. objected to 2,140 of the assessments covering about 3,500 parcels of property.

Hearings to Start March 12.

The property owners now have until March 2 to specify on what particular grounds they are opposing the assessment. The form used by the court lists 110 possible objections. Superior Judge E. M. Mangan has set March 12 as the date on which he will begin hearing the objections.

The suit making objections against 1,140 of the assessments was filed by the law firms of Scott, MacLeisch & Fisk, and Wilson, McIlvaine, Hale & Templeton. It was sponsored by the property owners' committee.

The objections in this cuit cover property throughout the area bounded by Division, Wells, 22d streets and the lake, which constitutes the assessment district for the subway. The objections represent all types of property, including hotels, retail stores, office buildings, private homes, apartment buildings, vacant land and manufacturing property.

Big Stores File Objections.

Among the assessments objected to are those against the property owned by Marshal Field & Co. These assessments total $1,423,340. Others objected to are those of Charles A. Stevens & Bros., $356,985; Mandel Bros., $409,330; Carson Pirie Scott & Co., $517,990; the Levi Z. Leiter estate, $656,734; the Edward A. Shedd estate, $133,950; the First National bank, $68,101, and the Kuppenheimer-Washington Stores company, $70,373.

The objections contained in this suit, along with the objections filed individually by the railroads, who are cooperating with the committee, constitute about $17,000,000 of the $28,-000,000, which the property owners have been asked to pay. The total cost of the subway has been estimated at $41,146,000, and the balance of $12,-000,000 is to be paid as a public benefit out of the city traction fund.

Special Levy Is Opposed.

Attorneys representing the committee said that their main objection is that a special assessment is not proper for this improvement. They contend that the assessments are not only too high, but that the subway is a general and not a local improvement and therefore there can be no special assessment.

The railroads protest that inasmuch as freight may be carried through the subway they should not be assessed to aid a competitor. It is the opinion of most of the committee members. It was said, that the cost should be defrayed by a bond issue or by the city traction fund.

"By the consolidation of surface and elevated lines," one of the committee members said, "street car riders will be able to transfer to the elevated at all points of intersection. So the benefits of the subway which will connect with the elevated, will be felt in every district served by local transportation lines.

"And yet, in the face of the general benefit that will accrue to the entire city, the board of local improvements has decided to levy 69 per cent of the entire cost of $41,146,000 on the real estate in the downtown district.

"If the city is really in earnest in wanting to build a subway, it should repeal the present subway ordinance and start seriously on a sound financing plan."

COL. LUKE LEA DENIES 'CHECK KITING' CHARGE

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Col. Luke Lea, for years a dominant political figure in Tennessee, issued a statement today denying the allegations made before the legislative investigating committee by W. S. Chappell, former cashier of the closed Liberty Bank and Trust company of Nashville, that he had used his influence to obtain state deposits for banks as loans to him and that he had practiced "check kiting."

"While my account at the Liberty Bank and Trust company was very active and the amounts handled through it totaled large figures, every cash item deposited was paid in full," Col. Lea said. "Interest and exchange on the same were always charged and paid when properly chargeable. No loan nor accommodation was ever granted to me on account of any deposit of public funds."

At the investigation being conducted by the state affairs legislative committee Highway Commissioner Robert H. Baker and State Treasurer John F. Nolan today denied responsibility for a bundle of highway withdrawal checks for nearly $5,000,000 that came to notice on Capitol hill last October.

Each said they should not be blamed for having more than $4,000,000 of the state's money presently caught in the crash of four banks in which Roger Caldwell, ex-financial lord, and Col. Luke Lea were interested.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANNES, France, Feb. 20.—A seven pound heiress to the crown of fashion made its first appearance here yesterday when Mme. Paul Dubonnet, the former Jean Nash of New Jersey, who is known among Paris courturiers and on the rest of the continent as "the best dressed woman in the world," gave birth to a daughter in her luxurious villa at Aiguebelle.

Mme. Dubonnet, it was learned by telephone, "feels fine already and the baby is the picture of health." It is not yet decided what the baby's name will be.

Paul Dubonnet, son of the French aperitif king, was at his wife's side throughout the ordeal.

FRANCE TO SPEND $258,000,000 ON ARMY IN 1931

PARIS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Introducing a $258,000,000 budget for the ministry of war in parliament tonight, Deputy Bouilloux Lafonte offered a report tending to establish, he said, that France has gone further along the road to disarmament than any other nation.

Metropolitan troops are allocated $190,000,000 and overseas colonial troops $68,000,000 in the 1931 budget. The total is about $3,000,000 more than last year's.

Lafonte said the French metropolitan army numbered 522,000, with 36,000 gendarmes in addition. Great Britain, he said, has 510,000 regulars and 277,000 militia; Italy, 303,000 regulars and 110,000 caribineers; the United States, 157,000 regulars and 395,000 National Guards.

FOUND DEAD FROM GAS.

Lyle M. Stafford, 50 years old, an accountant, was found dead yesterday in the basement of his home at 334 Ashland avenue, River Forest, beside a gas stove. Two burners of the stove were open. Police were unable to determine whether or not he committed suicide.

ARREST BANKER FOR SILENCE ON WITNESS STAND

But Indicted New Yorker Is Quickly Freed.

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Bernard K. Marcus, indicted president of the Bank of the United States, was arrested this afternoon for refusing to answer questions put to him by Max D. Steuer, who is in charge of the dual state and county investigation of the affairs of the closed bank.

BERNARD K. MARCUS

Marcus was taken into custody by a state trooper, marched over to the Tombs court, and held in bail for a hearing. Ten minutes later he was paroled in custody of counsel.

Saul Singer, executive vice president of the bank, followed Marcus to the stand, and he likewise refused to answer Steuer's questions on the advice of his counsel.

Another Officer Silent.

Singer based his refusal on the ground that the answers might "tend to incriminate or degrade him." After propounding a dozen or so questions and getting the same stereotyped reply, Steuer finally waved the banker from the stand and announced that this case, too, would be referred to a magistrate's court.

The defiance of Marcus and Singer developed after John F. Gilchrist, Tammany leader, friend of Alfred E. Smith and former holder of half a dozen political offices in city and state, had told the partial story of a $112,000 loan, unsecured, by the Bank of United States to William F. Kenny, intimate friend of Smith.

Gilchrist Indorsed Note.

The note was indorsed by Gilchrist, a director in the bank, and at the time president of the Consolidated Indemnity company, which was "entirely controlled," he admitted, by Marcus and Singer. He is now chairman of the board of directors of Consolidated. Smith and Kennedy are directors, and the Bank of United States group has been eliminated.

The $112,000 note matured Dec. 12, 1930, and was paid Dec. 26, 1930, after the bank closed, Gilchrist said.

Steuer asked no questions which might have tended to verify the widely circulated rumor that this loan was made just about the time that Smith, Kenny, and associates were taking over control of the County Trust company, which had been dominated by James J. Riordan. Smith and his friends took over the bank after Riordan, an intimate of the former governor, committed suicide.

MAYOR WALKER SAYS GOTHAM'S "FULL OF CRIME"

Urges Prevention Men to Prevent.

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—New York City may or may not be the "crime capital" of the United States as certain qualified students of statistics have been lately insisting, but it certainly is "full of crime."

No less an authority than his honor, Mayor James J. Walker himself admitted as much today, making it practically unanimous.

The mayor's verdict came in the course of a warning he was moved to sound for the benefit of Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney as the result of the death of Detective Christopher Scheuing at the hands of bandits last night.

"It seems to me," the mayor told the police executive, "that the crime prevention bureau had better begin to prevent some crime.

Likes Old Style Best.

"I make no reflection on the police department as such, but it does seem that we have deviated from the old policy of brass buttons and the night stick and have substituted for it science and crime prevention.

"Suddenly we awaken to find the city hall full of crime."

The mayor's remarks were delivered in the course of a hearing before the board of estimate on a motion to increase the number of patrolwomen in the crime prevention bureau from thirty to fifty.

Before coming to city hall Mr. Mulrooney himself warned 200 detectives and police officials that the time had come for police to be quicker on the draw and to accost all suspicious characters with their guns in their hands.

Urges Quicker Action.

It was an old-fashioned police talk delivered during the morning lineup at headquarters. Deploring the killing of Scheuing, the commissioner commanded his men to be "quicker in going into action."

Scheuing, who with Detective Dominick Pape had trailed two men for several blocks and had caught them in the act of holding up a café, was killed because he could not draw his gun. Kid glo es and an overcoat were his undoing.

"He was a brave officer and a fine man," Mr. Mulrooney said, "but he lost his life because he was not prepared."

Sternly the commissioner ordered all commanding officers to direct their men to have their guns in instant readiness. Men wearing overcoats, he said, should have their guns in their overcoat pockets at the first sign of emergency.

Street Sprayed by Bullets.

Commissioner Mulrooney's warning was particularly timely, aside from the killing of Detective Scheuing, for early today another daring criminal activity was reported. A three man firing squad armed with automatic shotguns capable of firing a dozen shots apiece laid a barrage of slugs from a second floor window at 65 Suffolk street. The intended victim, however, ran unharmed through the hail of bullets into a restaurant and escaped through a rear door.

The driver's seat and a door of the sedan from which the man had stepped was riddled with bullets, and a man's overcoat at No. 66, across the street, was pierced by a spray of buckshot, though its wearer was not wounded.

SEEK TO QUASH CHARGE AGAINST CARROLL'S SHOW

Scanlan Tells How the Raid Was Ordered.

Arguments on a motion to quash the charges of participating in an obscene and indecent show brought against 25 chorus girls and four principals in the cast of Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" will be heard in Municipal Judge Justin F. McCarthy's court today, the final day of the show's engagement in Chicago.

Chorus girl defendants slept in each other's arms and stretched out in various attitudes on the court room benches yesterday as defense attorneys, cross-questioning Acting Deputy Commissioner of Police James B. Scanlan, endeavored to show the political aspects of the raid on the revue last Friday.

Told to "Get Busy."

Scanlan, who was recently promoted from the position of orderly to Acting Commissioner Alcock to censor of theatrical proprieties, told how he was called into his chief's office, where Assistant Corporation Counsel James Breen produced the statutes on which the warrants were to be secured against the show people and told him "to get busy."

Questioning of the witness developed that elaborate preparations were made for the spectacular raid and that it was timed so that the officers could descend upon the stage while the show was in progress.

Scanlan, on questioning, admitted that since the "Sketch Book" was raided he had seen the show twice, each time taking a half dozen friends to the theater on free passes. He spent an hour on the stand telling about such things as brassieres, girdles and other articles of the chorus apparel which he had some difficulty in describing. His description and the embarrassed blushing it caused at one point prompted the judge to remark:

"The court will not allow the discussion of anything that relates to scandal."

Yarrow Kept off Stand.

The Rev. Philip Yarrow, head of the Illinois Vigilance committee, arrived with a brief case to testify, but he wasn't allowed to tell how shocked he was by the performance, for it was found that he had viewed the show after the raid took place. Dr. Yarrow, however, went right back to his office and got out a statement for the press declaring "the stage in Chicago has sunk low."

Capt. Willard Malone of the First district police, who took part in the raid, and Scanlan both tried to identify some of the chorines they took into custody, but got the blondes and brunettes all mixed up.

FREE POLICEMAN CHARGED WITH FRAMING GIRLS

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Leigh Halpern, the first of the vice squad members to be brought before a jury as an outgrowth of the alleged framing of women and girls, was acquitted today by a General Sessions jury.

The jurors, after a three day trial, required just two hours to decide that Halpern had not perjured himself in swearing he did not know the two stool pigeons figuring in the arrest of Rose Davis and Marian Godfrey, night club entertainers.

Some fifty other vice squad members and detectives, a number of whom are already under indictment, cheered in the corridors of the Criminal Courts building and carried Halpern down the steps as if he were a conquering football star.

"Did you hear of my good luck?" Halpern shouted to Caesar Barra, counsel for two more of the accused officers, whom he met in the corridor.

YOUR MAYOR PLANS A TRIP.

Your mayor has said that in case Chicago afflicts itself with his defeat he will take to his new yacht and be on his way to a care free life, leaving the affliction to do its worse. The yacht is in the river, not far from the Sherman house, and your mayor could be on his way on ten minutes' notice. He bought the yacht last fall, about the time he was assisting in the public cherishing given Mr Hearst, the California publisher, who at the time was low in spirits because of the ingratitude of the French republic. Possession of the ship evidently influenced your mayor's decision to run again for mayor. It would be so easy to get away from it all, any way it went.

If the city should afflict itself next Tuesday, your mayor may use his leisure to carry the Mississippi relief fund down the river to the people for whom he collected it several years ago. This is not a promise. It may not even be a possibility, but if your money is going anywhere he might take the money along for such charity work as came to his notice. At least he might take it along.

Other departures are contingent on your mayor's. They may not all be by water. Many of your mayor's friends who will be leaving will not care how. Their principal concern will be when. They also will leave Chicago to its affliction. Your mayor will not be able to accommodate many of them on his ship, the Doris, and might not care to if he could. As a private citizen, he might have the same apprehensions any other private citizen would have in their company on any kind of a ride. Some of them made a mistake last year which would not inspire your mayor's confidence in their judgment or dependability, and they might make another, particularly if it were understood that your mayor was going south with the relief fund for relief work. This might prove an overstrain on your mayor's co-workers, co-builders, and friends who happened to be with him.

If they leave by water it will be by any available excursion boats, but the rails will carry the majority of them. Even a box car is faster than swimming. Speed will not be regarded as undesirable. Your mayor's traveling companions will be only the two burros and Mr. Wolfe and Mr. Faherty, a small but congenial party. In a way it will be a pity to lose the burros. They represent the best in your mayor's associations and are symbolic of his building. With them he built the Chicago skyline, the Buckingham fountain, the Field museum, the Adler planetarium, the Shedd aquarium, the subway, the Commonwealth Edison company, the Civic Opera house, the Soldiers' field stadium, the Indiana dunes, the Art institute, and the St. Gaudens statue of Lincoln. Your mayor, being zoo-minded, would be inconsolable without these modest and worthy coworkers, but if Mr. Wolfe by an effort could compensate for the loss to your mayor it would be gratifying to the city to retain these evidences of its great building era.

Indeed, the city would be quite satisfied if these were the only evidences remaining of it, but there will be others, unfortunately. Many of them will be bills overdue and overlarge. It's too bad that the city can't keep the burros as mementos. They would be the only souvenirs of your mayor the builder which would be needed, and so long as they lived they would keep his memory fresh.

Possibly in your mayor's determination to tear himself away from a city afflicted by his defeat and not to remain to see it suffering—proof that his heart beats strong for common humanity—there is a loss to art. What a fifth he would make in the Four Marx Brothers. Chico, Groucho, Zeppo, Harpo and Bunko, but Harpo might be unable to control his professional jealousy. Your mayor not only looks dumber but, although he cannot play the harp, he might be at least equal in the other forms of Harpo's technique.

PROGRESS IN RADIO LAW.

The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia recently announced a decision of great importance in the evolution of radio law. Station KYW of Chicago operates on what is called a borrowed channel. The radio act has divided the country arbitrarily into zones. A wave length which had been allocated theoretically to the second zone had been assigned in fact to KYW, a station established in the fourth zone. When KYW applied for a renewal of its license the federal radio commission sought to include in the permit a statement to the effect that if an application for KYW's frequency came from the second zone the transfer could be made merely by the commission's fiat. KYW resisted the inclusion of this clause and was sustained by the District Court of Appeals.

If this decision is not a full recognition of property rights in wave lengths, it is at least a long step in that direction and a step which cannot easily be retraced. The law as it now stands might be phrased somewhat as follows: A broadcasting assignment must be renewed by the commission from time to time without change. A change can be made only if the commission is convinced that the continued operation of the station in question is not in the public interest; and the commission cannot come to such a conclusion without a formal hearing in which the issues are clearly defined. Finally, an adverse decision by the commission is subject to review in the courts.

This decision will tend to stabilize the radio industry. It will give to broadcasters an assurance of tenure which will justify them in making large expenditures for equipment and programs, confident that the investment in plant and good will will not be subject to confiscation at the whim of a commission more or less subject to political pressures. This assurance is in the interest of the station owners, but it is in even larger measure in the interest of radio listeners. Clearer reception and superior entertainment from many stations may be anticipated.

THE BOND ISSUES.

Bond issues for a total of $54,600,000 will be submitted to the voters on Tuesday. The sanitary district is asking for $36,000,000; the city government wants $2,500,000; the south park board, $13,100,000, and the Lincoln park board, $3,000,000. THE TRIBUNE recommends approval of all the proposals.

The sanitary district bonds are intended to pay part of the costs of sewage treatment works which the district must build in accordance with the decree of the United States Supreme court in the lake diversion case. The cost of these works is large; it is estimated that the district must spend close to $20,000,000 a year on construction for the next eight years. The expenditure, however, cannot be evaded or delayed as long as the decree is unamended. Indeed, Chicago can hope to bring about a modification of the decree only through loyally observing the program of construction as laid down. The court will be better disposed toward Chicago if the order is obeyed to the letter.

The other city-wide question concerns the $2,500,000 issue asked by the city government for the widening of North State street between the river and Chicago avenue. The widening of the street is a necessary preliminary to the construction of the four track subway. Already condemnation proceedings have been started and the proceeds of the issue will be used principally to pay property owners for the land taken from them. This issue also deserves support.

The Lincoln park board wishes to borrow $3,000,000 for the northward extension of the lake front park. This borrowing was authorized by the legislature two years ago when a total of $9,000,000 in Lincoln park bonds was approved. The present proposal is the third and final installment to be submitted, in turn, to the voters. The lake front park is worth the money.

So far as the seven south park issues are concerned, the Civic federation and the Bureau of Public Efficiency are in agreement in recommending three of them for approval. The one issue of outstanding importance is that for $3,500,000 for the extension of the Randolph street viaduct. It is last on the ballot, but in importance it is first. The Illinois Central railroad and the south park commissioners are to share equally the cost of constructing a viaduct from Michigan avenue to Field boulevard in Grant park. The railroad is constructing its part of the work now in connection with the building of the new suburban station. The park will use $2,400,000 in carrying out its share of the contract. The remaining $1,100,000 will be spent chiefly in reconstructing Field boulevard to connect with the viaduct and the new outer drive bridge. All of these expenditures are essential, without them the large sums already spent in improving the lake front, north and south, will not yield their full return to the taxpayers.

Approval is also given to the proposal for $475,000 for Jackson park piers and shore protection. If this investment is not made, the cost of repairing storm damage may well be considerably more. A million dollars is asked for widening Marquette boulevard, widening Oakwood boulevard between Drexel boulevard and the outer drive and widening St. Lawrence avenue between Sixtieth and Sixty-sixth streets. These improvements will be of great value in expediting traffic.

The proposal to spend $2,610,000 as a first step toward the extension of the lake front park to the Indiana line is opposed by the two organizations mentioned above, but the argument is not convincing. If the lake front park has been of benefit to the sections nearer the loop, the further extension will be of no less benefit to those farther out. The city is growing and will continue to grow. With its growth must come an expansion of the park and boulevard system. The same reasoning applies to the proposed expenditures of $2,000,000 for Southeastern boulevard and $1,600,000 for Yates avenue. In their day these improvements are as valid and as necessary as Drexel boulevard and South Park way were when they were laid out through a sparsely settled area. At present there is a shortage of adequate gateways to the city from the south, in consequence of which business is hampered and Chicagoans are cut off from one of the most desirable week-end areas in the region. These new boulevards will be worth what they will cost.

Finally, the south park board is asking $1,915,000 for acquiring, improving and completing parks in various sections of its jurisdiction. It is conceded that some of the purposes listed are worthy of support. Opposition to the issue is directed chiefly at particular items in the list. The opposition is narrow in its outlook. There is great need for recreation areas and equipment in the outlying sections of Chicago. The taxpayers in these areas have helped pay for the improvements given elsewhere, and, in turn, are entitled to their share of benefits.

[Danville Commercial-News.]

Columbia university prepares for a centenary celebration to be held next year. The man whose birthday anniversary is to be observed was a mathematician, but his claim to fame is a book he wrote for the delight of some little children he knew and loved. It is Lewis Carroll, author of "Alice in Wonderland." There'd be no centenary plans without that little volume.

The celebration at Columbia will include an exhibition of copies of books by Carroll—whose real name was C. L. Dodgson—which are hard to get, manuscripts, and so on. Lewis Carroll enthusiasts, of whom there are many, will take particular delight in the opportunity the centenary observance will offer to learn more about him. But it all raises a question.

Are children today as keen about "Alice in Wonderland" as were their parents and aunts and uncles? A writer in the New York World says:

"It is doubtful if Shakespeare himself ever produced a work that is so much quoted, so often reread, so profoundly loved, as this little book. Some, indeed, make of it a sort of Bible, and in it find illumination of countless things in everyday life."

That goes for a lot of grownups who have never ceased to read and enjoy the book since they first stumbled upon it at the age of 7 or 8 years. We sincerely hope it may also be true for children at those ages now.

CORNS AND TROUBLE.

THERE is only one spirit for an article on corns. That is factual. There is no poetry nor philosophy in the subject, nor does it lead to spiritual-mindedness. Corns are just corns. They result from prolonged, continued, uneven rubbing, and they go out the same door from which they come in.

They can be removed by cutting, polishing, or chemical treatment. The chemical used is a salicylic acid ointment, from 15 to 25 per cent. The various corn medicines are variously colored, flavored, and perfumed, they have different bases, but the variation is due to the embroidery. The Johnny that does the work is salicylic acid and they all contain it.

The brands that you buy ready made and ready wrapped are just as good as those made to order. These corn remedies are applied once a day until all of the thickened skin is in condition to be cut away or ground away. If the corn is between the toes and is, therefore, of the soft variety, it is advisable to cover it with plenty of clean absorbent cotton during the days of treatment.

To prevent corns from returning, the corn area must be protected against uneven rubbing. This can be done sometimes by wearing felt pads and corn rings. They must be of proper shape and so applied that they prevent rubbing. If the corns are on the sole of the foot, cushion sole shoes and corn insoles accomplish the purpose. But all appliances of this kind only serve temporarily.

In time they must give way to other methods. Either the rubbing must be stopped entirely or it must be changed to make it uniform. For instance, a man who acquires corns on his hands from holding his pen in a certain way can hold it another way, or a shoemaker can change his job. As a rule, the sufferer should try to convert an uneven rubbing into one that is even. If a certain shape of shoe rubs unduly at one place it can be changed. It is even possible to overcome corns and calluses [but not warts] on the soles by adjusting the shoes.

NEEDS MENTAL TRAINING.

J. S. writes: My father is 65 years old and in good health except that he is obsessed by a fixed idea. This has been going on for two years, after his stock market losses. He eats well but sleeps very poorly. He tries to fight this fixed idea but doesn't seem to be able to get a permanent result. Do you think it is caused by anemia, or by lack of exercise? He doesn't go out very often, as he works all the time inside. His blood pressure is all right, his heart is good, and his general appearance is perfect. His obsession is that he is going to go insane and die. What would you recommend as a treatment?

REPLY.

Why blame anemia or lack of exercise when, as you say, worry and anxiety over the stock market is the cause.

Probably your father has a personality that moves up and down in a regular way and you may expect him to again go into the up stage.

Fortunately, those who anticipate insanity seldom become insane. What he needs is mental and emotional training. This is given by psychiatrists. Diathermy should help.

FIRST FIND THE CAUSE.

E. H. writes: Could you give me a remedy or cure for eczema of the hands? I have been bothered with it for a year. It first appeared as a pimple between two fingers of one hand and since then it has spread to both hands, and is nearly up to the elbow of both. I have tried everything within my limited power to cure it. The itch has become unbearable.

REPLY.

Ninety-nine out of each one hundred cases of eczema of the hands are due to two causes: Exposure of the hands to some poison or infection with a fungus. What do your hands touch that might be poisonous to your skin? Have you been examined for ringworms? To find the cause and remove that will result in cure.

HIGHWAY ADVERTISING.

Conklin, Mich., Feb. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please give a list of the states that have prohibited or restricted the lining of the roads by the hideous billboards? Also please give the restrictions, if any. A. S. C.

All the states prohibit commercial advertising on the right of way of highways excepting Alabama, Arkansas, and Mississippi, where it is allowed under the regulation of highway departments, and in South Carolina, where there are no restrictions.

Most of the states prohibit signs within 100 to 300 feet of railway crossings and intersections of highways. This right has always been acknowledged by the property owner and has never been tested as to its constitutionality. Pennsylvania and New Jersey have laws which permit the highway departments to condemn the view of hazardous corners and curves and pay the property owner for the damages thereby caused. This law is made clear by the recent New Jersey case of Freilinghuysen vs. State Highway commission, 152, Atl. Reporter 79. The court held the law constitutional, but said the commission could only acquire an easement necessary for the purpose, and not title to the land.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Friend of the People.]—My mother has her declaration of intention and will apply for naturalization in February. Will my mother's naturalization make me a citizen if it occurs before I am 21 years old? I have no father. J. L.

If the father be dead or if the writer's mother was not married to his father he will become a citizen through his mother's naturalization if the naturalization occurs before he attains the age of 21 years.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Naturalization.

DEMOCRAT OR REPUBLICAN?

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" is a Democrat and says he is going to call for a Republican ticket on primary election day so he can vote for a Republican candidate for mayor. "B" says this is not legal and his ballot can be legally thrown out. Who is right? W. N. K.

He is not entitled to vote in the Republican primaries if he has been a consistent Democrat previously.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, THEY'VE GOT EVERYTHING BUT THAT.

And regarding that old battleship, the North Dakota, that the navy department has advertised for sale, they ought to watch out that the rum runners don't buy it and put it in the hootch trade. It would be very embarrassing if one of our little coast guard cutters was to see the North Dakota sooming along inside the 12 mile limit some day and went close to her and demanded where she was bound and if she had any hootch aboard. For then the North Dakota might turn four or five sixteen inch guns on the nice cute little dry boat while the captain shouted through his trumpet, or whatever he shouts through, and say, "We're loaded to the guards with Scotch likker. What about it?" Goodness! What a most embarrassing moment that would be for the little dry enforcement boat.

SONGS FOR LYNN.

I went to the store
Where I buy my excuses
Fancy and plain,
Square and pink, round and blue,
I need so MANY for you!

They had no more of the kind I wanted
Green, with saffron edges
Like sunset on the marshy sedges.
They had one about a sky blue day
Set to a robin's music.
They had a lazy one with lace
And one of gingham for any place.
So I bought a pound
Of round excuses,
And a quart of polka dot blue,
I need so MANY for you!

"GHOST OF Adele Ritchie Found Guilty."—The Trib. Our candid advice to ghosts would be to stay out of court. When a good live gangster gets haled before the bar of justice he can prove an alibi, non sequitur, ipse dixit, nux vomica, habeas corpus, nolo contendere, e pluribus unum, prima facie, in absentia, nil desperandum, and a lot of more things that a good criminal lawyer can readily think up without batting an eye. But a ghost. We can't bear to say it ourself, but you know what kind of chance a ghost has got in most of our courts.

GEORGE AND MR. KELLY.

Tomorrow is Washington's birthday and we should be thinking of George. Instead of thinking of George Washington here we are musing upon Edward J. Kelly. Why does Edward J. Kelly loom up in our thoughts instead of the immortal George who crossed the Delaware and smote the Hessians, after which he kicked King George III. many a grievous and well directed kick right in the seat of the kingly pants? But all that happened a long time ago. Edward J. Kelly happens right now. For Edward J. sits down in the Federal building in the income tax office waiting, waiting, and it's almost time now, it's almost time. And he's a kindly, gentle soul, is Edward J.; moreover, the way he figures out what we owe to the smallest fraction of a cent in the smallest fraction of time is a never ending wonder and pleasure—but somehow we never will be able to love that income tax. It will always be a horror, always a dreadful nightmare. Sometimes, Mr. Washington, we almost wish you hadn't licked the Hessians and King George and the British. Still, in that case we'd have to help pay England's income tax, and, heaven help 'em, that's worse than ours. What's the use! How do you do, Mr. Kelly, how do you do!

VERY WELL, AND MIND, YOU NIVER DO.

AND NOW the opponents of the Muscle Shoals bill think there's a remote prospect of the government running the fertilizer plant down there and they're seeing red. Yessir, they're seeing communists lurking around all over that place. And look! Sure enough, see that simple fisherman putting a worm on the hook and dropping his line into the pool at the bottom of Muscle Shoals—hist! hist! that's old man Stalin himself! And see those mud turtles crawling slowly along on the bank? Ha, those aren't mud turtles! No, sir, those are Russian Reds disguised as mud turtles! By golly, we've got to be careful!

EGGS ARE SO CHEAP down on the farm that rather than sell 'em for eight cents a dozen the farmers are feeding 'em to the hogs. But you go down to the store and buy eggs for eight cents a dozen and take an X along to mark the spot where you land on the pavement outside. Now, why can a hog get eggs cheaper than we can? But that's something that nobody knows.

AND WHAT WOULD G. Washington say if he returns to us on his birthday anniversary tomorrow? George only used profane language once—that was when he spoke quite harshly to Gen. Charles Lee during the battle of Monmouth. Probably if George looked us over tomorrow and heard the bombs and saw the racketeers and the gunmen and the mad mess into which we have fallen, he would say: "Dear me, what was that I said to Gen. Lee at Monmouth? Oh, yes; well, I'll say it again. Here goes!" B. M. L.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 21, 1915.

LONDON.—The sudden appearance of a German submarine in the Irish sea, directly in the path of many of the trans-Atlantic liners, has caused alarm in Great Britain. Today the German underwater craft struck without warning and no opportunity was given those aboard the latest victim, the Cambank, a coaster of 1,990 tons register, to seek safety. The boat sank upon being hit and took with it most of the crew.

LONDON.—The Turkish forts on both sides of the Dardanelles have been subjected to a constant bombardment lasting two days in which the united British and French Mediterranean fleets were assisted by a large squadron of seaplanes and airplanes. A Turkish official report said no damage had been done to the forts. Besides desiring to bring Turkey to her knees, the allies in their attempt to force the Dardanelles aim at an early release of the large stocks of wheat which are locked up in Russian warehouses and which the allies seek to get out, both to relieve the markets and to provide Russia with the credit necessary to pay for war material bought abroad.

PETROGRAD.—German troops are leading the Austrians in fresh onslaughts in an effort to force the Russians to evacuate Lemberg. The Germans are pressing forward along the railroad leading from Munkace through the Carpathians to Lemberg.

PARIS.—The French war statement says: "In the Argonne, at Les Eparges, southeast of Verdun, after having repulsed the sixth counter attack by the enemy, we delivered a fresh attack, taking three machine guns, two trench mortars, and 200 prisoners."

FEBRUARY 21, 1901.

CHICAGO.—The board of education voted its appropriation for 1901, aggregating $10,429,265. Included in the budget is provision for free textbooks in the first four grades of all the schools, regarded as one of the most important innovations in the public school system in years.

CHICAGO.—Windows in three saloons were smashed by persons who the police believe are afflicted with a desire to break saloon property because they have read accounts of Carrie Nation and the work of her Kansas crusaders. One of the local smashers a woman, admitted she was a devotee to the Nation idea. The saloons where windows were smashed are the Berghoff, State and Adams streets; P. Pellegrini's, State and 24th streets; and Charles Vletzen's, 279 Clark street, in the basement beneath Ald. Kenna's buffet. In Charles Puertz's saloon at 98 Randolph street the cash register was smashed.

PEKING.—The dowager empress and her advisers have yielded to the demands of the powers and Count von Waldersee's proposed expedition to Singan-fu will not take place. All the ministers have practically agreed to accept the compulsory suicides of Chao-Hsu-Chao and Ying-Lien as satisfactory. The Chinese expect the execution of the guilty officials to take place on Feb. 24.

FEBRUARY 21, 1881.

CLARE, Ireland.—Mr. Parnell arrived at Kingstown and traveled to Moate by the Midland railway. The journey was a continuous scene of enthusiastic demonstrations. At all the stations enormous crowds of people had assembled to cheer. The people of Mullingar, where the train stopped five minutes, crowded the platform on both sides. Many farmers, accompanied by bands and bearing banners, were present. Mr. Parnell said he took it as a good omen that the people of Ireland were determined to meet the weapon of coercion forged against them by the so-called Liberal government with a spirit unbroken.

LONDON.—A Newcastle dispatch states that Gen. Wood, with 100 Hussars, made a reconnaissance of over seventy-five miles and penetrated within ten miles of Wakkerstroom. He found the country almost deserted.

CHICAGO. — Jackson street from Halsted street west was in splendid sleighing condition yesterday, and was crowded with innumerable horses and cutters. The police patrol wagons were ordered out to abate the nuisance of reckless driving and were kept busy nearly all day.

A LAWYER'S TESTIMONY.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Yesterday, from 12:30 until 2 o'clock p. m., I sat among a group of lawyers at the Cort theater and heard the qualifications of Judge Lyle discussed by other lawyers who occupied seats on the stage. The ticket which entitled me to the seat which I occupied purported to come from the Lawyers' Civic association, but just whose generosity I am indebted to for the privilege I do not know.

While I sat there I heard the chairman of the meeting solemnly call attention to the great civic crisis which confronts the people of Chicago in the present primary. I also heard him graciously offer to the public the benefit of the advice and counsel of the attorneys present free of charge.

If the speakers who followed purported to act as counsel for the public, then the public has been advised by counsel to vote against Judge Lyle on next Tuesday.

I have no personal acquaintance with any of the attorneys who appeared on the stage, and it is entirely possible that their advice to the public was worth all the public is required to pay for it, but I cannot help but wonder if some one else is not somehow paying the public's retainer fee.

I want no quarrel with any brother attorney over his personal opinion of Judge Lyle's qualification for office, but when in addition I hear the candidacy of William Hale Thompson recommended "to all-right thinking people of Chicago," then, if for no other reason than that I consider myself one of those right thinking people, I have a desire to voice my own opinion.

I have never appeared in Judge Lyle's Felony court and during the times that he served in the civil branches I have had occasion to try but three cases before him. Each time I received at his hands the most courteous and fair treatment possible. On one occasion he directed some very caustic remarks toward an attorney representing one of the parties in another suit. I felt that he would have been justified in saying much more than he did under the circumstances, and my observations were that attorneys who conducted themselves before him in a manner befitting their profession were met more than half way by Judge Lyle. Those who came there seeking some advantage or attempting to "put something over" promptly found themselves the victims of his "lack of judicial temperament."

My acquaintance with Judge Lyle extends no further than my appearances before him, but I believe that his honesty, integrity, and sincerity are above question. If he lacks judicial temperament, then that fact goes far to qualify him for the job which faces him as mayor, if and when elected.

THE VENTING OF VENOM.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—You profess to be a newspaper interested in the welfare of Chicago and yet you permit Cartoonists McCutcheon and Orr to draw daily comics venting their venom on Big Bill, thereby spreading over the United States a very good idea of what Chicago is supposed to be. Had you the interest of Chicago at heart you would not be biting off your nose to spite your face.

And a word about your reporters. In giving an account of the Courchesne murder you mention the last plumbers' meeting, stating that same was held behind locked doors and ended in a free for all fight. If it was held behind locked doors, how does your reporter know it ended in a free for all fight? A. ALEXANDER.

THE WETNESS OF GANGSTERS.

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 16.—Prof. Huxley once said that the most tragic thing in the world was the assassination of a beautiful theory by an indisputable fact. Today's TRIBUNE contains a cartoon, copied with evident approval from the Birmingham Mail, which is based on the beautiful theory that bootleggers are in favor of prohibition because of the opportunity it gives them for profit. A few weeks ago one of Orr's cartoons, attempting to convey the same idea, appeared just above a Vox Pop communication from an ex-racketeer, who qualified as an expert and testified to the fact that the bootleggers were unanimously opposed to Mrs. McCormick. She was too dry for them. To a man they voted for J. Ham Lewis and repeal.

A study of the referendum vote by Chicago wards shows that the heaviest majorities for repeal were in the wards where there is a still in every kitchen. Are any bootleggers or gangsters helping in Springfield against repeal? All any speakeasy proprietor which he would rather run, a soft drink parlor or an old fashioned saloon. Ask your own bootlegger how he voted on the referendum. That beautiful theory that bootleggers and gangsters are all prohibitionists is completely annihilated by indisputable facts. E. M. G.

MILK AS A FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Depression may be upon us, but the spirit of kindliness and helpfulness still exists. Last Sunday morning, while driving on Loomis boulevard near Garfield, my automobile caught fire. My attention was called to the situation by a milkman and by passing autoists, who gave me every possible assistance they could render, especially the milkman, with several quarts of milk. WILLIAM ENGLISH.

AN INCOMPARABLE FAIR.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 15.—There are two men in this country who have made their states the laughing stock of the rest of the country. I refer to Tom Heflin of Alabama and William Hale Thompson of Chicago. Alabama redeemed herself on Nov. 4 when she kicked Cotton Tom into political oblivion, and now the whole nation is watching Chicago to see if she will do likewise with Big Bill on Feb. 24.

Dorothy Blake Advises Girls
Affairs of Heart and Home

Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans Tells
Daily How to Guide Children

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Dix Lorraine, head of Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frameup by Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his brother and his young brother, Chuck, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a doctor. His indulgent older brother has a hard task paying for his tuition and material demands.

Mart Webster shows Dix how to change the O T brand of Gray's cattle to his own brand.

Dix, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch, and a passway to it through what is seemingly a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal hiding place.

With various misgivings Dix begins rustling from Gray's herd, hiding the stolen cattle in Lost valley. Dix's profits mounted steadily after every shipping.

Chuck and a flyer friend named Frosty arrive at the ranch. Chuck confesses to Dix that he has given up a medical career for aviation. He and Frosty plan to build a commercial plane for a prize. A shed built against the crevice, hiding the passage to Lost valley, seems to them just the place for their work.

Helen Gray's aunt and cousin, Helen, visit the O T ranch. Helen knew Chuck in school. From what Owen tells her, Helen guesses the true situation involving Dix. Her friend, Josephine Parker, call on Larry—their nickname for Chuck. When Helen sees Dix it's a case of love at first sight, but Dix believes she is Chuck's girl and avoids her. The girls become frequent visitors at the ranch. Helen probes through Dix's aloofness and learns a lot about his private business.

Chuck and Frosty buy a plane, which they use for commercial flying to earn money. Dix has misgivings about cattle being in the shed and trampling on the new airplane's wing. One night they hear a cow bellowing and are unable to discover where the sound comes from. They have a hunt for the cow ghost.

Helen goes with Chuck on a secret flight. They are away all night. Dix meets Mart White in town next day and they have a battle when Owen accuses Dix of cattle rustling and tells him that Helen is acting as his detective. When the flyers have not returned next day, Dix, who suspects their whereabouts, sends Mart to bring Owen White to a halt.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

A RIDDLE SOLVED.

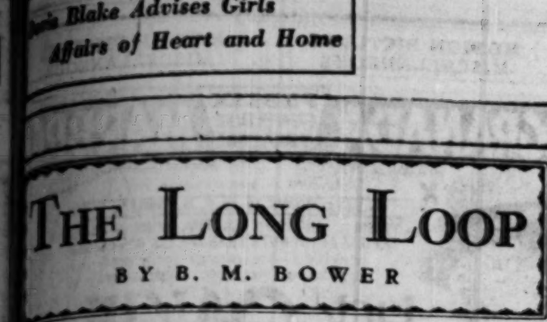
"What's the matter with you, anyway?" Mart hissed distractedly in Dix's ear. "You damn fool, if you're goin' to commit suicide, I'll go git in on it."

"You ain't heard nothin' yet," Dix said, flippantly. "Stick around, Mart, this is going to be good. They're out for blood, Mart, and have been longer than we had an idea. I'm handing 'em the surprise of their lives. Sit tight and say nothing, no matter what you hear."

Mart set his teeth into the corner of a plug of tobacco and worried off a chew. The glassy stare of his eyes changed to a crafty gleam.

"All right with me, Dix. Fly at it," he said grimly, and rolled the cud into his cheek with a sigh of great content. Dix, it seemed, was deeper than Mart had ever given him credit for. Dix had got wise, and had lured them two over here with the beautiful intention of taking them into Lost valley and beating them there. You couldn't, Mart thankfully remembered, prove murder on a man without first producing the body of the victim.

"We only discovered this place about three years ago," Dix remarked



"I'm, dear heart, and if you'll look at all those calves you'll see that half of them are branded O T as plain as day."

while he pulled nails. "A couple of months after Graypoint Oil went on the rocks."

"Never mind about Graypoint Oil," snarled Owen, his eyes darting this way and that, taking in everything as Dix swung back the wide section wall. "Quit your stalling, and you can't make anything else out of it."

"That's the way I figured," drawled Dix, "till that jury of yours showed me different." He drew a long breath and looked at Mart. "Pull in, you, Mart. We'll give 'em the whole show."

Mart grinned and heaved rocks out of the entrance and into the shed while the guest stood out of the way and watched him. When the way was cleared Dix stepped to the fissure entrance and stood like a paid guide waiting to explain in advance the wonders to be revealed.

"Before we go any farther I want to say that whatever you find on being here, I'm responsible for. Tom and Mart tried to stop me all they could, but I wasn't to be stopped. Jo and Frosty, you're witnesses to what I say. Mart and Tom have nothing to do with what's beyond here. I'm the guilty party." Then he turned and walked into the crevice, and they trooped in after him, Mart craftily bringing up the rear.

The Blue Robin stood tilted forward on its nose and one crumpled wing close in the middle of Lost valley. Around it the visiting party stood grouped in attitudes of astonished sympathy while pilot and passenger told the story of the accident.

"I made a perfect landing," Chuck maintained, easing a swollen ankle to a more comfortable position. "Helen can tell you I set her down like a bird on a bough. Didn't I, Helen?"

"Yes did, dear heart," Helen testified. "It was bumpy, too, but Larry landed it perfectly. Then we spent the day exploring around over the valley, and looking over the cattle." She kept her eyes carefully turned away from Dix, who was listening with the look of a perfect stranger who is merely being polite. "Being afoot, of course, that took a lot of time, so we had lunch and didn't make any attempt to leave until almost sunset. We knew we had plenty of time to circle and come in from the south, the way we left in the morning. Up to that moment everything was all right."

"Yeah, and then when I taxied down this straight level stretch and gave her the gun, she had to stub her toe in a ditch and crack up. It could have been worse, of course. But at that, Helen sprained her knee and I cracked a bone or something in my ankle, so we couldn't have walked out, even if we'd known the way."

"While you was prognosticating around all day, I'd of thought you'd at least hunt the trail out," Dix remarked in a tone too mild to be convincing. "You started out after information—I should think you'd have got it all while you were about it."

"We really didn't have time," Helen explained in a tone to match his. "We noticed right away something very unusual about the cattle, so we put in the whole day trying to make a roundup on foot, as you might say. At any rate, we made a pretty accurate count, considering how we had to do it."

"Good work, Helen!" Owen took a limping step and patted her on the shoulder. "You got the goods all right! I've got to hand it to you as a detective."

"Yes," said Helen with brazen self-approval, "you'd be surprised at all the things I've detected in the last month or so. You've no idea how much I know."

"Yeah, I've got a tally of the cattle right here," Chuck put in as if he were talking about a football game. "We walked our fool legs off getting it, but we never missed a calf, did we, Helen?"

"Fine!" Owen gloated, his eyes darting to Dix's set face. "That's as good as we could ask. Too bad it's Chuck's brother, and him getting the evidence, us helping you, but nobody will think any the less of you, Chuck. You ain't to blame——"

"You rotten, sneaking rats, all of you!" blazed Jo, pushing Frosty aside as she took the center of the group. "I could scratch your eyes out, Helen Blair! You and your so-called brain! Sneaking around behind a man's back to try and make him out a cattle stealer, and you know darned well he did it to keep Larry in school! Mart told me so."

"I know, darling, but you haven't heard——"

"I've heard plenty!" raged Joe. "You and your precious 'big events'——"

"I don't know and I don't give a damn what you've got on Dix," said Frosty with vicious emphasis. "He meets all the standard requirements as far as I'm concerned, as a man and as a straight, clean, square fellow I'd want for my buddy. Whatever you've got or ain't got, I'm with Dix all the way, and that's to hell and beyond. Think he'd send for these two gangsters and lead 'em into this place if he was guilty of anything so bad? Think——"

"Sure he would!" bawled Owen, his eyes shining ratlike above his puffed cheeks. "Sure he would, to save himself a longer term in the pen! Didn't you folks hear him confess back there? He knew we had him in a corner—I told him so in town. I told him we had the dope on him, and I told him Helen helped to get it. Sure, he's foxy enough to lead us in here and make a bid for sympathy—after he knows damn well that's the only move he's got left. Why, look over there! Those are my cattle he's got hidden in here! All those calves——"

"Yes, dear heart, and if you'll look at all those calves you'll see that half of them are branded O T as plain as day. And if you look again at the passway, you'll find as many O T's as there are Coffeepots. There are a few head shown with the brands changed from O T to Coffeepot, but there are also O T calves running with Coffeepot mothers."

"Yeah, laugh that off!" cried Chuck in a tone of triumph.

"Father's Son" Is a Good Show for the Family

It's Tarkington Story and He Knows Boys.

"FATHER'S SON."

Produced by First National.
Directed by William Beaudine.
Presented at the Chicago theater.

THE CAST.

Mrs. Emory.....Irene Rich
Mr. Emory.....Lewis Stone
Bill Emory.....Leon Janney
Dr. Bob Franklin.....John Halliday

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

If the Chicago theater doesn't draw large and enthusiastic audiences this week the fault will not be that of management or program. The former has secured in the latter one built for general family felicity. The picture I guarantee to delight old and young alike. And then—there is Rudy Vallee in person—GIRLS! Yes, and—BOYS!—too! For the male of the species will be right on deck, trying his dead level best to analyze the crooner's drawing qualities.

"Father's Son" is a love of a picture. Booth Tarkington wrote the story — "Old Fathers and Young Sons"—which is about a little boy at home, and Booth Tarkington, as Mark Twain did, knows his kids. He also is wise to mothers and fathers, as you will discover when you behold the richly human portrayals by Irene Rich and Lewis Stone in the parental rôles created by the author.

There'll be a Niagara of shrilly voiced "You don't understand me's" in the American home after the nation's children get an eyeful of "Father's Son" for the youthful hero is given considerably the best of it by Mr. Tarkington.

As played by Leon Janney, with his frequent, natural, and irresistible giggle, little Bill Emory is a lively, ingenuous, maddening, naughty but wholly lovable small boy who is always in a peck of trouble. His lovely, adoring mother has the faculty of putting herself in his place and seeing why he does the things he does. His sedate, conventional father—who loves him dearly, too—beholds in his son and heir only an exasperating, perpetually disobedient child, upon whom punishment appears to have not the slightest effect.

A runaway, a certain "Dr. Bob"—a taste of separation—and a circus—bring about the sort of ending that you'll like.

Directed by Hobart Henley.
Presented at Orpheum and Avalon theaters.

THE CAST.

Mary Knight Williams..Dorothy Peterson
Beatty.....Helen Chandler
Artie.....David Manners
Hart.....Sidney Blackmer
Danny.....Edward Woods
Jenny.....Evelyn Knapp
Sadye.....Jean Barry
Frank Williams.....Pat O'Malley
Mary's Mother.....Claire McDowell
Mary's Father.....Charles Hill Mailes
Carl Muller.....Reginald Pasch

The story is just that of a mother, simple and sweet and good, from the time when her shy girlhood ends in marriage with the man of her choice, to the day when she stands by her architect son and contemplates the beautiful buildings he has created, and wonders without bitterness why Danny, her other boy who was electrocuted, was born to be a destroyer.

Mary Williams—whose husband is killed in a street accident early in the picture—has four children. Danny, her eldest is perverse, ugly and destructive from his cradle days. Jennie, is domestic, gentle and loving. Artie, is her brilliant darling, level-headed, honorable and his mother's prop and stay. Beatty, high strung, temperamental, only wants happiness—and is broken on the wheel of her quest for it. Beatty and Danny hate each other from babyhood and it is Danny's ruthless hand that snuffs out his sister's life flame.

Dorothy Peterson, a stranger to me, was the perfect choice for the rôle of Mary Williams. There is a wholesomeness, a sweetness, an old-fashioned charm about her that goes right to your heart. You say of her, "There's a REAL mother!" She lives her tragedy, wondering, and, yet, somehow seeming to understand. The Mary of the book I thought rather vegetable, but not Miss Peterson's Mary Williams! I loved her every minute she was on the screen. Edward Woods is great as Danny. Just a natural devil, this boy, inheriting from the past traits—that would bring both Clarence Darrow's ringing defense of their possessor.

"Mother's Cry" can't be rated as entertainment, but it IS LIFE.

Lent Day by Day

STRUGGLE FOR FREEDOM.

THE REV. WM. J. M'NAMEE.
[Pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.]

The spirit of Lent, especially with its fast and abstinence, may sometimes seem to the unthinking very burdensome, but the principle that underlies it, and upon which the church insists, is that the body, which St. Paul says was "fighting against the law of his mind and captivating him into sin," must be brought into subjection. The passions are all tyrants and we must crush them or they will crush us. Therefore, give them no quarter. Rule them with an iron hand.

For this reason we must not give ourselves the habit of always doing what we feel like doing. We must curb and mortify our inclinations. This is the spirit of Lent. Hence, mortifications of the carnal man, and bringing him into the subjection of the spiritual, is not a curtailment of his liberty. Mortification is rightly defined as the struggle for freedom, and the only free man is he in whom the higher spiritual nature has gained the ascendancy and in whom the passions are subject to reason, and reason, in all things, subject to God. He alone is the possessor of a serene and peaceful calm.

PRAYER:

Almighty God, who alone canst order the unruly wills and affections of sinful men, grant unto thy people that they may love the thing which thou commandest, and desire that which thou dost promise; that so, among the sundry and manifold changes in the world, our hearts may surely there be fixed, where true joys are to be found.

Although the public schools will do most of their celebrating of Washington's birthday with an all day holiday on Monday, there were programs yesterday in many of the schools. Among them was that at Weber High school, Division and Holt streets, directed by Peter Fitzpatrick of the English department. Poems and sketches by well known authors, both about Abraham Lincoln and Washington, were presented by students.

SAYS COSMIC SUNSET AFFECTS 750 STARS; CITES BRIGHT COLORS

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A cosmic sunset is taking place among the stars several hundred trillion miles away, Dr. Frederick H. Sears, assistant director of Mount Wilson observatory, disclosed today.

The sunset is that of 750 stars in the region near the great star Alpha Cygni, which illuminates the strange nebulæ called "North American," because its shape resembles the continent of North America. This sunset is revealed on the fringe of a great cloud of obscuring matter between the earth and the stars.

Dr. Sears told how the colors have been measured and it was found that 20 per cent of these stars in the area measured had a much richer and redder light than should be normal. This was also traced in spectrum measurements by Milton Humason, one of his associates.

This sunset is due to the scattering effect of dust particles forming a great cloud several hundred light years from the earth. A light year, in astronomical measurements, is 6,000,000,000,000 miles. The ordinary sunset seen on earth is the light reflections on clouds only a few miles distant from the earth.

Arab, Jew, Briton Discuss Palestine at Chicago Meeting

An Arab, a Jew and a Britisher, each representing his side, spoke on the political situation in Palestine at a meeting of the Chicago Council of Foreign Relations at the Palmer house yesterday. The speakers were Ameen Rihani, Arabian; Rabbi Felix Levy of Emanuel temple, and H. Wilson Harris, diplomatic correspondent of the London Daily News.

Rihani charged Great Britain with unfairness to the Arabs, alleging discrimination in favor of the Jews. He predicted uprisings unless a more reasonable rule was employed.

Rabbi Levy asserted the Jews own a moral right to live in Palestine, as it's their home. The Jews, he continued, desire only peace and the right of religion.

According to Mr. Harris, the British are endeavoring to harmonize the Arabs and Jews and to get them to live peacefully.

Gulliver's New Voyage to Be on 'Constitution'

Navy Gives Him Charge of Refitted Frigate.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Commander Louis J. Gulliver, U. S. N., has been given the honor of commanding the frigate Constitution, better known as Old Ironsides, recently restored to seaworthiness, the navy yard announced today.

The announcement came on the 116th anniversary of the Constitution's capture of the British war vessels Cyrene and Levant during the war of 1812.

Commander Gulliver is at present serving as executive officer on the cruiser Rochester, in Central American waters. He is expected to join his new command within a couple of weeks. He is 48 years old and a native of Maine.

The Constitution was virtually rebuilt at the local navy yard with the pennies of school children throughout the land. She will be ready for sea by the first of July, but the navy department has not announced what duty will be given the old ship.

Launched in Boston in 1798, the Constitution became the flagship of Commodore Edward Preble's expedition against the Barbary pirates four years later. There were seven vessels in Preble's squadron, the commanders of none of which had reached the age of 30.

Capt. Isaac Hull commanded the Constitution during the war of 1812, capturing or destroying many British vessels. The Constitution's vanquishing of the Guerriere probably was its most famous encounter. The British contemptuously had referred to the Constitution as a "clumsy pine box," but an American tar, peering over her rail and seeing a cannonball glance from her side, unconsciously gave her a more appropriate name and one that bids to live as long as the nation, "See," he said, "her sides are made of iron."

Chaplin Finds Self Changed While London Stays Same

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Charlie Chaplin has already made pilgrimages into Kennington and Clapham commons, which he knew as a boy, but he renewed his associations in a taxicab. After a dinner last night in the west end with Sir Phillip Sassoon he redoubled his tracks east, but Chaplin supplemented the taxi for a lonely walk. Chaplin finds London unchanged, but he said: "After seeing real American skyscrapers, if London is any different I have not noticed it."

Fashions Are Made for Women, Not Women for Fashions

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"I'm no red rebel when it comes to following fashion dictates. In fact, I'm just as meek a little lamb as the next one when it comes to trying out the latest. Only, dearie, I knows when to stop."

Thus, a friend drew my attention to a ludicrous looking sister who didn't know when to stop.

"What on earth does she wear her hat back there for, with that face?" friend continued. "And why, O why, do the big uns insist on tying up their fat middles with a belt? The boy who framed that old timer about looking like a haystack tied in the middle was away ahead of his time. Only this year do women look that way."

Well, good news comes from a fashion center that well dressed women no longer are going to be judged by the latest fashion magazine pictures. They're going to be judged on their own. And in this judgment, as we understand it, the belt line may be exactly where it is most becoming to the figure. It doesn't have to, any more than it ever wanted to, try ridiculously to span an inflated diaphragm.

Those defined-belt followers who have no waists to guide them, but who guess where the waistline should be, have done a lot to unpopularize the style. Anyway, you do not have to do it, any more. Not, anyway, until you have dieted and exercised the proper location and circumference of a perfectly respectable waistline.

It seems to me that in a few years more women will have become so wise about themselves that they will refuse to be made ridiculous by following styles that are intended for sisters of diametrically opposed dimensions or opposed facial contours. The other day I attended a tea at which appeared a woman who quite outdistanced every one present for chic and youthfulness. She's not young, but she knows her style. She won't ever wear the extreme things as they first come in. In hat or dress, it's her face and her figure that she's out to shield and not exposed in any of their shortcomings. And that's what I think most women are coming to shortly.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

D. V.: A BUNION IS A DISLOCATION of the joint of the great toe. Unless attended early, only an operation will remedy it. Wear a broad toed shoe to give the joint a chance to right itself. The pain may be relieved by plunging the foot into hot water and then painting with iodine.

I. D.: SOFT CORNS BETWEEN the toes are caused by heat, moisture, and shoe pressure. Medicated talcum dusted between the toes will give relief and a piece of cotton, frequently renewed, will absorb the moisture. My booklet on feet may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

Children's and Soldiers' Shows on Day's List

BY THALIA.

THE social routine has settled into a pretty even tenor for these Lenten days, not a dull tenor, to be sure, but one that the society editor can't very well expatiate about.

Tuesday's discoveries anent social subjects included the news that Mrs. J. Ogden Armour is leaving Chicago this evening by the Golden State Limited for the west. She plans to be gone for quite a while, going first to Santa Barbara and later to Phoenix. Mr. Armour's son-in-law and daughter, the John J. Mitchells, are in New York City now, but she hopes that Mrs. Mitchell at least will be out in Santa Barbara before her departure.

Two years ago today Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank gave a big family party to surprise Mr. Fairbank on his 60th birthday, and I thought maybe she'd have another one for him this year, but I learned that the Fairbanks don't go in regularly for anniversaries, and the other one was a special occasion.

Gloria Perley Engaged to John Guthrie Prescott.

An engagement announcement of interest in Chicago, although neither of the young people involved live here, is that made by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Perley of Washington, D. C., of the betrothal of their daughter, Alberta, to John Guthrie Prescott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin McClure Prescott of Los Angeles. Miss Perley is a descendant of an old Chicago family, the granddaughter of Mrs. John West of 2216 Lincoln Park west, and niece of Miss Mary Sylvia West and Charles Cameron West of Manitowoc. She made her debut at a tea-dance in 1928 in Washington. Mr. Prescott is now graduated from the Naval academy at Annapolis in June, and the wedding—which is to have all the navy formalities—will take place at the chapel at Annapolis on June 5. Miss Perley visits here often, and Miss Mary Harts is to be in her wedding party.

Nowadays, if you don't play bridge or backgammon at a party, the diversion runs to games. One of the best among ones I've heard of is a variation of the old "Characters." Someone leaves the room—O, yes, it's a guessing game—and the others select a name with the same number of letters as there are players—L-I-N-D-B-E-R-G-H, say, if there are nine people. Then each one adopts one of the letters as the initial of some other character, L for Longfellow, I for Ibsen, for instance, and the retired player is to guess each of the characters from being told about his accomplishments—and subsequently the original name made up of the initials. Nobody tells any one else who he's impersonating, so the game is fun for all.

Today's goings-on include the children's gymkhana games at the new arena at Onwentsia and the military exhibition sponsored by Brig. Gen. McCloskey at Fort Sheridan. Mrs. Frank Parker is having a luncheon party before the latter affair, and afterward there is to be a tea-dance at the Officers' club.

Have you heard tell . . . that Charles Breasted Jr. and his bride are in Washington, D. Despite the fact that arrangements for the Association of Arts and Industries benefit performance of "Torch Song" on Monday night have been made on rather short notice, the tickets are going rapidly, and it's evidently to be a gay occasion. Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson is entertaining at dinner and the performance for Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cawley of London.

Here Are Ideas for Entertaining the Older Convalescent

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

These suggestions are for the older children:

Simple solitaire.
Games for two.
Reading.
Various arts and crafts that are not too exacting.

Making tiny boats and ships with carved out cork, pins, paper for sail, and cord for rigging. A book called "Cork Ships and How to Make Them," by Peter Adam, is a good guide.

If you live in the country or ever have, you know the amusement children can get out of a catalog from one of the big mail order houses. Children of almost every age love to pore over these, not to mention many a grownup! Perhaps you remember the distracted mother who gave her shut-in children $3 to spend on kitchen utensils which they might select from the mail order catalog. She allowed them to make out the lists and specified that nothing must cost over $0.25. You might work out a variation of this.

If you have loads of time you might make a series of little surprise packages to be opened at different times during the day. Use either things you find at home or small purchases from the five and ten cent stores.

When the children seem to tire of an occupation, remove the materials. Then let them lie down and rest. Later, read to them or let them listen to music, or perhaps something on the radio. Or bring in your sewing or preparing of vegetables and talk with them about things that you know will interest them.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Seven year old Billy was taking a piano lesson, not because he wanted to, but because he had to. His teacher stopped him, saying, "Billy, did you practice?"

"Yes'm."

"It doesn't sound like it."

"Well, you see, my hands were dirty and I had to wash them—and they shrank, and I can't play my lesson."

Out of Work 14 Months, He Begs for Job

A plea to make jobs for members of the building trades, one of the classes of workers hardest hit by unemployment, is made by Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE.

Among the building trades workers who specially need jobs are a bricklayer who's been out of work for 14 months, a carpenter and painter out of work for 10 months, a painter who now washes windows when he can, a decorator out of work since November, a plumber whose wife writes to say he wants a job as night watchman, and a painter. He's the father of four children.

B. A. V. wrote to Sally Joy Brown: "I am a bricklayer, have not worked for 14 months, am six months behind in my rent, and am willing to do any kind of work. I am a handy man with carpenter tools, cement tools, or paint brush. Will even take work sweeping alleys or streets.

"I have lived in Chicago all my life. Am 42 years old and have four children, none working. My oldest boy is 19 and a high school graduate. He has experience in telephone drafting. If any one could put us to work we would appreciate it, as we need coal, groceries, and clothing badly."

"I am a middle aged man, strong and healthy," G. W. writes, "have lived in Chicago 31 years and this is the first time I have failed to find work. I have been out of a job for 10 months, and in the meantime I buried my wife. My finances are depleted. I can do carpenter work, painting, varnishing, fire heating plants, wash windows or anything for room and board and a very small salary. I don't want charity, but work."

"I have a family of six," W. A., a painter, wrote, "and I have been out of work for a year. Some days I don't have bread for my children. They go to school without any food, and they are much in need of shoes and clothes."

Mrs. A. P. wrote that her husband had been with one plumbing supply house for 9 years and with another 12 years. He always was a good steady worker. Now he can't find anything. He wants to get a job as a watchman or janitor, she said. He is a pipe cutter. Of the seven in the family, two children are in school, and a 17 year old boy, a 20 and 27 year old daughters all are looking for jobs. One girl is a switchboard operator. The family lost their insurance, most of their furniture, and are being evicted, she wrote.

"I am a married man, 37 years old, a decorator, carry a union card, and out of work since Nov. 1," N. L. wrote from an attic flat.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.
Mother's Plea.

"I am the mother of seven children and my husband has been out of work for about 8 months. I, myself, have been sick. I would be so thankful to you if you could get some clothing for the children and some bedding. The girls are 15, 11, 9 and 6. The boys are 13, 3 and 2 years. They have hardly anything to wear and their shoes are full of holes. Mrs. M. M."

Unemployment adds to an already serious situation when the family is as large as this one. You can help to relieve their misery, however, by giving any clothing which may fit them and blankets you may be ready to discard.

FLU GERMS CHANGE PROGRAM FOR STOCK'S CHICAGO ORCHESTRA

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Because the Mahler Seventh Symphony has an important horn solo, and the artist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra who was to play it became the unwilling host of a flock of flu germs, Dr. Stock changed the program yesterday afternoon and substituted Nicolas Miaskowsky's Sixth Symphony, which needs less specialized attention.

Of the five Miaskowsky symphonies played so far by the orchestra, this one is by a comfortable margin the most easily absorbed by occidental ears. True, it is Russian, and soviet Russian at that, which means that it is several degrees gloomier than any preconceived notion of the Russian spirit. The first movement is hypochondria spread out at considerable length; the second, called with some degree of imagination a scherzo, is pessimism developed at a faster tempo. The program note, calling it restless and troubled in spirit, hardly expresses it.

By the time we have reached the fourth and final movement we are plunged into a furious swirl of "La Carmagnole," "Ca Ira," and "Dies Irae," which connote mob assassinations, active guillotines, rivers of blood, and similar jovial themes, even though the actual music belongs to eighteenth century France instead of twentieth century Russia. But the music is easily understandable, and the concertgoer who enjoys contemplating the mood of somber melancholy will find it set down here by a master's hand.

Elsewhere Dr. Stock was more blithe with his music. For a novelty he presented a set of dances from "Marosszék" by Zoltán Kodály. Pronunciation will not be indicated, but Marosszék is a Transylvanian province once begonging to Austria-Hungary, and since the treaty of Versailles within the Rumanian boundaries.

The new composition is admirable, founded on a set of attractive tunes of the Hungarian order and developed with what would seem to be a new treatment of dance melodies. In other places on the program there were Smetana's fine symphonic poem, "Vysehrad," Borodin's pleasant "Sketch of the Steppes of Central Asia," and Siegfried's Rhine Journey from Wagner's opera, "Die Goetterdaemmerung."

Boat Friendships Don't Always Die on Shore, It Seems

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Here's a new one I wish you'd discuss, Doris," writes Luce.

"About a year and a half ago friend husband had a wonderful chance for a five weeks' trip. He went. Among the folk on the tour were women, single, widowed, and married. Two of the women, one single, about 26, and a widow, have written him several times, and also have sent cards. The first note he answered and then has paid no further attention. I've seen all the correspondence.

"These females know he's married and a father; also that we are quite happy in our home life. I know I wouldn't write to other women's husbands. What do you think about it?"

What you've written, it seems to me, is enough to make the "boat friends" do a bit of thinking. They certainly do not expect friend wife to be taken in on the correspondence confidence. Yet, nine times out of ten that is just what men do. No matter what they may have told the other women on the boat—they come pretty clean with their wives. In fact, so great is their confidence in the girls they married they actually set them up as barricades against outside female assault. Which is what the philandering type of woman ought to get into her silly old [or young] head.

Why take the tour friends seriously once you're back on terra firma and far from outside the twelve mile limit? If you must have your gay little hour on the boat, have it and call it a day when the boat docks and pop gets on his regular home going business airs again.

On a cruise taken not long ago, there seemed to be a number of detached males, angled for and gobbled up [temporarily] by women, also temporarily detached from home responsibility. Conjecture went on at the time as to what would happen when the boat landed and each had to go their separate ways. It was all very gay, and harmless enough on the boat, but the constant daily companionships set one to wondering.

The old captain said: "They never last. The men are out to forget business and women are idiots who take them in any other way."

However, men, if you're going cruising without your own fireside girl, you'd better state your married case plainly to the gay boat acquaintance and tell her your wife reads all your mail, at your request. Or tell her something better, if you can think up a better one. Anyway, just be prepared against the day when the apple sauce cast upon the waters may come sneaking up on you at the home table.

Food Talk.

Today we are suggesting grape juice for Monday's breakfast. If it is to be hailed as a delicious morning bracer be sure it is chilled and of the right dilution and tartness. Grape juice requires little sugar in its preparation. If you have a home-canned concentrated product which you sweetened too much last fall dilute to the proper strength, then add a few drops of lemon juice. Some commercial grape juices are quite sweet and they, too, are improved by the addition of lemon juice. There are others that are just right. What we should strive for is the natural grape flavor.

In preparing the succotash for the luncheon, string beans or navy beans may be used instead of the limas. If cooked or canned beans are employed, the time of preparation will be reduced to 20 minutes.

In purchasing flank steak for the stuffed rolled steak ask the butcher not to score it. The scoring allows the juice to run out and the result is a dry meat that lacks the characteristic good flavor.

SUCCOTASH.

1 cup canned corn	½ to 1 tsp. sugar
1 cup lima beans	½ cup milk
1 tbsp. butter	¾ tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt

Cook lima beans in boiling water to cover from 35 to 40 minutes. Then add the corn, butter, salt, sugar, and milk. Cook for about 20 minutes until the beans are tender. A few minutes before serving add the flour, stirred with a little cold water, and let the vegetable cook so that the sauce thickens.

STUFFED ROLLED FLANK STEAK.

2 lbs. flank or round steak	1 tbsp. chopped onion
1 cup crumbs	¼ cup chopped celery
½ cup stock or water	1 small turnip, diced
1 tsp. salt	1 small carrot, diced
¼ tsp. pepper	Flour

Wipe the steak, remove the skin and lay the meat out flat on a board. Make a dressing of the crumb stock or water, salt, pepper, chopped onion, and a small amount of celery and spread it on the meat. Roll the steak with the grain, so that when it is cut it may be cut across the grain of the meat. Place the diced vegetables in a roasting pan and on them lay the rolled steak. Add two or three cups of water, depending upon the size of the pan. Cover and bake in a slow oven [350 degree F.] for three hours, or until tender.

If you prefer to cook this meat on top of the stove, melt one-half cup of suet in the bottom of a flat bottomed iron or heavy aluminum kettle, flour the meat thickly and lay the roll in the kettle. Turn from side to side until it is well browned, then add hot water nearly to cover, and simmer slowly for three hours. When the meat is cooked, remove it from the kettle or roasting pan and thicken the broth, using one to two tablespoons of flour to each cup of gravy.

PRUNE GELATIN.

1 tbsp. gelatin	1 cup chopped nuts
½ cup cold water	1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups cooked prunes, chopped fine	2 cups whipping cream

Soak gelatin in ¼ cup cold water until softened. Melt over hot water. Add to prune pulp. Add nuts, vanilla, and whipped cream. Pour into molds and chill. Serve with cream.

Plaids and Stripes Vie for Fashion's Approval

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Paris couture managers are staging a big match between plaids and stripes for the championship of the sporting accessory field. Heavy bets are being laid on both candidates and it's hard to tell which will carry off the palm of chic.

Plaid, of course, is snappy and gay and just naturally suggests golf and hockey and highland flings and other such Scottish outdoor sports. Used with discretion it's smart for town wear, too, as you can see by the plaid accessories, sketched here. The bias cravat scarf of plaid silk in black, green, red, and white is from Jane Regny. There's a satchel to match and a bonnet of the plaid silk trimmed with a rope of green, black, and red silk.

This ensemble might incline you heavily toward the plaid side if it weren't for the charm of stripes shown by the new Schiaparelli sweater, sketched below. It's hand knitted in two shades of pastel blue and blue-gray. The surplice crosses in the back and continues into two ends that form a belt tied on the right side of the front. It is shown here worn over a fine jersey, turtle-necked sweater in plain pale blue, but if that is too warm it may be replaced by a blouse of pale blue tussore or batiste with a curate collar fastened in back.

The beret, made by Agnes to accompany the surplice sweater, is knitted of the deeper blue-gray wood, with petal darts of lighter blue radiating from the crown.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

FRUIT GARDEN SPRING CARE.

What is to be done to the strawberry bed, the grapevines, the raspberry bushes, and the gooseberry bushes so that they will get a good start this spring? One job can be started now and that is on the grape arbor, while other work can soon follow to get any advantages possible of an early or even a normal spring.

Pruning the grapevines is best done before the sap flows. Each branch should be cut back to two buds, the experienced grape growers say. Possibly a large amount will thus be pruned from the vines, but the roots are only capable of supporting so much top, which means that, with the correct amount of stems and leaves, full bunches of grapes will result.

Tying to supports can follow the pruning and should be completed before the buds swell. Cords should not be too tight. Removing dead canes from the raspberry patch is work that can be done any time now and preferably before growth starts. Thinning should be sufficient so that new shoots will be about ive to a hill, burning all canes after they have been cut off. Shortening the remaining canes a foot or 18 inches often results in larger and better berries.

Work in the strawberry bed should start when it is evident the plants mean to take up seriously their spring growth. The straw mulch covering the plants should be removed as soon as feasible to prevent smothering, but again experience with late frosts suggests that the straw had better be left handy to use in re-covering on a frosty night.

Gooseberry bushes can be cut back early in April.

JAIL 2 WOMEN IN POISON DEATH OF EX-CHICAGOAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Two women were arrested today after Coroner Frank Nance reported the exhumed body of August Lindstrom, 72 year old lumber magnate, showed traces of poison.

Mrs. Anna Carlson, the lumberman's former housekeeper, and Mrs. Esther Erickson, who lived next door to the Lindstrom home in Torrance, Cal., were said to have been Lindstrom's companions before his death, Feb. 9.

"Enough poison was found in the dead man's stomach to kill forty men," Coroner Nance said. Deputy District Attorney George Stahlman said murder charges will be filed against the women.

The body was exhumed in Williams, Ariz., several days ago when an investigation of his death was begun. The investigation resulted when a son, Peter H. Lindstrom, Chicago meat packer, came to Los Angeles to close his father's estate.

Police said the son discovered discrepancies of $2,000 in a joint bank account of his father and Mrs. Carlson. The son expressed the suspicion, police said, that his father did not die of "a heart disease," as the death certificate stated.

Following the coroner's findings, sheriff's deputies jailed Mrs. Carlson and placed under technical custody Mrs. Erickson, who was ill in her home. Officers explained money in the joint account was withdrawn immediately after the lumberman's body was sent to Williams for interment and that Mrs. Erickson was given $500 by Mrs. Carlson.

The sheriff's office said Mrs. Carlson's stories of circumstances surrounding the death of the aged man were conflicting. Officials quoted her as saying she had given Lindstrom a bowl of soup the day before he died and that Mrs. Erickson had fed him a piece of pie a few minutes before death occurred.

Mrs. Erickson was said by police guarding her to be ill with the same symptoms shown by the lumber magnate before his death.

The dead man, who was reputed worth in excess of $1,000,000, settled in the Arizona city in 1900, the son said.

SHELVE POSTAL LEASE INQUIRY; NEW DEFENDED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The senate committee investigating postoffice leases today dropped its inquiry temporarily after former Postmaster General New had refused to discuss what took place at a cabinet meeting during the Coolidge administration.

The session was marked by savage exchanges between New and Chairman Blaine with two other committee members supporting the former postal official. Blaine was assailed for his method of questioning New.

The inquiry was ordered suspended by Blaine until after congress adjourns.

The cross-examination of New centered almost entirely around a letter from former Budget Director Lord to New recommending purchase of the St. Paul commercial station postoffice and a memorandum written by New, telling of discussion of the lease at a cabinet meeting.

When Blaine began to question New about the memorandum the witness refused to discuss what had taken place in the cabinet meeting.

Senator Hastings [Dem., Del.] insisted the memorandum should be shown to New before he was questioned about it.

Senator Hebert [Rep., R. I.], another member of the committee, supported Hastings.

The memorandum stated that during the cabinet session the then secretary of state, Kellogg, "vehemently" remarked that the lease was "very much to the disadvantage of the government."

Later in the day the senate refused a demand by Blaine that the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill be sent back to conference for restoration of his amendment on postal garage leases.

3,500 CHEER NORTH SIDE'S RING CHAMPIONS

Denied Plea to Put Off Maloney Bout.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—Of course, the travelling prize fights in Miami, Fla., are not for championships, but when a man comes along so awesome that people swoon at the sight of him and he rides a steam roller 24 hours to lose one leg of his pants, then he is worth a modest price of admission even if he only talks to himself.

The commerce reports from the sinful strand, published in the Faro, Craps and Roulette Dealers' Home Journal and Fireside Companion, of which I am a constant reader, are a reliable index to the state of morals and business down there. These have struck such a melancholy note ever since the season began that I do not anticipate great financial success for the two prize fight exhibitions, presenting as the first one, Mickey Walker and Johnny Risko and, in the other, Primo Carnera and Jimmy Maloney.

Col. Carter's Error.

Miami Beach seems to have turned not only moral but positively sanctimonious this winter, and the trade journals report, under the heading of business troubles, that when Col. Harvey Carter, the popular price card dealer, who used to sell chips for as little as a nickel in an appeal to the working man's vote, conducted a test of sentiment a few nights ago, a lot of common police officers clattered in and smashed up much valuable equipment with axes. It was a mistake to appeal to the working man's vote, as the colonel no doubt understands by now, in a community where nobody works.

It is an axiom of the kind of business referred to that when morals are up in a community business is down, and prize fighting, refinement, and righteousness to the contrary notwithstanding, is this kind of business.

Primo's Rib Broken.

Without malice I ventured to remark in a recent dispatch of this, I fear, interminable series, that owing to the strange attitude of the law toward the talent this season, Primo Carnera and Jimmy Maloney were facing the necessity of turning commercially amateur or breaking a leg, and I now find that I was wrong only in a minor matter of timing.

It was not a hand but a rib which Primo broke, so that his manager, Dr. Leon Bee, went before the Miami prize fight commission and requested a postponement of the proceedings. The commission, however, after prolonged debate over an official medical report, with X-rays showing the fractured rib, ordered Primo to go through with the fight. The commission reached its verdict after listening to the testimony of four physicians, who differed in their opinions of the Italian's injury.

Promoter Frank J. Bruen, who sought the commission's aid in compelling Carnera to go on with the fight, denied that any postponement was being sought because of apathy in the advance ticket sale.

Maybe He Can Fight, Too.

Primo is the most picturesque critter that ever trod a ring, and, moreover, is under suspicion in many quarters of being a pretty good prize fighters along with his scenic values.

If he should go on to win the heavyweight championship of the world by whatever process of arrangement or substitution, the spectacle would be one that I would not care to miss, but then I am not one who prefers high class in prize fighting but rather its reverse. Nor would I like to be around if Primo sometime should be stepped upon his chin and sent crashing to the floor like one of those dynamited brick chimneys which they used to show in the news reels. I saw him all one night in Philadelphia in his fight with George Godfrey and though the blow was foul and he therefore won, the spectacle as Primo crashed upon the floor, heaving and trumpeting, with the gray dust adhering to his moist hide, suggested a stranded whale dying tremendously upon a beach.

He's a Good Show, Anyway.

Winning or losing or merely nibbling as a medium-done cow, Primo is my idea of a show and I recommend him as a form of entertainment that is not likely to pass this way or that way soon again.

As to the strange conversion of the two Maxims from the ways of sin I can see none. They were a gay community in their time and the authorities used to work very hard arresting them for illegal parking. And though the gambling houses defied the detectives I was once threatened with a night under key for parking in such a position as to block the entrance to a house of chance by an officer who flipped the pages of his book and pointed to the ordinance of his authority.

"They can't get in where?" I asked.

"Into this place," said he.

Officer Makes Suggestion.

"Officer," said I, "I'm going to give you a chance to make a name for yourself. You are looking for lawlessness. Do you know that there are seven people playing cards for money in that place?"

"Oh, now," said the officer, "why the hell don't you be a good fellow and tell that car out of there?"

Thirty-five hundred, a sectional attendance record for the second time in as many days, watched the north side Golden Gloves qualifiers at the Rainbo Fronton last night. This capacity crowd—200 larger than that of Thursday night—saw another five hour program of battles for the right to participate in the tournament of champions at the Coliseum March 2, 3, and 4.

Hundreds were denied entrance after as many more, who were willing to stand along the walls and at the end of the jai alai court, had been admitted. Such was the interest on Chicago's north side in the two score qualifying bouts last night.

Interest Continues to Grow.

One more Chicago preliminary remains, the three day qualifying tournament which begins next Monday at White City. But already more than 12,000 have attended the sectional bouts on the west and north sides of the city. And the White City bouts, in which 320 boxers have entered, 100 more than in either of the other districts, promise to surpass all in interest and caliber of the contestants.

Last night, the fourth of Golden Gloves boxing, perhaps was no different from any other. Yet repetition of jabbing and punching, with all opponents striving to keep pace in the race to championships, never tires. Among the ringside fans, those who line up at the ticket windows each afternoon at 5:30, an hour and a half before the first bout, and who remain until midnight, one now recognizes familiar faces. They have followed the Golden Gloves sectionals across the city and, doubtless, will be at White City Monday night.

Thrill in Every Match.

There is no monotony in Golden Gloves fights. Each match may develop into a knockout, a bitter three round battle, or, on occasion, by the inexperience of the contestants, into an uproarious comedy. But last night at the north side finals courage paid off as never before. And that courage, backed by more than average ability, presages trouble for all competitors at the Coliseum.

Consider Jan Grant and David Areen, slugging middleweights. Areen took a terrific blow to the jaw in the first round. He barely came up at Referee Dave Miller's count of nine. But Areen stuck to his guns, a smashing left hook to the body, and in the next round Grant was spilled twice for nine counts. In the last it was a tossup over which was the more tired, but just before the final gong Grant went down again. There was no doubt concerning the decision, which, of course, was given to Areen.

Persson Whips Puncher.

And there was Levi Persson of the Arcade, the other middleweight qualifier. Persson well might have quaked at the prospect of meeting Frank Polk

SPORT CHARITIES.

COACH KNUTE ROCKNE of Notre Dame is likely to think twice before he again sanctions appearance of South Bend athletes in charity football games. For the second time expense money paid to his athletes has been questioned. Whatever the merits of the respective cases, this is hardly satisfactory to a man indirectly responsible and to whose college no commensurate gain accrues.

While there are a few recognized and well managed charities which derive a revenue from sport promotion, there always is danger of spontaneous combustion. Often the real purpose of a sport charity is to evade the government tax on amusement admissions. Sport events have been known to gross high in the thousands with net in the hundreds. We differentiate between events promoted for the avowed purpose of charity and "naturals" from which charity is the gainer, an event like the Golden Gloves tourney, for instance.

The Golden Gloves tourneys were originated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York News to promote healthful boxing among amateurs. It was apparent at once that these tourneys would be succesful financially. Naturally, THE TRIBUNE did not wish to profit for something undertaken as a public service, so the net proceeds are turned over to world war service organizations in Chicago. New York profits, we understand, are devoted to charity and development of athletics at various local clubs and organizations not otherwise adequately financed.

To expect professional boxers, wrestlers, or even football players graduated from college to give something for nothing is rather a strain upon one's knowledge of human nature.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

Dear Wake: With the passing of the recent auto shows in Chicago and New York, it would not be amiss to relate briefly circumstances attending the first motor vehicle competition in America which the late Herman Kohlsaat provided for Chicago in 1895, and incidents thereto.

As an inventor, designer and builder of America's first mechanically successful automobile, Elwood Haynes has a secure title to fame. The machine he made, after experimenting seven years, was used by him on the roads about Kokomo, Ind., as field superintendent for a natural gas company.

The first Chicago show was set for July 4, but there was only one entry, the Haynes-Apperson buggy, or wagon. Time was extended to Labor day and then to Thanksgiving day. On the night before the actual test three inches of snow fell. There were six starters. The Haynes-Apperson was not one of them. On the way to Jackson park it collided with a street car and smashed a front wheel.

Four gasoline and two electric wagons were ready when Judge Kimball shouted "Go!" The course was 53½ miles. The electrics dropped out early. Two gasoline cars finished. The Duryea Wagon Motor company entry of Springfield, Mass., was first and the gas wagon of H. Mueller & Co. of Decatur, Ill., a rather poor second. Franklin Duryea's time was 10 hours and 23 minutes, average speed of about 5¼ miles. The crowd at the finish dwindled to fifty before the wagons ended their journey.

Henry Ford was not present because he could not borrow carfare to Chicago. Years later he stated he never had wanted anything so much as to go to that race. Arne A. Hansen.

Whazza matter with Des Moines, Ia.? Didn't its sport followers ever hear of Joe Savoldi? The very idea of only 700 of them turning out for a wrestling exhibition and having to call off the show for lack of support? O, well, perhaps it was all for the best.

PHYSICIAN SAYS BAN JOHNSON HAS FIGHTING CHANCE

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Some improvement was noted in the condition of Ban Johnson, former president of the American league, who is seriously ill in a hospital here. Although Johnson was improved this morning his physician, Dr. Robert F. Hyland, said his condition was unchanged this afternoon.

Dr. Hyland said the former baseball czar has a "fighting chance" to live.

CUB, SOX PARTIES LEAVE TODAY FOR PROVING GROUNDS

Hack Arrives; Unworried by New Ball.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The baseball bugs can have their choice of getaways and close-up views of famous athletes today. Those with a preference for Cub doings can appear at the Dearborn street station to see Hack Wilson and eight of his mates start away for California at 12:30 over the Santa Fe. Those who still cling to the White Sox in their hours of second division tenancy can have a glimpse of a few of their favorites by lining up at the Alton Limited gate, Union depot, at 11:30 o'clock. And there is nothing that makes it illegal to witness both getaways.

All the preliminaries incidental to the day before going away were carried out yesterday according to schedule. Treasurer Lou Comiskey, Secretary Lou Barbour, and Manager Donie Bush corralled all of the six athletes slated to leave from here for the San Antonio camp. President William Veeck was equally successful in getting together the small flock of outfielders and infielders who will make the westward journey under the guidance of the pinch hitting secretary, Danny Cahill.

Hack Inspects New Ball.

The arrival of the high priced Mr. Hack from his winter hiding place at Martinsburg, W. Va., was marked by his first inspection of the new ball. As the ball was devised to cut down hitting and since Hack is the present home run king of the majors he naturally was vitally interested.

As soon as Hack reached the Cub offices in the Wrigley building he was handed unblemished copies of the new implement and the one in use last year. Wilson took a good look and then remarked:

"What the hell is the difference?"

When Hack was shown that there really was a difference he had no trouble detecting it. Then he remarked that it would take more than a raised seam on a baseball to make him start worrying at this late stage of life.

"If I get hold of 'em they'll go, new balls or old ones," he declared. "The pitching may be better, but they can't pitch better all the time. I'm going to keep right on swinging and if none of the guys are hurt I wouldn't be surprised to find ourselves in first place late next September."

Wants to Stay in Center.

Hack is hoping that nothing comes of Manager Hornsby's scheme to move the center fielder to the left side and place Cuyler in the middle. Wilson has no objection to playing anywhere so long as he is paid for so doing, but he feels that he's been in center for so many years that he might have difficulty getting acquainted in a new job. He played some in left field when the Giants had him. Hornsby's idea in the shift is that Cuyler's speed will permit him to cover more ground in center.

Those billed to accompany Wilson to the island camp are Lester Bell, who upon arrival here reported he had had no trouble with the right arm, which was more or less dead last year; Woody English, William Jurges, Vincent Barton, Kiki Cuyler, Cliff Heathcote, Riggs Stephenson, and Danny Taylor. Blair, Grimm, Beck, and Moore will be picked up en route. The party will descend on Catalina island by the noon boat next Tuesday and probably will be put to work the same day.

26 in Sox Party.

Although only six of the white hosed boys are going to make their campward start from here, the party will number twenty-six persons. Fans and newspapermen will take up most of the space. Coach Shipwreck Kelly also will be present. The departures from here are Edward O'Shaughnessy and Lou Barbour Jr., a couple of rookie pitchers; Frank Grube, the new catcher; Old Man Red Faber, Tommy Thomas, and Bob Welland, who was slated to go to the Atlanta club until the draft problem was settled, making it possible to ship him to a class AA league, where he was located for two years.

Francis Whips Eddie Shea in Ten Round Bout

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Kid Francis, dynamic little Italian, conquered Eddie Shea, Chicago Italian, tonight in the ten round feature bout at Madison Square Garden and satisfied a crowd of 8,261 fight fans, who paid gross receipts of $23,519, that he is a dangerous contender for the world's featherweight title held by Bat Battalino.

Referee Jed Gahan and the two judges voted their decision unanimously for Francis when the final bell clanged on a battle that was crowded with action.

A last round rally won for Francis, and it was his youth that equipped him for this recovery, even as years of ring service and wear and tear of competition handicapped the Chicagoan. Francis finished the struggle with five rounds to his credit against four for Shea, while one—the fourth—was even. Francis took the second, third, fifth, eighth and tenth, while Shea captured the first, sixth, seventh and ninth.

For the most part it was a head to head battle and at this style Francis excelled because of his strength. Shea outboxed and outgeneraled his rival in the first round but in the second and third Francis pressed the attack and Shea retreated steadily. In the fourth Shea rallied and gave as good as he received, but in the fifth Francis' attack carried the round.

The sixth and seventh saw Shea in a savage burst, while Francis appeared to weaken from body blows and the pace he had cut out for himself, but Francis rallied in the eighth and pressed Shea to the ropes, pounding the body and head with both hands. In the next round Shea flashed his boxing skill again and had Francis missing awkwardly. In the tenth Francis drilled home with both hands tirelessly from gong to gong, and under a succession of glancing drives to the jaw had Shea weary at the bell. Francis weighed 122 pounds and Shea 126.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 20.—(AP)—After holding out for the last six weeks, Wesley Ferrell, ace of Cleveland Indian pitchers, telegraphed General Manager Billy Evans tonight that he would accept the terms of the original contract. Ferrell's capitulation was a surprise to Evans, to whom he wrote only a week ago demanding a higher salary.

Bennis Boys Three-Eighths of Michigan City Ring Team

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Michigan City, Ind., Feb. 20.—Eight young fellows have won places on the team which will represent Michigan City in the Golden Gloves bouts at the Chicago Coliseum—and of these eight there are three named Bennis.

There's Frank, whose one boxing axiom is, "The guy in the opposite corner must be knocked out," preferably by a good old fashioned clip on the chin such as used to bring cheers from the follows sitting on the back fence in the days when the Bennis boys battled just for fun in the vacant lots of La Porte, Ind. Frank has put that axiom into practice eight times in two seasons of Golden Gloves boxing.

Those impromptu fights, by the way, were conducted with gloves, not fists, for the Bennis brothers are not the kind who engage promiscuously in street brawls. They're a good natured, well mannered trio, but nevertheless it's easy to imagine them flipping a few uppercuts with bare knuckles in case the town bully of fiction were to put in an appearance.

Leo Packs a Wallop.

In addition to Frank, there's Leo, who uses a little more polish in shellacking his man. Leo's bouts in the sectional tournament also were terminated by the count of ten rather than by the bell.

And finally there's Don, the youngest of the trio, who kept up family tradition by putting to sleep the one man who faced him in the Michigan City ring. He won his other bout by default.

You'll find the three boys most any afternoon by driving over to La Porte and hunting up Tipton street. When you come to the First Ward bakery, step inside, ask for Leo and he'll appear from an inner recess clad in a white apron perhaps with a few pellets of dough clinging to his fingers or a dab of flour on his cheek. The boys help their father and mother run the bakery which has been theirs since coming to La Porte about twelve years ago.

Hope to Go Far in Ring.

Leo is a modest chap, inclined to gloss over his own exploits and depict his older brother, Frank, as the blonde battler who gives no quarter and asks none. Both he and Frank hope to go in for fighting in a big way if they're successful in their quest of Golden Gloves.

Frank will take you across the vacant lot to the poolroom and down the stairs to the improvised gymnasium where they do their training, if any. But Frank doesn't go in for training on a very large scale, and says he isn't up on most of the fine points.

"One fellow wouldn't fight me because his thumb wasn't feeling right and he was afraid of injuring it," Frank said. "Why, I fought with a sprained thumb up in Chicago last year and never even thought about it once I pulled on the gloves. The only time I'll back out is when both of my eyes are punched shut. I would like to join a gym and get some pointers. As it is, I just punch a fellow's nose and either he falls or he doesn't. I don't know much about footwork because there's not much chance to practice it here. Look at this floor."

Frank Also Violinist.

He illustrated by poking his toe down into the canvas mat which covered the improvised basement ring. It had a way of billowing up where the floor was warped and then sagging into the cracks.

In addition to his other accomplishments Frank is a violinist, and on many occasions he fiddles away while the youth and beauty of La Porte sway to the rhythm of popular dance tunes.

He's been in the ring only ten times, winning seven of those fights by knockouts and one by a decision. He lost one bout by decision and was once disqualified, the disqualification occurring in the quarter finals of last year's Golden Gloves bouts at Chicago.

Leo has had the most experience, engaging in some 20 battles and losing only three, while Don, the youngest, is just hitting his stride. The family is Polish, and Leo, at least, speaks that language fluently.

Lived in Chicago.

The three boys were born in a little Pennsylvania mining town called St. Benedict, but moved to Chicago when quite young. For four years they lived near Grand avenue and Ashland boulevard, attending James Otis school and then the scene shifted to La Porte, where they finished with the books at the Sacred Heart Grammar school.

But don't think that the three Bennis brothers are the only members of the Michigan City team who will thrill Chicagoans in the bouts at the Coliseum March 2, 3 and 4. Their five mates are expected to be right up there at the finish. There are Merle Brown, Jimmy Alderson, Ernest Burkhart, Gus Bobinski and Bud Roberts, each one of whom earned his honors by a display of power and nerve in a tournament which drew 35 of the toughest fighters in Michigan City and the surrounding towns.

Watch Champions Win Their Crowns!

Eight young fighters—champions in every sense of the word—will be on top when the last Golden Gloves bout is fought. Each lad will be up there because he carries a wallop in his mitt and reckless courage in his heart.

You can watch these boys win their titles if you act right now and get tickets before all the good ones are snapped up. The champions of fifteen cities, together with the best battlers of Chicago, will fight at the Coliseum on March 2, 3 and 4—and you can see them for $1, $1.50 or $2.

Then the winners meet at the Chicago Sadium on March 11 to determine the team which will go to New York. You can be in on this grand climax for $1, $2 or $3.

Tickets are on sale at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, or you can mail in your order together with a check. Address it to the Ticket Manager, Golden Gloves tournament, The Tribune, Chicago.

3,500 CHEER 16 PICKED TO FIGHT FOR NORTH SIDE of the Belle Plaine A. C. Thursday night, in his first public fight, Folk knocked out his opponent. He repeated again in the first round last night against Paul Bracke of the Summerdale squad. But Persson came out undaunted. In 30 seconds he had crossed a right to Folk's jaw, and the Belle Plaine scrapper was carried to his corner.

Duel of Courage, Skill Draws Record Crowd.

Aggressive Boxer Loses.

Phil Pernice, Belle Plaine A. C. featherweight, one of the most aggressive boxers in the tournament, deserved a better fate. He lost his qualifying match with Harold Dunnington of the Lawndale gym in four rounds. Pernice lacked the stamina to carry on in the deciding session and lost an exceedingly close bout to Dunnington, a counter puncher. Pernice previously had whipped George Madole of Grays Lake, Ill., to reach the finals and he took weakening punishment in that encounter.

John Peckovitch, a tough sailor lad from Great Lakes, will be terror to the welterweights in the tournament of champions. In his first bout last night he came briskly to the center of the ring and almost immediately dropped a ton of leather on the jaw of Daniel Sugrue, who went down and out. Jack Cruse of the Grand Harlem A. C. felt that punch in the second round of the qualifying match. However, Jack weathered the storm, but lost the decision.

An extra supply of courage kept George Goodman in the battle for Golden Gloves. Losing after one round of milling with George Heberski, a featherweight from Great Lakes, he smashed in with a knockout blow and the Great Lakes boy was finished.

The lightweight qualifiers, Ted Barry and H. Kastman, rank with any 135 pounder in action so far. Kastman pounded out a three round decision over Philip McQuillan, a Negro from the Lawndale gym, to qualify for the Coliseum tournament. Barry eliminated Pete Verri, a favorite from the Nelson Athletic club.

Slugfest Repays "Stickers."

The greatest match of the evening, one that more than repaid the crowd which still packed the Fronton after four and a half hours of fighting, was the slugfest between William Gale and Helge Erickson. Erickson made a game fight after being outclassed in the first round. For courage and determination it has not been equaled in the tournament. He stayed the limit and Gale was played out at the end, although his early margin was sufficient to earn the decision.

And so the saga of battle has gone for 170 bouts in four days of fighting. From these contests, two teams of 16 qualifiers each have been determined. And now the Golden Gloves carnival moves to its last stand, and there, at White City, will come the climax of Chicago's preparation for the out of town teams.

TODAY-at all Shell stations

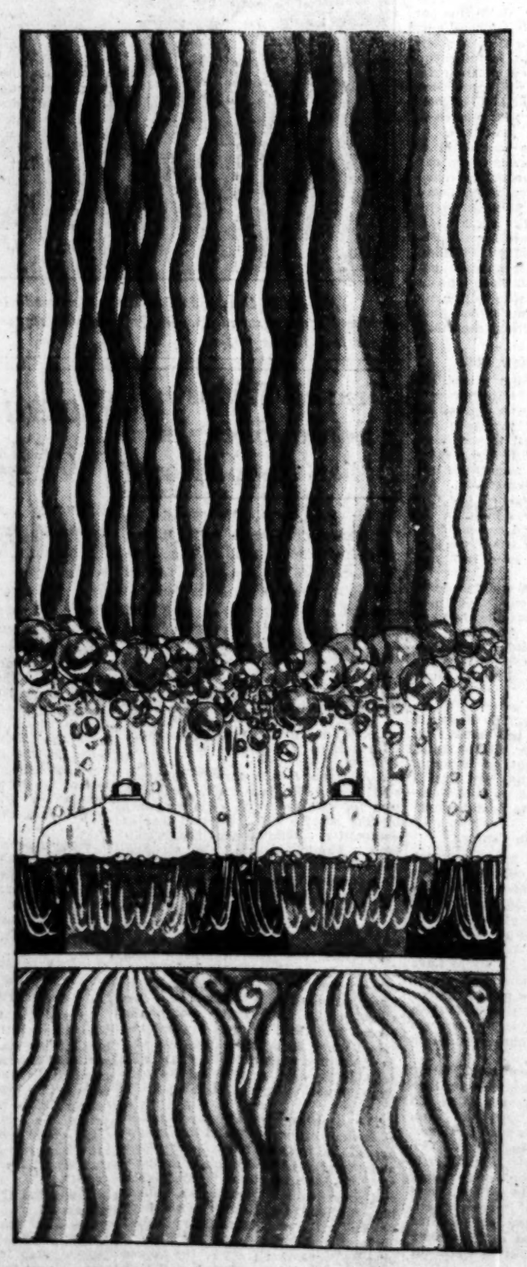
Super-Shell Ethyl



Livelier, quicker anti-knock gasoline . . . because science has found a way to REMOVE EVERY SLOW-VAPORIZING, LAZY PARTICLE

Now . . . science's perfected anti-knock fuel!

Super-Shell Ethyl is different. It contains Ethyl fluid, of course—a generous charge that assures positive anti-knock value. But with this Ethyl compound is now blended a special and superior kind of gasoline.

This changes the whole character of the fuel. Improves it! Gives you added value for your money!

Shell engineers developed it. They knew that inferior gasoline—no matter what was added—doesn't deliver best performance in your car. They set out to make anti-knock fuel utterly free of slow-firing, harmful, "heavy" gasoline particles. Months of experiment . . then they succeeded!

It is a matter of "washing" the gasoline—in a series of huge steel refining towers where the gasoline vapors travel over Shell's amazing system of "bubble cap trays." Here by minute new adjustment of heat and by special design and arrangement of trays, this gasoline is stripped of every lazy, slow-vaporizing particle.

All the doubtful "fractions" so often left in gasoline are "scrubbed" out. Into a special pipe flows only the extra-volatile, lively, buoyant gasoline which Shell blends with genuine Ethyl fluid!

Thus Super-Shell Ethyl gives you every quality you need to get finest engine operation from your car. Quick starting. Smooth, even power to put you in front of the crowd. High anti-knock value.

Now . . . see what really fine performance your motor is capable of giving. Drive into a Shell station today, and fill up with Super-Shell Ethyl. Few, after trying this, will be content with ordinary anti-knock fuels.

Visualizing a section of one of the multiple "bubble cap trays" in Shell's refining and "scrubbing" towers. Here all the heavy, lazy particles are washed out of this special gasoline, producing the volatile, lively gasoline base for Super-Shell Ethyl ing coaches San Antonio late tomorrow morning there will be on hand most of his other battery men who are making the trip direct from their homes. Anybody not accounted for Monday morning will be billed as a holdout, at least by the newspaper-men.

Bush, flanked by Tommy Thomas, spent a few warm moments before the microphone last night at W-G-N, the CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel. Thomas told the listening world that his priceless arm, which was out of whack last season, was as good as ever, and Bush answered a few questions put to him by Ed Ekan, TRIBUNE sports announcer. Bush said that his team would be at least 20 per cent stronger, but Simmons was sure to be the center fielder, and that it wouldn't surprise him if Kamm won back the third base job. Bush also declared he held high hopes for Appling, the rookie shortstop.

CUB BATTERIES DRILL

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 20.—The Cub pitchers started pitching today and the Cub catchers started catching. Manager Rogers Hornsby said after one of his battery artists will be ready to bear down on the slugging gentry immediately upon their arrival on Catalina Island next Tuesday noon.

While the soccer game will continue to wind up each day's exercising, the bulk of each session from now on, it is so far as the battery men are concerned, will be strictly in line with the purpose in life, throwing and not throwing from now on in.

Ingers Goes Into Action.

Manager Hornsby today was more active athletically than he has been this year. He spent an hour catching some of the new pitchers and then went over to the diamond with Coach Charley O'Leary, the fungo expert. Ingers called upon Fred Blake to fill in at shortstop and a rookie to serve at first, then conducted a serious drill for himself. The new Cub boss was right sprightly and clearly showed the result of his prediction that he will play more than a hundred games at second this season.

The promise that player discipline will be more rigorous than ever before took another step in realization today when there was an edict prohibiting shooting on the island.

In past years the players used much of their spare time in slaying goats and ground squirrels, and the activities of the first three days indicated there would be more shooting this year than previously. The came the order: eight guns immediately went into storage and half a dozen more that had been sent for my wire will be shipped back home as soon as they arrive.

Five Pitchers, Not Goats.

There are 45,000 wild goats on the island, and steps frequently have been taken to exterminate them. The ruling was not to save the goats. It was explained that the Cub management was worried about.

If a player were to shoot a dozen goats, not even the surviving goats would miss them, but if one pitcher were to shoot another pitcher by mistake, especially a pitcher with a high, hot ball, this would be very distressing.

Barring no more pitchers than he needs, Manager Hornsby caused the island management to prohibit all manner of shooting.

Campbell in London; Gets Title Today

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Capt. Malcolm Campbell, who will be received at Buckingham palace tomorrow when he will be given the accolade of knighthood by King George V, arrived in London this afternon and received an official governmental reception.

The train from Southampton, labeled the Blue Bird Special in honor of the car in which Capt. Campbell established the world land speed record of 245 miles per hour, arrived at Waterloo station and was met by a throng headed my the lord mayor of London, Sir William Phené Neal.

Parade to Historic Hall.

The parade to Westminster hall in the parliament buildings followed where Capt. Campbell was received by Herbert Morrison, minister of transportation, and G. M. Gillett, secretary of the department for overseas trade. Officials lauded the speed king for the prestige he has created in the British motor industry abroad.

Capt. Campbell, in replying to the several thousand who were standing in the historic hall, expressed satisfaction that he had been able to do anything to promote understanding between the "two greatest nations of the world and to bring forward the position of the British empire among the countries of the earth."

Aided by Miss Carstairs.

Capt. Campbell's homecoming was marked by a revelation in which it was made known that Miss Betty Carstairs, British speedboat enthusiast, contributed $50,000 to the race driver's exploit. Capt. Campbell said, "she was my only backer. The rest of the money came out of my own pocket."

The captain's expenses were about the same as Miss Carstairs'.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to the court of St. James, took part in the welcome to Capt. Campbell at a banquet of 400 British motorists tonight at the Mayfair hotel. Gen Dawes declared that in his opinion men like Campbell and Lindbergh were better than a thousand ambassadors and fifty thousand politicians.

Mullen Takes Over His Old Gym in Loop

Boxers, trainers, and managers who entered the Chicago Loop gym, at 180 West Randolph street, yesterday saw a placard which read: "Under New Management—James C. Mullen."

Mullen, who once was Chicago premier promoter, was seated in the old chair he occupied when he established the gym, just before boxing was legalized in Illinois. The gymnasium again will be known as Mullen's gym.

Financial reverses a few years ago forced Mullen to give up the gym, but he remained in the boxing game. Last fall he conducted shows in cooperation with George Ferguson at the Coliseum.

"I'm back to stay this time," said Mullen yesterday. "I am going to put on shows at the Coliseum and I have leased Mills stadium for the outdoor season.

Miss Van Wie Loses Title to Helen Hicks

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP)—After it seemed she had tossed away her chances with a badly topped brassie shot, Helen Hicks, Hewlett, Long Island, stood idly by on the 19th hole today and watched victory in the Florida women's golf championship come suddenly her way as her opponent, Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, knocked Helen's ball into the cup in a futile attempt to negotiate a dead stymie.

This freakish finish was the climax to a close and keenly fought final round contest over the links of the Palm Beach Country club, furnishing an unlooked for thrill to a fashionable gallery of nearly 2,000 spectators. It brought triumph to the New York girl by the slender margin of one up, marking Miss Hicks' first victory in the tournament. At the same time it cost Miss Van Wie the chance for a third win and permanent possession of the championship cup.

Miss Hicks' putt rolled around the lip of the cup, failed to drop, but laid her rival a dead stymie. Virginia had the alternative of playing safe for a half in sixes or of making the dangerous try for a win. She took the chance, but her putt knocked in Helen's ball for an automatic five.

Other officials are: Herman Fisher, Paddy Driscoll, Walter Wright, John Behr, George Donoughue, E. McGillivray, M. Merriam, E. Delaporte, Herbert Reynolds, A. Pritzlaff, Jack Elder, Doctor Darwent, Helen Filkey, Racine Thompson, and Jack Nisberg.

The meet is open to the public and tickets may be obtained at the door.

Hinckley Leads Carroll to Win Over Loyola, 33-22

Led by Hinckley, Carroll college defeated the Loyola basketball team at the Loyola gymnasium last night, 33 to 22. Hinckley scored eight field goals, while Vander Muhler the elongated center, rang up eleven points.

Both teams started out cautiously, and it was ten minutes before Clarkson scored the first basket. Loyola gained a small lead, but Hinckley's basket and Vander Muhlen's free throw brought the score to 12-all at half time.

Early in the second half Hinckley went under the basket for five goals in a row to give Carroll a commanding lead.

Hinckley and Vander Muhlen were the whole show for Carroll with 27 points. Cavinaugh and Schuman divided 15 points between them to stand out for the Ramblers. Lineups:

Big 10 Cagers Resume Title Race Tonight

The Western conference basketball championship struggle will be resumed tonight with every team in competition.

Northwestern, leading the race with seven victories and one defeat, will go to Iowa City to meet Iowa, and should win. Minnesota, runnerup with five triumphs and two setbacks, faces Ohio State at Columbus, and also figures to win.

At Ann Arbor, Michigan and Indiana will battle for third place, and possibly for a tie for second, depending upon Minnesota's fortunes at Ohio State.

The deans of Big Ten basketball coaches, Dr. Walter Meanwell of Wisconsin, and Ward Lambert of Purdue, neither of whose productions is up to usual standard this season, will be matched at Lafayette, Ind. The fifth game will be a neighborhood affair between Chicago and Illinois on the latter's floor. The Maroons were away to the better start this season, but the Illini have blossomed out into a dangerous outfit in recent games.

LA PORTE WINS TITLE.

La Porte, Ind., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—La Porte High school won the eastern division Northern Indiana High school championship tonight by defeating South Bend Central, 20 to 15.

4 TEAMS MEET IN QUADRANGULAR GAMES TONIGHT

N. U., Chicago, Wisconsin, Ohio at Patten Gym.

Track teams from Chicago, Northwestern, Ohio, and Wisconsin will clash at Patten gym tonight in the eighth annual quadrangular track and field meet. The program will start at 8 o'clock.

Wisconsin, represented by a well balanced squad, figures to win a large share of the honors. Coach Tom Jones has entered a squad which will prove especially strong in the high jump, shot put, mile and two mile runs. In the other events, however, the Badgers will encounter spirited competition.

Two relays, the mile and two mile, will replace the quarter and half mile runs. These two races lead the card of ten events. Northwestern, winner of both relays last year, will be back with a strong contender in the mile, while Chicago is regarded as a favorite in the two mile with Dale Letts, star half miler, running as anchor man.

40 Yard Field Strong.

A strong field will appear for the 40 yard sprint. Capt. Allen East of Chicago, Zack Ford of Northwestern, and Jack Keller of Ohio are the trio who will probably force the issue in this event. The Purple representative won the event last year, beating out Simpson of Ohio. Keller is a sophomore at Ohio this year and celebrated his entry into collegiate circles by winning the 60 yard dash at Indiana last week in :06.4.

In addition to his sprinting ability the new Buckeye star is a capable hurdler and appears to be about the best timber topper in tonight's meet. Chicago has two contenders in Roy Black and Robert Bibb, the latter a sophomore, who are likely to pick up points in either the high or low hurdles. Dixon and Johnson will represent Northwestern in these events.

Letts, Maroon star, is a strong favorite in the mile run. He will encounter his strongest competition from Thompson and

Bids for the construction of the Magnolia avenue sewer, which will drain the district bounded by Clark and Howard streets, Lawrence avenue and the lake, were opened yesterday at a meeting of the board of local improvements. The White Construction company was the lowest of four bidders with a bid of $2,924,938. The cost estimate of the board's engineers was $3,598,000.

The White company bid was lower by $97,214 than the bid of $3,022,152 received from the W. J. Newman company. The other bids were $3,091,005 from Paschen Brothers and $3,283,557 from the Underground Construction company.

Residents of the north side have fought the sewer project for more than two years. The ordinance, however, was approved by the council after being recommended by the judiciary committee, of which Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th] is chairman. Under the specifications in the bids the sewer must be completed by Dec. 1, 1932, and the restoration of pavements and sidewalks, torn up during construction, must be finished by July 15, 1933.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

MARSHAL PETAIN ASKS FOR FUND TO BURY WAR HEROES

Learn Priest Cared for Dead French Soldiers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Shocked by the revelations that 14,000 Frenchmen who fell in the Verdun carnage were reposing in rough hewn boxes, six or more bodies to a box and stacked in dilapidated warehouses at Douamont, Marshal Petain, former chief of the French army, today appealed for $420,000 to place the bodies in decent coffins and to give the dead a decent burial. Marshal Petain is chairman of the association, which built the Douamont ossuary now crowded with 8,000 bodies.

In the meantime these new exposures indicate that the scandal is vastly more grewsome and shameful than was at first believed.

Priest Provides Shelter.

The biggest of the warehouses, viewed by Minister of Pensions Auguste Champettier de Ribes, has for seven years been holding nearly 10,000 bodies. The remains were not even provided for by the state but through the charity of a local priest, Abbé Noel, who, worried over the ungrateful treatment to the fallen heroes, collected sufficient money to provide a makeshift shelter.

A constant harvest of bodies is being brought to the surface by scrap iron salvagers. They, in return for a concession from the government for gathering spent shells, discarded helmets, rusty rifles, and shattered field pieces which mark the spots where the bodies are found, report the burial places to the government grave diggers.

Find 100 Bodies Weekly.

During three years 600 bodies have thus been found weekly. The number has now decreased to less than 100 weekly.

The government's royalty from junk salvagers totals more than $500,000 but it has not seen fit to set aside enough from that unexpected profit to give burial to the 14,000 soldiers, war veterans complain.

The ministry of pensions even lacked the necessary $32,000 last fall to replace wooden crosses, which had been beaten down by storms in the national cemeteries. At present it does not possess a single "sou" for placing into decent coffins and burying this unburied division.

DEVELOPER OF FINGERPRINT SYSTEM DIES

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Sir Edward R. Henry, known as the man who developed the finger print system of criminal identification and introduced it into practical use, died here today at the age of 80.

He began his studies of finger prints many years ago as a member of the Indian civil service and carried it on during the years when he was assistant commissioner and finally commissioner of the London metropolitan police and head of Scotland Yard.

In his investigations he examined hundreds of thousands of prints, and he was said to have established that there was only one chance in 640,000,000,000 of two prints being identical. His discoveries, which had no connection with those of Dr. Alphonso Bertillon, inventor of the system of bodily identification, have been developed and used by police in nearly every country in the world.

COURT FREES 83 STUDENTS IN RUM CASE AT MICHIGAN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—It was announced today that no charges were to be preferred against any of the eighty-three University of Michigan students, members of five fraternity houses, who were ordered to appear in court today because liquor, gin, and beer had been found in the frat buildings.

Forty-five students appeared before Justice Albert J. Rapp.

"There never were any formal charges preferred, and you never were in custody," Justice Rapp told them. "You merely were ordered to report for investigation. No complaints were signed against you individually.

"Always act like gentlemen and you never will get into trouble with my office. Always remember that the public has its eyes on you."

200,000 INDIANS MOB GANDHI AT FREEDOM RALLY

NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Nearly 200,000 persons fought, pleaded and clamored for hours today to see and hear Mahatma Gandhi at the biggest outdoor independence meeting held since Gandhi's release from jail at Poona on Jan. 26.

On his way to the meeting, Gandhi was almost mobbed by his frenzied, cheering admirers, who surged around him in such dense formation that for fifteen minutes he was held prisoner in his small American automobile.

At the end of his speech the multitude again swept toward him, and in the stampede which followed one of the windows of his automobile was smashed.

Stricken Melba Delirious; Condition Growing Graver

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The condition of Dame Nellie Melba, Australian diva, who is seriously ill here, has grown steadily graver and she now is almost constantly delirious. It was understood today that treatment is being partly directed by cables from a German physician in whom the prima donna reposed great confidence. Friends here believe her desire to return to Australia from Europe before Christmas may have been the means of bringing on what many fear is a final illness. Under treatment of continental physicians she had fought off a strange malady she believed she contracted in Cairo, Egypt, and was getting well.

PINCHOT DENIES IRENE SCHROEDER DEATH RESPITE

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Gov Pinchot late today declined a request for a respite for Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, under sentence to die in the electric chair at Rockview penitentiary next Monday morning for slaying a policeman.

The stay was asked by an attorney retained by Mrs. Ella Mountz, wealthy Clearfield county woman, who interested herself in the case of the blonde bandit.

The appeal was based on a desire of defense counsel to search for a revolver in a Fort Worth, Tex., pawnshop. It was said the gun was disposed of there as the couple fled to the southwest after Corporal Brady Paul of the strate highway patrol had been slain near Newcastle more than a year ago, and on its recovery hinged a contention that Mrs. Schroeder did not fire the fatal shot.

LIMIT PREFERRED STOCK DIVIDEND OF ARMOUR & CO.

Retain Payments on Subsidiary Issues.

All leading stock and commodity exchanges and banks will be closed next Monday in observance of Washington's birthday, which falls on Sunday this year. The Chicago Board of Trade will be closed, but the live stock market will remain open.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Directors of Armour & Co., the big Chicago meat packing concern, discontinued dividends on the preferred stock yesterday. They voted to omit the current quarterly payment of $1.75 a share, although they declared the usual quarterly dividend on the preferred stocks of Delaware and the North American Provision company, which are subsidiaries of the Illinois company. Discontinuance of the Armour of Illinois preferred dividend follows one of the lowest years in the company's history. The annual report, issued last month, showed that net earnings for the fiscal year ended Nov. 1, 1930, were not quite sufficient to cover dividends on Armour of Delaware and North American Provision preferred stocks. Therefore, the year's dividends on Armour of Illinois preferred stock were paid entirely from surplus.

HARRY G. MILLS.

J. M. HOAGLAND.

Tells of Slackening Demand.

"While inventories at the beginning of our current fiscal year were in a generally satisfactory position," President T. George Lee explained, "there has been a continually declining market for our products since. In common with commodities in general, many packing house products have dropped to record low levels in the last few months. This has caused unsatisfactory operating results."

Two new vice presidents were added to the Armour roster yesterday. They are Harry G. Mills, who will have charge of plant management, and J. M. Hoagland, who will have charge of domestic sales and marketing operations. Mr. Mills has been president of the Butchers' Dressed Meat company, New York, and Mr. Hoagland has been the Armour general branch house superintendent. Both men are veterans in the packing industry.

The long awaited revival in the building industry appears to be at hand. For the first fifteen days of this month contracts for residential construction ran ahead of the same period in February, 1930, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation. If the rest of this month continued the rate residential building will make the first gain since August, 1928, over the corresponding month of the preceding year.

Residential contracts for the fifteen days of this month totaled $42,153,400, which compares with $74,763,200 for all of February, last year. All construction contracts this month totaled $132,484,900, according to the Dodge data. However, engineering projects alone last week were $39,875,000, compared with $41,481,000 in the preceding week and $50,706,000 a year ago, according to the Construction Daily.

Trade Conditions Quiet.

The weekly mercantile reviews continue generally quiet conditions in wholesale and retail trade with further expansion in industrial operations.

"In spite of encouraging reports in many basic lines," Bradstreet's review says, "the wholesale and retail trades appear for the most part to be still marking time. Large distributors through varied special efforts and some price cutting are doing a fair volume of business, but an increasing number of complaints come from small dealers. Wholesale and retail reports closely parallel each other, seeming to show that little or no purchasing is being made for stock.

"Response to the stronger fundamental conditions in business, although not generally evident, is gradually becoming more clearly discernible." Dun's review says. "The improved sentiment which is essential to a revival of activity in spreading and this is the more encouraging because the increased operations resulting from the more cheerful feeling are being governed closely by actual needs."

Hear Kroger Grocery May Enter Restaurant Business

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Indications that the Kroger Grocery and Baking company, operating the second largest chain of grocery stores in the country, contemplates entering the restaurant business was given today in the call for the annual meeting March 4 at Cincinnati.

Stockholders have been advised that they will be asked to vote on a proposal to amend the articles of incorporation "to permit the sale and serving of meals, lunches, confections and soft drinks."

As an experiment, the company opened a new type of store in Cincinnati last June, which in addition to handling the regular line of Kroger foods, included a soda fountain service, light luncheons and soft drinks.

Ask Hoover to Negotiate for Silver Relief

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The senate suggested to President Hoover today that he open negotiations with other governments looking toward restoration of the price of silver.

It adopted without debate a resolution suggesting the President negotiate with other governments to obtain suspension of their policy of debasing silver coin and selling silver on the world market and proposing he call an international conference to agree on the use of silver as money.

The chief purpose of the resolution is to obtain suspension of Great Britain's policy of dumping silver from India on the world market.

The resolution was drafted by the senate foreign relations committee on the basis of a report from a subcommittee which studied the silver problems and the question of trade with China for nearly a year.

Major Depression Cause.

The senate sent to the President, along with the resolution, the subcommittee's complete report, in which it found the depressed price of silver one of the major causes of the world depression.

The subcommittee recommended that the first step in restoring the price of silver was suspension of Great Britain's policy of dumping Indian silver.

It recommended that an international conference on the uses and status of silver as money discuss a long range plan for stabilizing the price of the metal. The low price of silver, the subcommittee said, was the chief cause of the decline in trade between this country and the orient and South America.

Reduce Production.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—Sharply declining prices tended to reduce production of silver last year, and output in the six most important producing countries fell to 211,428,000 ounces from 227,880,000 in 1929 and 222,367,000 in 1928.

The countries included in the report, prepared by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, include the United States, with 50,234,000 ounces; Canada, with 23,447,000; Mexico, with 105,204,000; Peru, with 16,634,000; Australia, with 8,854,000; and Burma, with 7,055,000 ounces. These sources supplied approximately 87 per cent of the world's production in 1929.

NOVAK-STEISKAL BANK CLOSED BY BOARD'S REQUEST

The Novak and Steiskal State bank, 1817 South Loomis street, was closed by State Auditor Nelson yesterday morning at the request of the directors of the bank. The action was asked because of steady withdrawals of deposits over the last year. An announcement from the auditor's office said, "No loss to depositors should be sustained."

The institution, before being reorganized as a state bank, was one of the oldest private banks on the southwest side. It was capitalized at $200,000 with a surplus of $80,000. The deposits on Dec. 31, 1931, were $721,285.51.

John L. Novak was president of the bank, the institution growing from a real estate and mortgage banking business he founded more than forty years ago. He was at one time a director of the Chicago public library. Frank Steiskal and Otto L. Steiskal were vice presidents and Joseph F. Noval cashier. The auditor's office announced that it would coöperate with bank officials in an effort to reorganize the bank.

McKelvie's Statement Construed as Bearish

Grain traders construed a statement issued by S. R. McKelvie, wheat representative of the federal farm board, that the Grain Stabilization corporation would not be in the market next year, as bearish. It was asserted by some of the operators that it was one of the reasons for the late selling and decline in wheat prices, the impression being that it indicated the government was going out of the grain trade and that the markets would soon be working on a natural basis.

Those in close touch with operations of the Grain Stabilization corporation and the Farmers National say there has been no policy considered by the farm board for handling the new crop. Such a polic cannot be determined until it is possible to know how large the crop will be and what the general conditions are. It is not expected that the farm board will continue its operations indefinitely.

HUDSON MOTOR CUTS DIVIDEND RATE TO $1 ANNUAL BASIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—Directors of the Hudson Motor Car company announced today a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable April 1 to owners of record March 11. In each of the last two quarters the company paid out 75 cents a share, prior to which the dividend had been on a $5 annual basis.

The cut in the dividend rate was generally expected in financial circles in view of the sharp decline in earnings for 1930. Net for last year on the capital stock of the company was equal to 20 cents a share, compared with $7.26 a share for the previous year.

The usual extra dividend of 75 cents a share was declared today on the 7 per cent cumulative participating preferred stock of the Budd Wheel company besides the regular quarterly of $1.75 a share. The regular quarterly of 25 cents was declared on the common.

NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION SHOWS GAIN IN INCOME

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—North American Aviation, Inc., a developing and operating company, showed a slight increase in net income for 1930 over the previous year.

The annual report, issued today by C. M. Keys, president, showed net earnings from all sources of $1,911,110, as compared with $1,908,819 for the peak year of 1929. Per share earnings for 1930 amounted to 91c a share on the 2,100,000 shares outstanding.

The report indicated that about 95 per cent of last year's earnings were from wholly owned subsidiaries, as compared with less than 36 per cent from those sources in the previous year. "Despite the widespread depression in all lines of business," the report said, "the combined net earnings of these subsidiaries approximately equal their net earnings for 1929."

Link Belt Co. Reports 1930 Income of $2,310,332

Sales of the Link Belt company last year totaled $20,303,900, compared with $26,519,339 in 1929, according to the annual report of President Charles Piez. Net income for 1930 was $2,310,332, equivalent after preferred dividends to $2.89 a share on the common stock, compared with $3,484,686, or $4.54 a share, in 1928. Dividends paid last year totaled $2,103,860, after which surplus was increased by $206,471 to $6,923,791.

FAVORS GOV'T CONTROL OF RY. HOLDING FIRMS

Ownership Manual Given to Congress.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A manual of American railroad ownership was laid before congress today by the house interstate commerce committee with a recommendation for legislation to put under federal control holding corporations engaged in acquiring domination over operating railroad systems.

Chairman Parker summarized the findings of the investigation by declaring that fourteen railroad groups—some of which are unified railroad systems—control 210,000 miles of the 260,000 of first class railroads in the country.

The attendant report asserted that the holding company has become "a convenient instrumentality in the terrific struggle of railway giants of the east over coveted property" incident to the proposal to put all of the major eastern railroad systems into four companies. To some degree the consolidation movement had extended as well into the west, it said.

In spite of recent concentration of railroad ownership the investigation determined that 840,000 individuals and corporations held railroad stocks in the major group which the report described.

Lists Fourteen Groups.

Listing the fourteen systems in control of major railroad facilities, the report attributed to the group controlled by C. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen of Cleveland, 28,631 miles; Great Northern-Northern Pacific, 27,421; Pennsylvania, 23,498; Southern Pacific, 14,484; St. Louis San Francisco, 14,161; Atlantic Coast Line, 13,989; Atchison, 13,166; New York Central, 13,006; Baltimore and Ohio, 11,269; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific, 11,247; Chicago and North Western, 10,205; Union Pacific, 10,157; Southern, 10,036; Illinois Central, 9,109.

Reviewing the situation as to holding corporations, the report held that these had been used chiefly by the Van Sweringen group and the Pennsylvania system.

Rise of Van Sweringens.

The rise of the Van Sweringen railroad empire was described as beginning in 1916, when the two Cleveland men purchased the Nickel Plate railroad from the New York Central. In this connection, the report said, "it should be stated that the records examined did not disclose that financial assistance was received from the New York Central railroad or other carriers."

In subsequent years, utilizing thirty-two different corporations, it was stated, the Van Sweringen interests acquired the Chesapeake and Ohio, Erie, Pere Marquette, Wheeling and Lake Erie, and Missouri Pacific railroads. In addition, they hold a half interest directly or indirectly in the Denver, Rio Grande Western and an option on a 50 per cent block of stock of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

Controlled in Turn.

The Allegheny corporation was said to be the principal asset holding organization of the group, but that company in turn was asserted to be controlled by the Vanness company.

Of this latter enterprise, assets of which were about $75,000,000 on April 30 last year, the Van Sweringens personally were 80 per cent owners. Incident to the analysis of this financial structure, the report presented some payments made by the Vanness

Find Population Pendulum Swinging Back to the Farm

BY SCRUTATOR.

Perhaps we should have expected it, but there is something of a shock in learning that the estimates of the bureau of agricultural economics show a larger population on American farms at the beginning of 1931 than at the beginning of 1930. For the first time in ten years farm residents have increased.

There are a vast number of highly mobile Americans. More than a million and a half left the farms last year for the cities, and 1,392,000 moved back to them. This would show a small difference in favor of the cityward movement, but it is more than made up by the normal increase by births in farming communities. The net result, according to estimate, is that 208,000 more are living on the farms now than a year ago.

There have been years since 1920 when the trek to the cities exceeded the march back to the soil by more than a million. Possibly the explanation of the near reversal of the trend is not far to seek. It lies in the inability of the cities to furnish employment to as many new hands as they did in the past, due to depression.

Cities Grow Faster.

To be sure, the city population in the last year has increased more than the farm population. The point is that farm population, abnormally, grew instead of declined, while the city population increased to a much smaller degree than is customary.

Undoubtedly a great many city workers who were dissatisfied with conditions of employment went back home to eat sidemeat and help with the chores until things get better. Land tenure is more rigid than the leasing of a city flat or a room by the week. Farmers, unless they are forced off the land by foreclosure or forced sales, usually are better able to ride through depressions than wage labor in the cities.

However, from the agrarian viewpoint, the new influx of men and women to the farms is not desirable. The people who were on the farms when 1930 was born were more than ample to produce what could be sold profitably by the whole group. What actually is needed is more consumers in the cities and a reduction annually in the farm population.

In normally prosperous times, so-called, the problem was taking care of itself to a degree. The balance between urban and country population was moving in the right direction, although possibly not quite so rapidly as would have been entirely satisfactory. A reversal of this direction, even though it lasts but a short time, is disturbing.

Seen Allied in Prosperity.

Perhaps those who have been most vociferous in their demands that farming be aided, and that there be a cutting down of the number of people making a living by the handling and processing of farm products, are making a mistake. Somehow the impression is given that some of the thinking along such lines still holds with the earliest French economists that all the rest of the world is piled up on a farmer Atlas, and the larger the rest of that world is the more Atlas has to bear on his shoulders.

Any program of farm relief that does not take into consideration the making of city life more attractive is going to fail. It is of course easy to go too far in this direction, or in its opposite. In 1930 the figures show that farm life was more attractive relatively than it was in 1929 not because farming was prosperous but because city life was not better nor as good. It finally comes down to the truth that prosperity is pretty closely allied in the cities and in the country.

REALTY HELPS NORTH SHORE RY. TO SHOW PROFIT

Profits derived from real estate more than offset a decline in operating revenue for the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad company last year. The annual report of President Britton I. Budd says the company disposed of its holdings in the Skokie Valley Realty association and some other investments, deriving a profit of $901,162.

Net income for 1930 was $597,855, which covered dividends totaling $555,709 on the $7,990,100 prior lien stock. No dividends were paid on the preferred and common shares. Net income for 1929 was $723,065. Surplus on Dec. 31, 1930, was $1,033,326. Mr. Budd ascribed the decline in operating revenues to the general depression.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—For a while in the early dealings today it looked like Wall street's long cherished dream of another roaring bull market might at last be coming true.

Big scale orders—4,000 to 10,000 shares—for such favorites as Radio, General Motors, International Telephone, General Electric and United Aircraft appeared one after another and prices went bounding up all over the board. Before the session closed no fewer than 200 new high records for the year had been set and the biggest forenoon turnover in many weeks registered—nearly 2,000,000 shares.

After the turn of the day, however, profit taking and selling by traders unwilling to risk the possibilities of the holiday recess began to cut down the price runups and retard the pace of trading. The offerings were well absorbed, however, and the close found many issues at or around their best levels of the day.

The net gains ranged generally from 1 to 8 points, with particularly noticeable strong spots to be found in the utilities, motors, independent steels and specialties. Total volume ran to about 3,800,000 shares—a good million more than yesterday.

Bonus Seen "Good for Market."

Part of today's display by the bull element can be attributed no doubt to the new Wall street view that the veterans' bonus—now accepted as an assured fact—is going to prove "a good thing for the market," thanks to the increased money circulation that will result from it.

Granted that it may take six months to put the loan machinery in operation, the street believes that the certainty of the loans will bring a lot of money into circulation and that some of it at least will go toward the purchase of "bargain level" stocks.

Also, with the bonus bill out of the way, the chances of an extra session of congress are now regarded as very remote and the removal of politics from the picture is a factor which is in itself expected to pave the way for a betterment of business. At least it will remove one of the factors which has been regarded as a retarding influence in the situation.

Pool Manipulation.

Many of the more sensational price runups were very obviously due to pool manipulation, as has been the case all along in this forward movement. The speculative element noted with approving interest, however, that buying was perking up in many of the old line favorites and in lesser fry popularly regarded as not having kept pace with the advance to date.

Allied Chemical was the outstanding performer of the day in point of price appreciation. At one time it had an advance of more than 10 points to its credit and the close found it still 9½ above its close of yesterday.

The pool in Auburn Auto got on the job early and worked late again and as a result added 8¼ points more to the mounting price of their flat shuttlecock. Case, Worthington and one or two other specialties which have been doing things at the bull bidding here of late were given a rest today.

Price of Stock Exchange Seats Rises with Market

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The bullish trend of stock exchange seat prices kept pace with the rise in shares today, two sales boosting the market value $27,000. A seat was sold early in the day for $300,000; an advance over the previous transaction, and the exchange announced this afternoon that arrangements had been made for the purchase of a seat for $322,000. The lowest price of the current year for a seat was $189,000.

A. M. Byers Co.

I would be glad to receive information about A. M. Byers company. I am enclosing a stamped envelope.—V. K.

A. M. Byers company manufactures about 50 per cent of the wrought iron pipe made in this country. It has been in business since 1864. Orient Coal & Coke company, a subsidiary incorporated in 1924, produces coal and coke, most of its output being used by the parent company.

The most important recent development in this company was the opening last year of its new $12,000,000 plant at Ambridge, Pa., where wrought iron is being produced by the mechanical Aston process. This departure from the old style of puddling by hand should result in material economies in production when general business conditions return to normal and volume increases. The old plant at Girard, O., has been dismantled.

The capacity of the new plant is greater than originally estimated and considerably in excess of past requirements.

The volume of business remained at about the same level from 1925 through 1929, when net sales totaling $10,154,843 were reported. In 1930 there was a drop to $8,012,638.

The fiscal year ends Sept. 30. Net income last year was $1,133,837, equal after preferred dividends, to $2.74 per share earned on the 266,635 no par common shares. After $403,550 had been paid in preferred dividends there was a balance of $730,287 carried to surplus. Net for the preceding year was $1,977,197, or $5.81 per share.

As of Sept. 30, 1930, current assets were $7,065,127 and current liabilities were $1,520,297. This left a working capital of $5,544,830, which compares with $13,084,426 a year before. Profit and loss surplus was $5,218,176.

There was no funded debt, but the company had $6,384,200 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred [par $100] outstanding.

No dividends have been paid on the no par common since it was issued in January, 1925. It is speculative.

General Electric.

We will be pleased to have you give us your opinion of the soundness of the following investment: General Electric company 3½s, due Aug. 1, 1942, listed on the New York stock exchange. Would like to have you advise us as to the total issue outstanding, the callable features, etc.—J. G.

General Electric company 3½ per cent debentures are the direct obligation of the company, but are not secured by mortgage. They are callable at 105 and interest on any interest date. The company has no other funded debt. There are $2,000,000 of these debentures outstanding. They are sound. The company has a strong financial structure and its earnings have been large.

QUAKER OATS CO. TO PAY SPECIAL DIVIDEND OF $3

Reports 1930 Net Income of $6,003,859.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Coincident with the issuance of the annual report showing 1930 net earnings in excess of $6,000,000, the directors of the Quaker Oats company yesterday declared a special cash dividend of $3 on the common stock in addition to authorizing the regular quarterly disbursement of $1 a share.

The 1930 net income of $6,003,859 is equivalent to $7.01 on 702,000 shares of common stock outstanding after provision for preferred dividends. This compares with net income for 1929 of $8,735,204, or $13.03 a share on the 585,000 shares of common stock then outstanding. A 20 per cent stock dividend and an extra cash dividend of $4 were voted by directors a year ago at this time.

Cites Drop in Grain Values.

The decline in grain values during the year cut materially into the earnings of the company, President John Stuart says in his report. The company pursued its established policy of purchasing a large portion of the grain required when prices reached a level enabling the company to make a satisfactory margain of profit on its trade marked products.

These readjustments are reflected in the balance sheet which shows inventories and accounts receivable approximately $7,000,000 under a year ago. The current position was strong with cash and securities of $16,079,466, a gain of $3,356,600, and current liabilities of $5,808,012, or $2,846,286 less than a year ago.

Firm on Stock Exchange.

The common stock of the Quaker Oats company is traded in on the Chicago exchange but is seldom turned over in heavy volume. Yesterday's trade consisted of an odd lot transaction made at 161¾, the approximate previously closing quotation.

Elsewhere in the Chicago list stocks were strong with a number of miscellaneous specialties making substantial gains. These issues included many which have not participated to any extent in the recent bullish activity. Altorfer Brothers convertible preference shares on small trade were marked up 3½ points to 36 and Allied Products advanced 2, to 19.

Other issues to gain 2 points or so included Perfect Circle, Raytheon, and North and South America A stock.

Electric Household was in demand at higher prices, apparently benefiting from the announcement that General Electric has started an intensive campaign for certain products manufactured by Electric Household. The latter firm is affiliated with General Electric through stock holdings. Gleaner Combine was actively traded in, but easier following news from Kansas City that federal court receivers have been appointed to administer the company's affairs.

Receipts yesterday, $6.00; average, $6.15.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 200 cattle, 10,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep.

The general average price of hogs gained 20c on an extremely erratic trade yesterday. Prices were unevenly 10@15c higher, best light and underweights showing the full advance of the day, while heavier hogs and poor quality light finished a shade under the highest point of the forenoon.

The top jumped 35c at $7.75, the highest since last Tuesday, while the average at $7.05 equals the high day of this week and is 10c above last Friday's average. Outside demand was the principal support of the market, taking 35 per cent of fresh receipts, while local interests were bearing down wherever they could. However, only 2,000 hogs were left at the close. The five western markets expects 24,000 today against 25,500 last Saturday.

Monday's Hogs Bid $8.00.

Hogs averaging 170@210 lbs were bid $8.00 for next Monday's delivery as the "to arrive" market yesterday, but there were no sellers at the figure. Hogs averaging 210@260 lbs were bid $7.25 for the same day, and 260@310 lb averages were bid $6.40. Much light were offered at $8.50 and bid $7.75, while April and May light was offered at $9.00 and bid $8.00. Heavy mediums were offered at $8.75 and heavy at $7.50.

The cattle market was a listless affair, with hardly enough on sale to establish a fair list of quotations in all classes. Most sales were made at steer low prices, the bulk being the lowest since May, 1922.

Lambs Sell Stronger.

Despite opposition on the part of most local buyers in the lamb market yesterday, prices were pushed forward a little after a weaker opening. Outsiders bought about half of the day's lamb receipts and local interests had to scramble to fill their orders toward the finish when some sales were considered as much as 10@15c above the previous session.

Numerous loads of selected light lambs reached the $9.00 line to shippers, while 90@95 lb averages to local packers sold at $8.50@8.90. Nebraska fed lambs averaging 92 lbs at the outside figure. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Feeding and shearing lambs brought steady prices.

Possible receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 30,000 to 35,000. F. Knutzen marked 1,000, H. Wolfe, 72,000; S. Lund and F. R. Orb, 70,000; M. J. Berkery, 65,000; E. S. Waterbury, 62,000; F. M. Harwood and W. S. Nicholson, 62,000; C. Britain, 61,000; G. W. Chandler, A. W. Trotter and A. G. Welhener, 60,000; J. M. Waters, 58,000; F. W. Young, 55,000; H. Pattison, 53,000, and W. T. Reneker, 50,000.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Chicago curb stocks fluctuated irregularly yesterday. International Rustless Iron finished unchanged, while De Forest declined more than a point. Hammond Clock moved up a point and McWilliams and Photocolor were steady. Ford Ltd. slipped nearly a point.

FAVORS FEDERAL CONTROL FOR RAIL HOLDING FIRMS

The principal item was compensation given Bird M. Robinson, president of the American Short Line Railroad association, at the rate of $100,000 a year for the entire year 1929 and four months to April 30 of 1930. These payments were approved, the report further stated, by the executive board of the Short Line association, and represented the cost of data and services rendered in connection with consolidation activities.

As to the Pennsylvania system, the investigation disclosed that that company and its affiliate, the Pennroad corporation, had increased stock holdings during the last two or three years, particularly in New England lines, including the Boston and Maine and the New Haven, retaining possession as well of substantial blocks of Norfolk and Western, Lehigh Valley, and Wabash railroad securities.

Others Lack Influence.

Outside of these two groups, the investigation disclosed almost no other cases where holding corporations in the railroad field had accumulated blocks of stocks in two or more railroads sufficiently large to influence management.

A number of investment company holdings were reported upon, but in no case did it appear that more than 3 or 4 per cent of stocks of different railroads had been put into one corporate holding.

"Large individual or family holdings of railroad securities appear to be quite limited," the report observed.

It listed George F. Baker and George F. Baker Jr. as the present possessors of about 434,000 shares of railroad stocks, in the Baltimore and Ohio, Lackawanna, Erie, Great Northern, New York Central, Northern Pacific, and Southern railroads, the proportion amounting to about 10 per cent of the total Lackawanna issue.

Arthur Curtiss James was credited with ownership of 505,000 shares, chiefly of western railroads, $49,000 shares being of one company, the Western Pacific.

Vanderbilt Holdings.

Holdings of the Vanderbilt family, heavily concentrated in the New York Central, were noted as still important, and amounted to about 588,000 shares, of which 238,663 were New York Central and the balance was scattered in the North Western, Union Pacific, and Lackawanna systems.

The Harriman family, whose founder, the late E. H. Harriman, once dominated groups of western railroads, was credited at present with ownership of less than 100,000 shares, the most important of which, as represented by Union Pacific holdings, amounted to less than 2 per cent of the railroad's voting power.

UNION OIL EARNINGS.

Union Oil company of California reports 1930 per share earnings of $2.19, against $3.55 a share in 1929.

WORLD'S WHEAT MARTS RESIST SALES PRESSURE

Winnipeg Reports More Speculative Activity.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The world's wheat markets continue to show stubborn resistance to pressure, and bearish news seemingly has little lasting effect. Cables from Liverpool yesterday claimed the trade there was inclined to be bullish despite the large exportable surplus in the southern hemisphere and the liberal shipments of cash wheat, and that market advanced 1⅛@1¼d for the day, having considerable influence on Chicago and Winnipeg.

The local market was as much as 1⅝c higher at one time with July touching 70¾c, but eased toward the last in sympathiny with a setback in Winnipeg and with corn and closed unchanged to ¼c lower, July being 69¼c, and September 69⅛@69⅞c. Liverpool July closed at equal to 68⅝c.

Cash wheat in the local sample market is selling at about a delivery basis as compared with the March future, and the latter closed unchanged for the day at 79¼c, while the May was wanted by shorts and finished ⅝c higher at 82⅛@82¾c. Winnipeg after advancing 1¾@1⅝c, reacted on local profit taking and closed ⅝@¾c higher with July at 66¾c. Buenos Aires surprised the trade by advancing 1⅝@1¾c, an upturn of around 1c in the exchange rate being a factor.

Seeks to Hold Back Wheat.

According to announcement made at Minneapolis the farm board will pay 2c over the present price for cash wheat to arrive in July. By this it is hoped that some grain will be held back in the country until later in the season. In a radio address S. R. McKelvie, grain member of the farm board, expressed the belief that American farmers would be on a sound domestic basis if they cut down their acreage 25 per cent, and also announced that the stabilization corporation would not be in the market next season.

Messages from Winnipeg indicated that there was a material enlargement in the speculative interest in wheat futures there, with the continued dry weather in the prairie provinces having considerable influence on country speculators who have taken the buying side rather freely. The foreign demand for Manitobas was again disappointing with sales of 300,000 to 400,000 bu in all positions, but there were numerous bids under the market.

Corn Closes Weak.

Corn was firm early with wheat and on scattered commission house buying and short covering. Selling against bids and by local professionals around the best figures disclosed an overbought condition and prices dropped 1⅝@1¾c from the best figures and closed ⅝@¾c lower with March, 63¼c; May, 64⅞@65c; July, 66⅜@66¾c, and September, 66⅛@66¾c. Buying against bids checked the decline.

Outside markets offered cash corn to come here in volume, and purchases of 75,000 bu No. 3 yellow were reported made at the lowest price of the season relative to the May, and the buyer is said to have had offers of 300,000 bu more. No. 2 yellow in the sample market sold at a delivery basis as compared with March. The country sold 20,000 bu to arrive. Buenos Aires finished 1c higher with May at 32¾c.

More Interest in Rye.

Houses with New York connections were reported as aggressive buyers of rye futures at Winnipeg, and the market there at the top showed around 8c above the finish on Wednesday, easing off from the best figures at the last and closed ⅛@¾c lower with May at 34¾c. Winnipeg was credited with selling rye here, but the market advanced early, only to weaken later and close ⅝c lower to ¼c higher, the latter on July, which was 43c at the last, with March 39¾c, and May, 42¾c.

Longs took advantage of a small upturn in oats to secure profits and while prices held within narrow limits the finish was ¼c lower to ¼c higher with March, 32⅝c; May, 33⅝c, and July, 33c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Traders said that the late break in grains showed an absence of outside buying support. The fact that values had advanced early in the day eliminated the short interest and weakened the technical position. There was evidence of an increasing disposition to sell all grains on every little upturn, especially corn. It was said that there was to be between 200,000 and 300,000 bu of corn and nearly as much wheat to come here from Omaha as delivery on March contracts.

Chicago traders who watch Winnipeg closely say that they cannot enthuse over the bullish action of the Winnipeg market, in view of the large supplies and moderate export sales. S. C. Harris, who is in close touch with that market, says it is speculatively overbought, and while we may anticipate a reduction of foreign demand for the cash article on a good decline he does not believe conditions warrant following advances and that a trading market is still indicated.

H. B. Godfrey of the Bartlett Frazier company, who is in Winnipeg, wired that the market is filled with bids for cash wheat; sentiment distinctly bullish with no snow covering over entire western grain belt and dust blowing everywhere.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter was in demand and prices ½c higher. Receipts, 9,484 tubs. Fresh eggs advanced ½c with receipts 17,503 cases. Live hens were steady to 1c lower and other poultry unchanged. Receipts 3 cars and 9 trucks. Potatoes in slower demand and Idahos easier. Receipts, 103 cars with 278 cars on team track.

SHARP BREAK IN COTTON

Offerings of cotton in excess of demand requirements made a weak and declining market yesterday with comparatively little reaction from the break, and the close showed the lowest to a shade above. Liverpool was 7@8 points lower, with spot sales 4,000 bales. There were reports of rain in west Texas and Oklahoma, with no material change in temperatures. Reports from Bombay said that it is apparent a big demand for American goods is to be opened in India, if the Gandhi party has its way. Advices as to textile developments in the Carolinas were said to be more satisfactory, but they failed to bring supporting orders. At the close futures in Chicago were 14@18 points lower and other markets were off 15@21 points. Spots in New York dropped $1.20 a bale, equal to 20 points, with the price 11c. New Orleans declined 15 points to 10.70c. Galveston was 10.80c and Houston 10.75c. Prices follow:
